EXTRACT

From an Act prescribing Rules for the Government of the State Library, passed March 8th, 1861.

SECTION 11. The Librarian shall cause to be kept a register of all books issued and returned; and all books taken by the members of the Legislature, or its officers, shall be returned at the close of the session. If any person injure or fail to return any book taken from the Library, he shall forfeit and pay to the Librarian, for the benefit of the Library, three times the value thereof; and before the Controller shall issue his warrant in favor of any member or officer of the Legislature, or of this State, for his per diem, allowance, or salary, he shall be satisfied that such member or officer has returned all books taken out of the Library by him, and has settled all accounts for injuring such books or otherwise.

SEC. 15. Books may be taken from the Library by the members of the Legislature and its officers during the session of the same, and at any time by the Governor and the officers of the Executive Department of this State, who are required to keep their offices at the seat of government, the Justices of the Supreme Court, the Attorney-General and the Trustees of the Library.

Cheap Enough.

The Albany Argus tells how an editor was pleasantly robbed and gained more than he lost. He was better off than if he had gone to a Church fair: An ex-editor of a Jersey City paper arrived at the Delavan House last evening, and tells the following story: "As he approached the Grand Central Depot, New York, yesterday morning, to take the half-past ten express, he noticed two very pretty and elegantly dressed young ladies, who came up, treated him as an old acquaintance, and he, thinking it a case of mistaken identity, thought he would carry the thing through and have some fun. They informed him that they had procured a section in the drawing-room car, and invited him to take a seat therein. He did so, and enjoyed a very pleasant ride of two hours. On the arrival of the train at Poughkeepsie both the ladies put their arms around his neck and kissed him good-bye. He stepped into the dining-room and ate some lunch, and returned to the train, when, to his dismay and alarm, he found he was minus his pocket-book, containing two ten cent stamps and a five-cent piece."

Cut It Down.

The proposed line of march of the Fourth of July Procession is entirely too long. Weston could stand it with a musket on his shoulder, to say nothing of children and men unused to such fatiguing marches. Be humane, Grand Marshal Norcross, and cut it down one half. Don't kill your men, don't bore the expectant public with a long and tardy procession, and don't keep women and children standing on the sidewalks waiting all day for it to come along. Cut off the Miss on part of it, and cut off that up hill march through Kearny and Broadway. Cut it short.

Come Now! Stop it!

Here's the Chronicle all of a sudden coming out in its old style, pitching into the Alta and going for Foster the medium. It is so long since we have seen an aggressive paragraph in the Chronicle that there must be some reason for this. Has the Chronicle bought off the Sun? Oh, Napthaly! can it be that you too are corruptible? At any rate we are not going to allow this sort of thing to go on. The Chronicle must stop abusing people or FIGARO will begin to talk. Stop it.

Couldn't Scare Her.

Grayville, Ill., claims the coolest woman in the State as a citizen. Her husband told her that he was going down in the cellar to commit suicide, and did go down stairs and fire a broadside into the pork barrel. His wife kept right on knitting, and after awhile the man came up stairs swearing the woman hadn't got any feeling.

Yesterday one of the Call pack was thunderbly afflicted. He yelps thusly:

Our telegraphic dispatches, published yesterday, give an account of three children in Brooklyn, and two in New York, who were bitten by mad or rabid dogs. So many such cases are occurring, that families outht to consider the subject carefully before permitting dogs to be kept in their dwellings.

There never was a mad dog in California and there never need be a mad dog in the Eastern States. The Philadelphia All Day City Item speaking on the subject of madness in dogs thus sums up the matter:

Councils have not yet repealed the ordinance demanding the muzzling of dogs.

We have already shown, by the indisputable evidence of several thoroughly reliable physicians—

1. That dogs seldom are afflicted with rabies in the Summer months.

2. That a clean, well-fed, well-tended dog, never has rabies.

3. That it is a great matter of doubt even yet if there has ever been a real case of hydrophobia. But if delirium and subsequent death result from the bite of a mad dog, the same results would occur from a bite from any other domestic animal under similar circumstances.

Why, therefore, the poor dog must still continue to be tortured with the muzzle, we will leave Councils to determine.

Dr. Stephen Smith, an enlightened New York practitioner, adds his testimony to the rest, and says—

"It cannot be denied that every muzzle more or less embarasses the respiratory functions and bucal transpiration of the creature wearing it, and creates frequently a condition of great nervous disorder in an animal of peculiarly excitable temperament. I have no doubt, therefore, that its use sometimes leads indirectly to the development of rabies, and thus renders dangerous an inoffensive dog."

If the Alta and Call proprietors would muzzle their mad dog editors, they would do the public a service. If they don't FIGARO will feel it a duty to strew some strychned cigars round in the passages leading to their editorial rooms, and thus abate the nuisance.

Jules Janin.

Jules Janin recently died in the seventieth year of his age. Thackeray thus described him in 1843:

Who is Janin? He is the critic of France. J. J. in fact—the man who writes a weekly feuilleton in the Journal des Debats with such indisputable brilliancy and wit, and such a happy mixture of effrontery and honesty, and poetry, and impudence, and falsehood, and impertinence, and good feeling, that one can't fail to be charmed with the compound, and to look rather eagerly for the Monday's paper. Jules Janin is the man who, not knowing a single word of the English language, as he actually professes in the preface, has helped to translate The Sentimental Journey. He is the man who, when he was married (in a week when news was slack no doubt), actually criticised his own marriage ceremony, letting all the public see the proof-sheets of his bridal, as was the custom among certain ancient kings, I believe. In fact, a more modest, honest, unassuming, blushing, truth-telling, gentlemanlike J. J., it is impossible to conceive.

A Reasonable Objection.

A clergyman in Scotland desired his hearers never to call one another "liars;" but when any one said "the thing that was not," they ought to whistle. One Sunday he preached a sermon on the parable of the loaves and fishes; and, being at a loss how to explain it, he said the loaves were not like those now-a-days—they were as big as the hills of Scotland. He had scarcely pronounced these words, when he heard a loud whistle. "Who's that ca's me a liar?" "It is I—Willy Mcdonald, the baker." "Well, Willy, what objection have ye to what I ha' told you?" "None, Mess John; only I want to know what sort of ovens they had to bake those loaves in?"

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

JOE GINESTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Ginesta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

LEAGUE OF FREEDOM

THIS SOCIETY WAS ORGANIZED LAST Tuesday June 16th, by delegates of the "Grocers' Union Trades Union" and "Personal Liberty League." The object of the organization is mutual protection against any infringement upon personal rights. Its principal object now is to work against Local Option. At a meeting held last evening the League of Freedom adopted a Code of Laws. To-day proper agents will canvass the city for members—they are empowered to collect one dollar initiation fee and issue Certificates of Membership. Certificates of Membership may also be obtained at the office of the League, No. 622 Clay street, Room 9, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. By order of Committee.

California Theatre.

E. A. Sothern in the character of Lord Dundreary is crowding the this theatre.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Charles Fechter whose engagement closes on Friday evening, will appear in the thrilling drama of "Love's Penance" this evening.

Opera House.

To-morrow evening, Mme. Duret an actress whose merits are acknowledged by all, will be the recipient of a benefit at this house. The entertainment will commence with a new comedy in three acts entitled "The Coming Woman or the Crusaders" adapted and localized for the occasion by G B. Densmore. Geo. D. Chaplin will play the character of Tom Carberry, a young gentleman of the old school, Madame Duret will appear as Mrs. Barbara Paiger, Champion Crusader and Assessor of San Francisco County, on the marry and wake, and Mrs. Charles Edmunds, Miss Carrie Lloris, Miss Fanny Young, and others are in the cast. This will be followed by a concert by the Misses Albertine and Noko McCabe, Alfred Wilkie, Madame Anna Bishop, Harry Courtaine, and Fam Booth. The evening's entertainment will terminate with the burlesque of "Norma" in which Geo. D. Chaplin will appear as the Druid priestess, and Miss Albertine McCabe as Adelgisa.

The Royal Marionettes.

The wonderful troupe of Marionettes from St. James' Hall and the Crystal Palace, of which we have given several notices while it was on exhibition in the East, will commence an engagement at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening. The troupe is a very large one, and every member of it is of no blemished character. The entertainment is spoken of by all who have witnessed it as the perfection of mimic art. The box office will be open at the Hall on Friday.

Opera House.

The San Francisco Minstrels will open here on Friday night, in a big bill, which includes several new features. One will be a Local Option piece in which Sally Smart and other Oakland Crusaders will appear. The celebrated Japanese Dwarf, only 13 inches high, will also appear. The Minstrels will give a matinee on the Fourth, immediately after the procession passes through Kearny street. On Sunday evening the much talked of Challenge Dances for the Championship and Silver Medals will come off.

Benefit to Madame Duret.

At the benefit to Madame Duret which is to come off at the Opera House on Thursday evening, George D. Chaplain will appear in his great burlesque of "Norma." A feature of the entertainment will be the production of a new comedy entitled "The Coming Woman, or The Crusaders," adapted and localized for the occasion by G. B. Densmore.

Platt's Hall.

Victoria C. Woodhull, who has got into much trouble by telling the truth, but seems determined to persist in doing so, will deliver her final lecture at the above named hall, on Friday evening, July 3d. The title of the lecture will be "The Naked Truth," and Mrs. Woodhull will speak from her personal knowledge of the acts of Henry Ward Beecher, which are at present causing so much talk.

Bella Union Theatre.

J. H. Herne in "Handy Andy," H. R. Archer in ballads, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic gems, Ed Murray in his Budget of Fun, and other attractions to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Going to the Races," "I Want to Be an Actor or I'll get even," and a great variety of other acts will be played to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Holtum Cannon Act, catching a solid ball fired from a mountain howitzer, will be performed Saturday and Sunday. The illuminated balloon ascent Saturday evening.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-bj

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-i

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially [illegible] 2x

AT THE THEATRE.

We stood by the river together,
And bent o'er the water's side;
And we watched the play of the moonlight
That glittered adown the tide.

My dream of life was beginning—
For my dream of love had begun;
And the world was a garden of roses,
I plucking them one by one.

She was the daintiest creature!
That stood in the moonlight there,
With lace on her rounded shoulders,
And a purple gleam in her hair.

And we built the airiest castles,
And whispered the usual things;
In short, 'twas the same old story—
The vows and the charging of rings.

But many a night, when musing
Alone in my bachelor's chair,
I have thought of the lace and the shoulders,
And the purple gleaming hair.

And a memory wakens within me,
From out of the long ago:
The low deep sob and the ripple
Of that river's ebbing flow.

Hush! there's the music beginning;
Yes, she married—a broker in stocks,
And—look at that stout old party—
That is she—in the opposite box!

E. A. Sothern.

Mr. Sothern closed his Chicago engagement in "David Garrick." The Chicago Times said: "Although as regards eccentricity and droll humor Lord Dundreary stands at the head of the stage representations of this accomplished actor, in "David Garrick" he is seen fully at his best in an artistic sense. The story has in itself much to touch the feelings, and interest the imagination. Mr. Sothern, in this subtle and exacting character, meets to the full the greatest anticipations. His portraiture exhibits to the highest degree both his versatility and dramatic genius. It is a dramatic picture, that calls equally for the display of pathos and power, the superficial polish of the man of the world, and the star of the stage, with the refinement of a true gentleman and the self-sacrifice and generosity of a man of high principle. It is the complete union of these several rare requirements that makes his David Garrick at once so subtle and yet charming."

Punch and Fun.

The following conversations are from the English comic papers:

Auntie. "What is Nellie's nose for?"

Nellie (doubtfully). "To smell with."

Auntie. "And what is Nellie's mouth for?"

Nellie (cautiously). "To eat with."

Auntie. "And what are Nellie's ears for?"

Nellie (confidently). "Ear-rings?"

Dick (to friend about to marry). "Pooty is she? Well, wot's 'er cast o' features?"

Harry. "She ain't got no cast in her features—that's in her eye. Her feature is straight enough.

Mrs. Malaprop. "Been to see the Hooshan czar, my dear? Not if I knows it! Why, it was them as shot off my poor boy's leg out in the Chimera!"

A Difference.

We heard a man complain about the weight of his baby the other day, and to our certain knowledge that same man used to hold the mother of that baby in his arms hour after hour after the fond parents of said girl had gone to their virtuous couch.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they stock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Her Majesty's Theatre Sold.

Her Majesty's Theatre, together with a number of houses and shops in Pall Mall, the Opera arcade, in the Haymarket, and the United Hotel and Clergy Club, in Charles street, Haymarket, were sold on the 20th. The property was sold by direction of the trustees of E. H. Holloway. There were twenty-one lots, the first being Her Majesty's Theatre, now held under lease by Earl Dudley, as assignee of Benjamin Lumley, and producing a net income of £1,171-14s. per annum until Michaelmas, 1891, when the lease expires, and the purchaser will be entitled to possession of the remainder of a term expiring in 1912, when the estate falls to the Crown. The auctioneer stated that at the expiration of Lord Dudley's term, the property would become free from any charge, the present right in the boxes and stalls altogether expiring in 1891, which would considerably enctance the annual value of the property. There could be no doubt that it was one of the finest theatres in the world, and why it had been closed so long he was unable to say, and more especially so when it was known that there were now tenants ready to come forward prepared to give a rental of £5,000 a year for it and spend £20,000 on the building. He then stated that the property must be sold, as the trustees did not wish to hold it any longer. The property was knocked down at £31,000, to Mr. Last, solicitor, who was understood to have purchased the theatre for a principal whose name was not mentioned. The next lots offered were the Opera-arcade property, held under the same terms of lease as the theatre. Four of these lots consisted of the houses and shops, Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 5 1-2 Pall Mall, the two first lots being sold for £4,500 each, and the two last for £4,000 each, making a total of £17,000. Thirteen lots, consisting of shops in the Opera-arcade, were next offered, and eight of these lots were sold for an aggregate sum of $8,680, five of the lots being withdrawn. The remaining portion of the property, consisting of the United Hotel and Clergy Club, comprising Nos. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24 Charles street, and 71 Haymarket, was next sold for £27,000, Mr. Cooper, solicitor, being the purchaser. The entire proceeds of the sale amounted to £83,680.

Newspaper Etiquette.

In some brief reminiscences of Thackeray in the July number of Scribner's Magazine we find the following: His connection with Fraser's Magazine was the subject of conversation, and the right of an editor to change the "copy" of his contributors was discussed. Thackeray maintained that no such right existed, except as regarded errors of grammar, and declared that the only person who could make alterations for the better was the author himself; as a rule, editorial changes were blunders. "I told an editor so once, and he did not like it, 'I have no objections to your putting your hoofs on my paragraphs,' I remarked, 'but I decidedly object to your sticking your ears through them.'" "He never forgave you, of course." "I never thought to ask."

Not a Bad Recommendation.

The lady principal of a school, in her advertisement, mentioned her lady assistant and the "reputation for teaching which she bears;" but the printer left out the "which," so the advertisement went forth commending the lady's "reputation for teaching she bears."

Couldn't Understand his French.

"Can you direct me to the Maison Doree?" said a gentleman to a boy on Washington-street the other day. "No, sir, replied the urchin, "but there's a mason and whitener's opposite; won't that do as well?'

Strawberries! Strawberries

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-f

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

THURSDAY.....JULY 2, 1874

Whole-Souled Men.

The following appears in a morning contemporary:

A complimentary dinner is to be given to Hon. B. P. Avery, United States Minister to China, at the Grand Hotel, July 8th.

The names of the gentlemen who are getting up this banquet, are not published, but we think everyone will guess who are at the head and front of it. Of course this is a well-deserved compliment paid by Messrs. Pickering and Fitch of the Evening Bulletin, to one who did so much to advance the interest of their papers. No city in the world can boast of such newspaper proprietors as those of San Francisco—no city would boast of them.

Isn't There Some Mistake.

That very funny man who is engaged to write, collate and "convey" paragraphs for the Brevity column of the Alta has the following in this morning's issue:

There was a painful rumor on the street yesterday, that a man had attacked the editor of FIGARO and made three unsuccessful attempts to "chuck a head on him." The rumor was chased up and found to be premature. The man who had expressed the desire to perform the act was discovered, but he had "weakened" after contemplating the chances of missing against those of hitting so diminutive a target.

We think there must be some mistake here. Won't some one tell that poor Brevity man before he runs into danger?

Genial Mr. Tilton.

In an interview between a reporter of the Brooklyn Eagle and Theodore Tilton is represented as saying that the letter which has caused such a sensation: "Was written and sent to him by Beecher, and that he had only printed a portion of it, because the remainder bore more heavily on Beecher than the portion quoted." The conduct of Mr. Tilton, in this instance, reminds us of that of the kind-hearted man who, wishing to cut off four inches of his dog's tail, cut off half an inch at a time in order to make it easier for him.

Comforting.

The young and handsome wife of a Salinas valley farmer recently visited San Francisco to do a little shopping, ran short of coin; wrote to husband for a round sum; got it, also got a letter advising her to "go slow," dry season, poor crops, etc. The lady in reply wrote: "Never mind, hubby; we will have good crops next year; I have bought a waterfall large enough to irrigate the entire ranch."

A Warning.

A Kansas boy earned a Bible by committing three hundred Bible verses to memory. Then he went and traded his Bible for a shot-gun and accidentally peppered the leg of his Sunday-school teacher. This is either a warning to boys not to commit Bible verses to memory, or to Sunday-school teachers not to teach them. We don't know which is right.

Poor Brute!

"For twenty long years," says a New Jersey paper, "the wolf stood at this poor widow's door." To keep a wolf standing that long is nothing less than cruelty to animals, and the attention of Bergh is called to the circumstance.

Them's Noggins.

The La Porte, Ind., correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, tells how no license works in that place: "Them's noggins," said my guide. "We doesn't call 'em drinks any more; 'taint popular."

"And what are the castereens?" I asked.

"Oh, them little fellers in the vials we call castereens; but you can just as well call 'em all noggins, and done with it."

"It's a good time for bottles," said Wilcox. "I've sold over 200 of these two-ounce vials since yesterday morning, and have had to order several cases more."

"How's this thing going to work?" said I. (If I were to give you all the answers I got in five minutes to this question it would fill two of your widest columns.)

"Work!" exclaimed a thin man with a struggling moustache and a falsetto voice. "She won't work at all."

"Yes, she will," chimed in a second, resting his elbows on a show-case and gazing longingly at a row of Hostetter's bitters that adorned the top shelf on the opposite side. "Yes, she will. At least that's my opinion."

"I think it will cause more drinking than ever for awhile," spoke up a gentleman who was evidently a little puzzled over the question: "but after awhile, when the boys get over their mad fit and cool down a little, they'll hardly go into the alley to drink, and the loafing-places being closed or having lost their chief attraction, there'll be a great falling-off."

"But won't they everlastingly get drunk in their rooms?" said a healthy and cheerful-looking young man, blinking his eyes and looking happy at the prospect.

"O, no; I guess not!"

This brought an ancient patriarch to his feet, who deliberately closed his right eye and waved the index finger of his left hand in a solemn manner, while he thus expressed himself:

"I tell ye, gen'le-mun, she won't work. She wen't work a-tall. 'Taint nat'ral. Some men's stumicks long fur s-s-stim'lunts. They don't get drunk. They'd scorn it. But they don't relish their victuals, and their d'gestion is as lazy as a fourteen-year-old boy hoein' corn for twenty cents a day, and boardin' hisself. Licker stirs 'em up. It's like lettin' the warm sun onto a cold kitten. In five minutes they're as playful and frolicky as a wriggler in a rain barrel. Look at me! I'm as stupid as laudanum, and all for the want of my reg'lar horn;" and he sighed and looked inexpressibly melancholy.

"Why don't you try a castareen?" asked one.

"Castareen nothing," responded the other, contemptuously. "I takes my bitters re-respectable, or I don't take 'em a-tall;" and with this he went out of the store with a lonesome expression which suggested emigration or suicide.

The Libretto.

A gentleman, recently from abroad and a lover of church music, inquired of the clerk of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on his first Sunday morning, where he could hear the best church music. He was recommended to —— Church, where the fugues and things were of the highest. Thither he went, and was shown into a pew in which a lady sat. At the commencement of the first chant, madam, with the usual politeness of American ladies, handed the stranger a prayer-book, pointing to the chant. It was politely received, but soon closed. At the second chant, madam repeated the offer, when, turning to her with a polite bow, the gentleman said, "Thank you, but I seldom use the libretto."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind.",

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,;
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Literary Laundress.

A bashful journalistic reporter on the staff of a well known Parisian journal is famed for his dislike of the traditional note book of his race, and has hit upon a method of taking his professional notes unobserved by those surrounding him. He wears large white linen cuffs to his shirt, and nonchalantly jots his impressions on those with the most microscopic of pencils. At first his laundress was greatly puzzled with the hieroglyphically inscribed manchettes of her client, but after a while learned the meaning of the signs, and thus gathered the news of the week while pursuing her avocation. One day she astonished M. X. by remarking, "Your last washing was very interesting, only you didn't give us enough political news."

A Scientist's Troubles.

The misfortunes of a scientist are thus detailed by the St. Louis Globe: "Professor—of course—Newmarsh, of New Orleans, was selling a patent kerosine rectifier, by using which the most non-explosive fluid was rendered perfectly safe, when his sample article interrupted his laudatory remarks by exploding, burning off his hair and most of his epidermis, and generally reducing him to the condition of a dog who has tried vainly to steal a beefsteak out of a kitchen on washing-day. As soon as he recovers he will take the stump and expose humbugs."

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. F. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

FOURTH OF JULY!

HEADQUARTERS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, 605 Clay street, near Montgomery.

THE COMMITTEE ON INVITATIONS ARE now sending out invitations to the numerous Orders, Societies, Organizations, etc., in this city AND CITY OF OAKLAND, to join in the Procession on the approaching Anniversary of our National Independence. Fearing, however, that some may be inadvertently overlooked and that perhaps there may be thereby engendered a feeling that an act of injustice had been committed the Committee desires thus publicly to extend a cordial and heartfelt invitation to all organized bodies in the city, and in the CITY OF OAKLAND, to take part in the celebration of the Nation's Birthday. A splendid procession is already assured. Let all join it in the spirit in which this invitation is tendered, and it will be a triumph surpassing all former celebrations of the day in this city. An early response is especially requested, so that the Grand Marshal may be able to assign the bodies accepting their appropriate positions in the line.

It is proposed to organize a company of "ANTIQUE AND HORRIBLES," to take part in the Procession. All desiring to join will please communicate with the Chairman of the Invitati Committee.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Fechter will appear this evening in "Love's Penance" for the last time. To-morrow night he will take his benefit and present his great impersonation of Claude Melnotte, in "The Lady of Lyons." There will be a grand Fourth of July matinee, when "Married Life" and "The Bonnie Fishwife" will constitute the bill.

California Theatre.

"Our American Cousin" with Mr. Sothern as Lord Dundreary, will be performed this evening, and also at the Fourth of July matinee.

Opera House.

This evening, Madame Duret, an actress whose merits are acknowledged by all, will be the recipient of a benefit at this house. The entertainment will commence with a new comedy in three acts entitled "The Coming Woman or the Crusaders" adapted and localized for the occasion by G. E. Densmore. Geo. D. Chaplin will play the character of Tom Carberry, a young gentleman of the old school, Madame Duret will appear as Mrs. Barbara Badger, Champion Crusader and Assessor of San Francisco County, on the marry and make, and Mrs. Charles Edmunds, Miss Carrie Lipsis, Miss Fanny Young, and others are in the cast. This will be followed by a concert by the Misses Albertine and Noko McCabe, Alfred Wilkie, Madame Anna Bishop, Harry Courtain and Sam Booth. The evening's entertainment will terminate with the burlesque of "Norma" in which Geo. D. Chaplin will appear as the Druid priestess, and Miss Albertine McCabe as Adelgisa.

Platt's Hall.

Victoria C. Woodhull who has got into much trouble by telling the truth, but seems determined to persist in doing so, will deliver her final lecture at the above named hall, on Friday evening, July 3d. The title of the lecture will be "The Naked Truth," and Mrs. Woodhull will speak from her personal knowledge of the acts of Henry Ward Beecher, which are at present causing so much talk.

The Royal Marionettes.

The wonderful troupe of Marionettes from St. James' Hall and the Crystal Palace, of which we have given several notices while it was on exhibition in the East, will commence an engagement at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening. The troupe is a very large one, and every member of it is of unblemished character. The entertainment is spoken of by all who have witnessed it as the perfection of mimic art. The box office will be open at the Hall on Friday.

Spanish Performance.

Luque's Spanish Dramatic Company will give an extra performance at this theatre on Sunday night. The grand five act drama of "Masaniello, or the Liberator of Naples" will be played on this occasion.

Opera House.

The San Francisco Minstrels will open here on Friday night, in a big bill, which includes several new features. One will be a Local Option piece in which Sally Smart and other Oakland Crusaders will appear. The celebrated Japanese Dwarf, only 13 inches high, will also appear. The Minstrels will give a matinee on the Fourth, immediately after the procession passes through Kearny street. On Sunday evening the much talked of Challenge Dances for the Championship and Silver Medals will come off.

Bella Union Theatre.

James A. Herne in "Handy Andy," Col. Mandeville in sensation songs, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic songs, and many other attractive performances are presented at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers, Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, Miss Carrie Willis, and host of other favorite artists appear here nightly in a great bill.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Holtum Cannon Act, catching a solid ball fired from a mountain howitzer, will be performed Saturday and Sunday. The illuminated balloon ascent Saturday evening.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush, From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-i

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

BOTH SIDES.

A man in his carriage was riding along,
A gaily dressed wife by his side;
In satin and laces she looked like the queen
And he like a king in his pride.

A wood sawyer stood on the street as they passed;
The carriage and couple he eyed;
And said, as he worked with a saw on a log,
"I wish I was rich and could ride."

The man in the carriage remarked to his wife
"One thing I would give if I could—
I'd give my wealth for the strength and the health
Of the man who sawed the wood."

A pretty young maid, with a bundle of work,
Whose face, as the morning, was fair,
Went tripping along with a smile of delight,
While humming a love-breathing air.

She looked on the carriage; the lady she saw,
Arrayed in apparel so fine,
And said in a whisper, "I wish from my heart
Those satins and laces were mine."

The lady looked out on the maid with her work,
So fair in her calico dress,
And said, "I'd relinquish position and wealth
Her beauty and youth to possess."

Thus it is in the world, whatever our lot,
Our minds and our time we employ
In longing and sighing for what we have not,
Ungrateful for what we enjoy.

Woman's Rights.

The following are the opening sentences of an address on this subject by Mrs. Mose Skinner:

Miss President, feller wimmin, and male trash generally: I am here to-day for the purpose of discussing woman's rights, recussing her wrongs and cussing the men.

I believe sexes were created perfectly equal, with the women a little more equal than the men.

I also believe that the world would to-day be happier if man had never existed.

As a success, man is a failure, and I bless my stars my mother was a woman. [Applause.]

I not only maintain their principles but maintain a shiftless husband besides.

They say man was created first—Well, 'spose he was. Ain't first experiments always failures?

If I was a betting man, I would bet $2:50 they are.

The only decent thing about him was a rib, and that went to make something better. [Applause.]

And then they throw into our faces about taking an apple. I'll bet five dollars that Adam boosted her up the tree and only gave her the core.

And what did he do when he was found out? True to his masculine instincts, he sneaked behind Eve's Grecian bend and said, "Twan't me; 'twas her," and women had to father everything and mother it, too.

What we want is the ballot, and the ballot we're bound to have, if we have to let down our back hair and swim in a sea of gore. [Sensation.]

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Value of a Voice.

There is almost always this consolation in store for the possessor of a singing voice, no matter how trifling it may be: that a living may be gained by it. If you cannot be a Nilsson or a Pratt, a Faure or a Santley, you are pretty sure of being able to get a situation as a concert singer, for these artists are of all grades of ability. It may seem a terrible thing that a singer should always aim at the grand opera and succeed in hitting nothing higher than the stage of a variety theatre; but as a practical person I should say that it certainly would be better for a voice-worker to do that than to remain a needle-woman or a shop-girl—for the simple reason that a popular singer in a variety theatre receives an income worth that of a dozen needle-women or shop-girls. It may surprise my readers to know that such a singer receives seventy-five or a hundred dollars a week; but it is true. Those who are recognized first-class stars of that sphere are even paid two hundred dollars and upward; but these are men and women of special talent for comedy as well as vocalism. The most ordinary singers of this class—mere fair-faced girls with small voices and smaller culture—get twenty or thirty dollars a week. How many needle-women or shop-girls get as much?

Between the variety theatre and the grand opera what a world of various opportunities lies! And what abundance of talent has grown from the lower grades to the higher! Adelina Patti rising from a concert troupe, and Christine Nilsson from out-door singing in the streets of the cities of her native land, are familiar examples of one sort; Castle, the graceful tenor, and Campbell, the high bass, rising from the stage of a minstrel company, are equally familiar examples of another sort. The great point with singers, as with other workers, is always to strive to do their work well. Then the result will be worthy, whatever the scene. Parepa-Posa employed every shade of her perfect art in singing "Five o'clock in the morning," as faithfully as she did when singing in an opera or an oratorio.—Galaxy.

A Solomon of a Judge.

The following tale comes from Ireland: Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man being from Connaught, immediately seized a lump of stone and let fly at the head of the opponent, who dropped his head and missed the stone, which went through an expensive plate-glass window and did much damage. A magistrate was called upon next morning to determine which of the two should pay the cost. The evidence clearly showed that the aim was a good one, and that if the second man had not dipped his head he would have been struck, "Therefore," said the magistrate, "he must pay the damages, as it is certain the first man didn't intend to injure the window, and the window would not have been injured if it had not been for the act of dodging on the part of the second man."

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Kate Bateman will play Lady Macbeth to the Macbeth of Henry Irving, at the London Lyceum Theatre next season.

London is to have a new Juliet at the Haymarket, of which much is expected in private circles. This Juliet is a married lady, moving in very good society, who-se "at homes" are attended by poets, baronets and others, and whose husband is a well known authority on Indian affairs. The stage name of the debutante is to be Mrs. Fairfax, and she has been carefully coached in her Shakespeare by Mrs. Stirling.

During the performance of "I Puritani" at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, Mme. Jenny Lind Goldschmidt, who was a spectator, went behind the curtain, and warmly thanked Mlle. Emma Albani for the gratification her singing afforded her.

There was an unprecedented deluge of piano recitals in London during the last week in May. The performers were of various nationalities: English, Russian, Saxon, French and German, but a fair pianist from the banks of the Neva carried off the principal share of the honors. The name of Essipoff is now all potent in London.

Lecocq has nearly succeeded in eclipsing the popularity of Offenbach in Paris.

Mr. Maurice Grau has secured the Emily Soldene comic opera company, of London, for the Lyceum Theatre in the fall.

Mr Carl Rosa has returned to London from Germany.

Nilsson sang recently at Sims Reeves' benefit in London.

The death is announced in England of the celebrated elocutionist, John Chippendale Montesquieu Bellew, who was so popular in this country last season and the preceding one. He was born in 1823, and was by his mother a member of the Irish Bellew family. He was educated at Lancaster and Oxford, took orders in 1848. In 1850 he became curate of Prescot, and in 1851 went to the East Indies as Chaplain to St. John's Cathedral, Calcutta. In 1855 he returned to England, and remained for a time at St. Phillip's Church, Regent street. In 1862 he became incumbent of Bedford Chapel, Bloomsbury. He subsequently forsook the pulpit for the rostrum, and a few years ago publicly avowed his connection with the Roman Catholic religion. As a reader he had no living equal. He twice visited America, and was well received on each occasion. On the occasion of his last visit a few months ago, his health failed him, and he returned to England only, however, to die. He has written and published several able works, but he will be chiefly remembered as a reader of great excellence.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Hints on Sleep.

To literary men, preachers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, journalists and brain-workers in general, the following hints are exceedingly worth attention: The fact is, that as life becomes concentrated, short sleep and early rising become impossible. We take more sleep than our ancestors, and we take more sleep because we want more. Six hours sleep will do very well for ploughman, or bricklayers, or any other man, who has no exhaustion but that produced by manual labor, and the sooner he takes it after the labor the better. But for the man whose labor is mental, the stress is on his brain and nervous system, and for him who is tired in the evening with mental application neither early to bed nor early to rise is wholesome. He needs letting down to the level of repose. The longer interval between the active use of the brain and the retirement to bed, the better his chance of sleep and refreshment. To him an hour after midnight is possibly as good as two before it, and even then his sleep will not so completely restore him as it will his neighbor who is physically tired. His best sleep is in the early morning hours, when all the nervous excitement has passed away, and he is in absolute rest.

A Position to be Desired.

The Milwaukee Sentinel thus epitomizes the daily life of an editor-in-chief. From the plaintive tone of the last sentence the writer intimates that he knows how it is himself: "The young man who is fitting himself for a journalistic career asks us if the chief editor's position is difficult. On the contrary it is the most comfortable place on the paper. He has only to dash off a few columns of editorials a day and then enjoy himself. All the good-looking women with poems are shown into his rooms, and he smokes all the cigars sent in for the reporters. He receives invitations to deliver addresses at country fairs, and carries home the best of the books sent in for review. When he hasn't anything else to do he looks over copy and carefully runs his pencil through the joke the writer struggled four hours with and considered his masterpiece."

Time's Healing Finger.

It is reviving to know that sorrow doesn't always kill—that hearts don't break or bust as easily as banks. There's Mr. Solooff, for instance. Six months ago his wife died, and he expressed a determination to not survive her. He even hinted of laudanum, looked wild when he passed a gunsmith's, and his friends watched him with care when he approached near even to a duck-pond. But time set it healing finger on him, and last week he led to the altar a fair lady, whom he told he had never loved until he had seen her. Should she die, he'll probably have the same sad experience. It's only those who've been bereaved half a dozen times of a beloved wife or husband who can bear their sad loss with becoming equanimity.

Couldn't Scare Her.

Grayville, Ill., claims the coolest woman in the State as a citizen. Her husband told her that he was going down in the cellar to commit suicide, and did go down stairs and fire a broadside into the pork barrel. His wife kept right on knitting, and after awhile he man came up stairs swearing the woman hadn't got any feeling.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Seamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Seamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England clothe, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Seamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance; with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Seamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Stouda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6 m

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. LEAGUE OF FREEDOM

THIS SOCIETY WAS ORGANIZED LAST Tuesday June 16th, by delegates of the "Grocers' Union Trades Union" and "Personal Liberty League." The object of the organization is mutual protection against any infringement up on personal rights. Its principal object now is to work against Local Option. At a meeting held last evening the League of Freedom adopted a Code of Laws. To-day proper agents will canvass the city for members—they are empowered to collect one dollar initiation fee and issue Certificates of Membership. Certificates of Membership may also be obtained at the office of the League, No. 622 Clay street, Room 9, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. By order of Committee.

FOURTH OF JULY!

HEADQUARTERS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, 605 Clay street, near Montgomery.

THE COMMITTEE ON INVITATIONS ARE now sending out invitations to the numerous Orders, Societies, Organizations, etc., in this city AND CITY OF OAKLAND, to join in the Procession on the approaching Anniversary of our National Independence. Fearing, however, that some may be inadvertently overlooked and the perhaps there may be thereby engendered a feeling that an act of injustice had been committed the Committee desires thus publicly to extend a cordial and heartfelt invitation to all organized bodies in the city, and in the CITY OF OAKLAND, to take part in the celebration of the Nation's Birthday. A splendid procession is already assured. Let all join it in the spirit in which this invitation is tendered, and it will be a triumph surpassing all former celebrations of the day in this city. An early response is especially requested, so that the Grand Marshal may be able to assign the bodies accepting, their appropriate positions in the line.

It is proposed to organize a company of "ANTIQUE AND HORRIBLES," to take part in the Procession. All desiring to join will please communicate with the Chairman of the Invitation Committee.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The rush to see Mr. Sothern in his world-renowned character of "Lord Dundreary in "Our American Cousin" continues unabated. This piece will be played through the week, and at the Fourth of July matinee. On Monday Robertson's comedy of "Home" will be produced with Mr. Sothern and Miss Bella Pateman in the cast.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—To-night that admirable artist, Charles Fechter, will take his farewell benefit and make his last appearance at this house. San Francisco owes to itself to make this benefit an evidence of the appreciation of high art which should (if it does not) prevail in this cosmopolitan city. A greater actor than Charles Fechter has never trodden the boards in this city. He is uneven in his excellence, but he is always a true artist. Whenever there is any fault in his performance it is to be attributed to physical disability. "The Lady of Lyons" will be the play to-night, with Mr. Fechter in his great impersonation of Claude Melnotte. We trust that portion of the public capable of appreciating the perfection of histrionic art wedded to genius will take this opportunity of rendering an ovation to so worthy an exponent as Charles Fechter. At the matinee to-morrow "Married Life" and "The Bonnie Fishwife" will constitute the entertainment.

OPERA HOUSE.—This evening the San Francisco Minstrels, comprising some of the most popular performers in the State whose names appear on our first page, will commence a short season at this house. The bill for to night will consist of a capital first part, an amusing interlude, and a screaming afterpiece. After the first part, Carroll and Butler will appear in the double song and dance "Down Among the Dahlias," next the White Brothers, who have remarkably fine voices will sing a duet, Japanese Tommy, only thirteen inches high will make his appearance, Geo. Thompson will sing his ballad "My Gal," presented to him by the author, that old California favorite, Walter Bray, J. M. Davis and F. C. Warner will sing "Larboard Watch," George Wallace, Charley Nickerson and H. Mortoe, will appear in the local burlesque act of McCullough – Booth – Feehter. Mestayer and White will appear in the song and dance "Walking in the Starlight" Geo. Thompson will appear in his inimitable speciality of "Old Black Joe," and the performance will terminate with the laughable burlesque entitled "Local Option or the Female Crusaders," in which Charles Nickerson, will appear as Snoozer, George Wallace as Sally Smart, Geo. Thompson as Flopping Pitts, H. Morton as Jerry Fanalin, and others as Church fiends, local opticlists, etc. To-morrow an extraordinarily attractive matinee will be given at which Johnny Tuers, one of the most eccentric and talented of all San Francisco minstrels will appear in his great speciality of "The Oakland Ghost" as played by him nearly three hundred nights. There will also be a performance in the evening, and the season will close on Sunday night with a grand challenge dance.

SPANISH DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.—Sr. Luque's Spanish Dramatic Company will give an extra performance at this theatre on Sunday night. The grand five act drama of "Masaniello, or the Liberator of Naples" will be played on this occasion.

MADAME DORET'S BENEFIT. — Madame Doret's benefit last night at the Opera House was not as well attended as it should have been. All present enjoyed the performance much. "The Crusaders" caused considerable laughter, Mme. Duret playing the part of Mrs. Badger capitally and C. D. Chaplin making a good deal out of Tom Carberry. This was followed by a musical olio and the performance terminated with the burlesque of "Norma" in which G. D. Chaplin was a huge success as the Druid Priestess, and the Misses Albertine and Noko McCabe acted with much spirit and sang charmingly.

NEW BELLA UNION THEATRE. — James A. Herne one of the funniest Irish comedians living, is creating a perfect furore at this house in the comic drama of "Handy Andy," Miss Alice Ross, Ed Murray, Jennie Johnson, H. R. Archer, and a host of others appear nightly. A monster Fourth of July bill has been prepared. It is published on our first page.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Johnny Tuers and Ned Buckley appear nightly at this house in screaming acts, Miss Ida Fisk the popular song and dance artiste, Miss Carrie Willis vocalist, Miss Maggie Brewer and many others take part in the programme.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—A GREAT ACT.—The Holtum Cannon Act, catching a solid ball fired from a mountain howitzer, will be performed Saturday and Sunday. The illuminated balloon ascent Saturday evening.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOTES.—The champion medals to be awarded for the best light double song and dance to be contested for after the regular minstrel performances at the Opera House on Sunday night, are the size of a trade dollar, and are very handsomely got up by Laird, the manufacturing jeweler on Merchant street. They will be on exhibition to-day and evenings at Sherman & Hyde's corner of Kearny and Sutter street, and on Saturday and Sunday at Eppinger's cigar store Kearny below Bush street.

Joe Murphy has returned to this city after a trout hunt in Pescadero Creek. He brought back over 400 speckled wagtails with him.

Carroll, Butler, Mestayer, White, Williams and Willis, have entered their names for the neat song and dance contest for the champion medals at the Opera House, on Sunday night, July 5th. The contest will be a very spirited one.

Cotton, Arlington and others of the new combination of minstrel talent engaged by Manager Maguire will arrive here on Saturday the 4th.

Victoria C. Woodhull who has got into much trouble by telling the truth, but seems determined to persist in doing so, will deliver her final lecture at the above named hall, on Friday evening, July 3d. The title of the lecture will be "The Naked Truth," and Mrs. Woodhull will speak from her personal knowledge of the acts of Henry Ward Beecher, which are at present causing so much talk.

Charles Fechter, Lizzie Price, Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. Millais will leave for New York on the morrow.

The charming comedy of "Extremes" will be played at Maguire's New Theatre on Monday.

The season of the Royal Marionettes will commence at Platt's Hall on Tuesday July 7th. The programme will comprise negro minstrels, fantoni and pantomime, closing with a magnificent transformation scene. We prophecy great popularity for this novel entertainment.

Lew Rattler will act as one of the judges at the Song and Dance contest for the Champion Medals at the Opera House, on Sunday night.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York nearly every theatre is closed. The attractions for the Summer season are not very large, and the audiences are proportionately small. The only item of interest is the following which we take from last New York Clipper received: An injunction was granted in the Superior Court during the past week prohibiting Charles R. Thorne, Sr., the manager of Niblo's Garden from producing "The Two Orphans," as had been announced for June 22. The injunction was procured by the managers of the Union-Square Theatre, who claim that they purchased the drama of "Les Deux Orphelines" from the author before it had been acted upon any stage, and that under the common law their sole right to their property therein can be maintained and protected. A hearing will be had this week to determine whether or not the injunction shall be perpetual. The manager of Niblo's Garden announces for this evening a new play entitled "The Two Sisters, or the Deformed," the story, plot, scene and incidents of which are localized for the city of New York. The matter of the injunction was set down for argument to-day, in the Supreme Court Chambers; but the Court, being engaged in the trial of another case, adjourned the hearing until Tuesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. Before the adjournment was settled, the counsel for the defendant stated that they had arranged to perform a piece called "The Two Sisters" for to-night, and did not know whether it was claimed that the performance of that piece would be a violation of the injunction. Plaintiffs' counsel distinctly stated that they did so claim, and would move to punish the defendants for a contempt of Court, if it turned out that the performance of "The Two Sisters" was but an evasion of the order of this Court, as they believed it to be. The Court stated that they were not in the habit of permitting the orders of the Court to be violated or evaded, and that any performance of a play similar to "The Two Orphans" would be at the risk of the defendants.

Delehanty and wife, Thomas Hengler and their agent, E. Stanley, sailed for Europe on the 27th ult., by the steamship Queen.

Olive Logan Sykes stars next season. She will sail from Liverpool on the Adriatic on July 9 for this city.

Mr. Wellack acted 195 times during the season lately closed at his theatre.

Prof. Hermann, the magician, is performing in Philadelphia, at the Walnut Street Theatre.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says of M. Alphonse: "It hasn't the long-winded, sharp-cornered, unreasonableness of Bartley Campbell's plays, although it abounds in that special delight of his—tears, and the emotional spectator should go provided with plenty of the hemstitched, a bucket and an umbrella."

Mme. Janauschek's Fall company will be composed of the following ladies and gentlemen: Mrs. Isabella G. Ashton and child, and Mrs. Minnie Monk, Isabella Preston and Kate Fletcher, and Geo. D. Chaplain, J. Sefton, A. D. Bradley, John Morton, W. G. Shine, and J. B. Ashton; A. Joel, business manager. Mme. Janauschek will open her season at the Lyceum theatre, in this city.

The Majilton Family have engaged Miss Blanch Coleridge, a pleasing young English actress, for their Fall tour in this country.

A new theatre will be opened in Charleston, S. C., under the management of John T. Ford, of Baltimore, about November 1st.

Mr. J. P. Kilbourne will play in "The Swamp Angels," at Wood's Museum, during the week commencing July 6th.

Mlle. Ristori will play Lady Macbeth, in English, on the occasion of her next visit to this country, in March next.

The Chicago people have been favorably impressed with the acting of Miss Ada Dyas. The Inter-Ocean, of Tuesday last, said: "Miss Dyas has won a very high place in the esteem of the Chicago public. No actress that has appeared here of late years can at all compare with her in emotional parts, and last evening's requirements seemed to develop even greater power than had before been seen. Her Raymonde, in its pure integrity, womanly tenderness, easy power, and winning grace, is one of the most finished pieces of acting we have ever seen. Nothing was wanting to make it perfectly natural; a point few actresses reach."

There was an important arrival at Barnum's on the 17th ult., It was that of the largest black rhinoceros ever exhibited. He weighs 9,500 pounds, or 2,200 pounds more than the largest rhinoceros in the London Zoological Gardens. His body is encased in a heavy leather-like hide, which overlaps at the joints, making folds nearly two inches thick. His legs are short and stumpy, and his tail resembles the blacksnake's used by teamsters in the Western country. His head is covered with the same thick hide which envelops his body, and upon his forehead and about his eyes and ears it is piled up like plates. The animal had a large, sharp horn, which projected from his snout just above his nostrils, but the monster's head was chained down, and, in spite of his angry snorts and endeavors to get away, this horn was sawed off close to his snout. A cage upon wheels was made on purpose for the rhinoceros' accommodations. It is heavily barred with steel upon the sides and front. His head is chained to a stout beam, and heavy oak plank prevents his backing. There is barely room for the rhinoceros to stand and lie in. If he was given more space his immense strength would enable him to break from all restraint, and the havoc he would make, if loose, may be imagined but cannot be estimated. His immense weight may be realized from the fact that when the cage containing him was drawn into the Hippodrome, the wheels crushed through the concrete flooring in many places to the depth of from two to three inches. He is now on exhibition at the Hippodrome.

Norristown, Pa., is having a pretty and commodious opera house built. It will be ready for opening in August.

The Majiltons, now successfully performing in London, have reorganized their eccentric comedy company and have added "Quicksilver Dick" to their repertoire "Gabriel Grub" has also been reconstructed, and quite a number of engagements have been made by their agent, Col. T. Allsten Brown, for the ensuing season.

An Indian tribe in Wisconsin has organized a brass band and, as the savages are protected by the Government, the white people have no redress. There is great deal of hard feeling among the citizens towards the young aborigine who plays the cymbals. He performs with such earnestness and vigor that a vigilance committee has been organized to waylay him and take him apart, in order to ascertain whether he is a real Indian or is merely rivated together and ran with a steam engine. The manner in which he wakes the echoes amid the everlasting hills would make a cumbs. He goes calmly around among his little family, removes their hair, and scalps the biggest and colored boy, and after taking up the collection, he hands the whole lot of bunches over to the band, which goes off happy to sweet strains from the harmonic young cymbal player.

Barry Sullivan will probably visit America this year, Sam Coltille having offered him £6 000 for thirty weeks.

Phillip Phillips, the "Lamb of Israel," was to sing "Put me in my Little Bed," and "Come Home Father, Come Home," at Oneida, N. Y., 19th.

Edwin Adams will spend his Summer vacation with Joe Jefferson, at Rice Lake, N. Y., having rented his Long Branch residence for the Summer months to Robert Fox of Philadelphia.

Frank Mayo and Rosa Rand returned to New York city, 16th ultimo, having concluded a seven weeks' tour in the New England cities, with "Davy Crockett."

As the old Louisville Theatre is undergoing demolition to make room for the Courier-Journal building, the following are a few items connected with Louisville dramatic annals. A paper published at Bedford, Pa., in 1808, says: At Louisville, in the State of Kentucky, a town about four times as large as Bedford, they have no church. When the earthquake gave them the first shock they grew very devout in one night; and on the next day, with long faces, they subscribed $1,000 to build a house of public worship. There the matter rested until the second shock came, when another devout paroxysm produced another $1,000. It rested again until the third earthquake and devout fit produced another subscription to the same amount. There was no more of the matter. The earthquake did not return, and the Louisvillians concluded the devil would not send for them for a few years more, and in the meantime determined to be merry. They immediately built a theatre, which cost them $7,000, and employed a company of actors, the offscourings of maritime city theatre. To this company they gave about $500 per week, till at length the actors, instead of raising the curtain, broke through it, and broke each other's heads with sticks, and the heads of some of the auditors who interfered. The earthquakes have lately begun to shake Louisville again, but whether they laugh or pray I have not heard."

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Aimee Troupe opened at the Metropolitan Theatre on Tuesday evening, and "La Grande Duchesse" was performed to a large and brilliant audience. On the following evening "La Fille de Madame Angot" was performed, and the season closed on Thursday evening with "Barbe Bleue." The troupe started for the East on Friday morning.

EUREKA, CAL.—Vivian at latest dates, was giving entertainments at Pratt's Opera House.

EUREKA, NEV.—The Templeton Troupe, Fay Templeton, Miss Alice Templeton and others have been playing here during the week to good houses.

SALT LAKE.—The Vokes Family were to open at the theatre on the 3d. John Wilson's Circus will exhibit on the 4th.

OMAHA.—The Vokes Family played at the theatre on the 27th, 28th and 29th ult.

CORINNE.—John Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre Circus Troupe, comprising the Dockrills, the Kenebels and the Carlos, performed here on July 2d.

DENVER, COL.—At the theatre Johnny Thompson opened on July 1st under the management of O. Kennedy. At the Cricket Varieties, O. B. Brace was playing in "Rip Van Winkle," and Harry Spriggs, Octavia Coriell, Lizzie Harmon and Lew Parker were members of the company.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins,
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—The Fechter season closed last night with the farewell benefit of this great artist. "The Lady of Lyons" was the play. At the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening the bill will consist of the comedy of "Married Life" and the musical farce of "The Bonnie Fishwife." The cast of each of these plays is published on our first page. On Sunday the sterling comedy of "Extremes" will be produced with a great cast.

OPERA HOUSE.—The first performance of the San Francisco Minstrels at this house last night was quite a success. Carroll and Butler made quite a hit in "Down Among the Daisies," "Japanese Tommy" was received with shouts of laughter and applause, the singing of J. M. Davis, F. C. Warner and the White Brothers was much admired, and the local burlesque entitled "Local Option or the Female Crusaders" in which Charley Pickerson, Geo. C. Thompson, Geo. Wallace and others appeared, went screamingly. At the matinee to-day in addition to the excellent bill which gave such satisfaction last night, Johnny Tuers will appear in his great act of "The Oakland Ghost." On Sunday, the grand challenge dance for the championship, and medals will be danced by Carroll and Butler, Mestayer and Waite, Williams and Willis and others. Lew Rattler has consented to act as one of the judges.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The rush to see Mr. Sothern in his world-renowned character of "Lord Dundreary in "Our American Cousin" continues unabated. This piece will be played through the week, and at the Fourth of July matinee. On Monday Robertson's comedy of "Home" will be produced with Mr. Sothern and Miss Bella Pateman in the cast.

SPANISH DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.—Sr. Luque's Spanish Dramatic Company will give an extra performance at this theatre on Sunday night. The grand five act drama of "Masaniello, or the Liberator of Naples" will be played on this occasion.

MADAME DURET'S BENEFIT. — Madame Duret's benefit Thursday, at the Opera House, was not as well attended as it should have been. All present enjoyed the performance much. "The Crusaders" caused considerable laughter, Mme. Duret playing the part of Mrs. Badger capitally, and G. D. Chaplin making a good deal out of Tom Carberry. This was followed by a musical olio, and the performance terminated with the burlesque of "Norma" in which G. D. Chaplin was a huge success as the Druid Priestess, and the Misses Albertine and Noko McOabe acted with much spirit and sang charmingly.

NEW BELLA UNION THEATRE. — James A. Herne one of the funniest Irish comedians living, is creating a perfect furore at this house in the comic drama of "Handy Andy," Miss Alice Ross, Ed Murray, Jennie Johnson, H. R. Archer, and a host of others appear nightly. A monster Fourth of July bill has been prepared. It is published on our first page.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Johnny Tuers and Ned Buckley appear nightly at this house in screaming acts, Miss Ida Fisk the popular song and dance artiste, Miss Carrie Willis vocalist, Miss Margie Brewer and many others take part in the programme.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—A GREAT ACT.—The Holtum Cannon Act, catching a solid ball fired from a mountain howitzer, will be performed Saturday and Sunday. The illuminated balloon ascent Saturday evening.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice. Omnibuses will leave on SUNDAYS, at 9 o'clock A. M., from the corner of Market and Kearny streets, and every hour afterward, until 4 o'clock, from the corner of McAllister and Fillmore streets connecting with the Market Street and Hayes Valley cars, and from the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets by the way of City Front and Lone Mountain cars.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30. P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOTES.—The champion medals to be awarded for the best light double song and dance to be contested for after the regular minstrel performances at the Opera House on Sunday night, are the size of a trade dollar, and are very handsomely got up by Laird, the manufacturing jeweler on Merchant street. They will be on exhibition to-day and evenings at Sherman & Hyde's corner of Kearny and Sutter street, and on Saturday and Sunday at Eppinger's cigar store Kearny below Bush street.

Joe Murphy has returned to this city after a trout hunt in Pescadaro Creek. He brought back over 40 speckled war'ails with him.

Carroll, Butler, Mestayer, White, Williams and Willis, have entered their names for the neat song and dance contest for the champion medals at the Opera House, on Sunday night, July 5th. The contest will be a very spirited one.

Cotton, Arlington and others of the new combination of minstrel talent engaged by Manager Maguire will arrive here on Saturday the 4th.

Charley Fechter, Lizzie Price, Mr. Mäeder and Mr. Millais will leave for New York on the morning of the Fourth. Mr. Fechter is in the whole well pleased with his trip to California.

The charming comedy of "Extremes" will be played at Maguire's New Theatre on Monday.

The season of the Royal Marionettes will commence at Platt's Hall on Tuesday July 7th. The programme will comprise negro minstrelsy, fantoomi and pantomime, closing with a magnificent transformation scene. We prophecy great popularity for this novel entertainment.

Lew Rattler will act as one of the judges at the Song and Dance contest for the Champion Medals at the Opera House, on Sunday night.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York nearly every theatre is closed. The attractions for the Summer season are not very large, and the audiences are proportionately small. The only item of interest is the following which we take from last New York Clipper received: An injunction was granted in the Superior Court during the past week prohibiting Charles R. Thorne, Sr., the manager of Niblo's Garden from producing "The Two Orphans," as had been announced for June 22. The injunction was procured by the managers of the Union-Square Theatre, who claim that they purchased the drama of "Les Deux Orphelines" from the author before it had been acted upon any stage, and that under the common law their sole right to their property therein can be maintained and protected. A hearing will be had this week to determine whether or not the injuction shall be perpetual. The manager of Niblo's Garden announces for this evening a new play entitled "The Two Sisters, or the Deformed," the story, plot, scene and incidents of which are localized for the city of New York. The matter of the injunction was set down for argument to-day, in the Supreme Court Chambers; but the Court, being engaged in the trial of another case, adjourned the hearing until Tuesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. Before the adjournment was settled, the counsel for the defendant stated that they had arranged to perform a piece called "The Two Sisters" for to-night, and did not know whether it was claimed that the performance of that piece would be a violation of the injunction. Plaintiffs' counsel distinctly stated that they did so claim, and would move to punish the defendants for a contempt of Court, if it turned out that the performance of "The Two Sisters" was but an evasion of the order of this Court, as they believed it to be. The Court stated that they were not in the habit of permitting the orders of the Court to be violated or evaded, and that any performance of a play similar to "The Two Orphans" would be at the risk of the defendants.

Delehanty and wife, Thomas Hengler and their agent, E. Stanley, sailed for Europe on the 29th ult., by the steamship Queen.

Olive Logan Sykes stars next season. She will sail from Liverpool on the Adriatic on July 9 for this city.

Mr. Wallack acted 195 times during the season lately closed at his theatre.

Prof. Hermann, the magician, is performing in Philadelphia, at the Walnut Street Theatre.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says of 'M. Alphonse.' "It hasn't the long-winded, sharp-cornered, unreasonableness of Bartley Campbell's plays, although it abounds in that special delight of his—tears, and the emotional spectator should go provided with plenty of the hemstitched, a bucket and an umbrella."

Mme. Janauschek's Fall company will be composed of the following ladies and gentlemen: Mrs. Isabella G. Ashton and child, and Mrs. Minnie Monk, Isabella Preston and Kate Fletcher, and Geo. D. Chaplain, J. Sefton, A. D. Bradley, John Morton, W. G. Shine, and J. B. Ashton; A. Joel, business manager. Mme. Janauschek will open her season at the Lyceum theatre, in this city.

The Majilton Family have engaged Miss Blanch Chlesridge, a pleasing young English actress, for their Fall tour in this country.

A new theatre will be opened in Charleston, S. C., under the management of John T. Ford, of Baltimore, about November 1st.

Mr. J. P. Kilbourne will play in "The Swamp Angels," at Wood's Museum, during the week commencing July 6th.

Mlle. Ristori will play Lady Macbeth, in English, on the occasion of her next visit to this country, in March next.

The Chicago people have been favorably impressed with the acting of Miss Ada Dyas. The Inter-Ocean, of Tuesday last, said: "Miss Dyas has won a very high place in the esteem of the Chicago public. No actress that has appeared here of late years can at all compare with her in emotional parts, and last evening's requirements seemed to develop even greater power than had before been seen. Her Raymonde, in its pure integrity, womanly tenderness, easy power, and winning grace, is one of the most finished pieces of acting we have ever seen. Nothing was wanting to make it perfectly natural, a point few actresses reach."

There was an important arrival at Barnum's on the 17th ult., It was that of the largest black rhinoceros ever exhibited. He weighs 9,500 pounds, or 2,200 pounds more than the largest rhinoceros in the London Zoological Gardens. His body is encased in a heavy leather-like hide, which overlaps at the joints, making folds nearly two inches thick. His legs are short and stumpy, and his tail resembles the blacksnake used by teamsters in the Western country. His head is covered with the same thick hide which envelops his body, and upon his forehead and about his eyes and ears it is piled up like plates. The animal had a large, sharp horn, which projected from his snout just above his nostrils, but the monster's head was chained down, and, in spite of his angry snorts and endeavors to get away, this horn was sawed off close to his snout. A cage upon wheels was made on purpose for the rhinoceros' accommodations. It is heavily barred with steel upon the sides and front. His head is chained to a stout beam, and heavy oak plank prevents his backing. There is barely room for the rhinoceros to stand and lie in. If he was given more space his immense strength would enable him to break from all restraint, and the havoc he would make, if loose, may be imagined but cannot be estimated. His immense weight may be realized from the fact that when the cage containing him was drawn into the Hippodrome, the wheels crushed through the concrete flooring in many places to the depth of from two to three inches. He is now on exhibition at the Hippodrome.

Norristown, Pa., is having a pretty and commodious opera house built. It will be ready for opening in August.

The Majiltons, now successfully performing in London, have reorganized their eccentric comedy company and have added "Quicksilver Dick" to their repertoire. "Gabriel Grub" has also been reconstructed, and quite a number of engagements have been made by their agent, Col. T. Allston Brown, for the ensuing season.

An Indian tribe in Wisconsin has organized a brass band and, as the savages are protected by the Government, the white people have no redress. There is great deal of hard feeling among the citizens towards the young aborigine who plays the cymbals. He performs with such earnestness and vigor that a vigilance committee has been organized to waylay him and take him apart, in order to ascertain whether he is a real Indian or is merely riveted together and run with a steam engine. The manner in which he wakes the echoes amid the everlasting hills would make a deaf and dumb asylum nervous. When the band has serenaded a man two or three times he succumbs. He goes calmly around among his little family, removes their hair, and scalps the hired girl and colored boy, and after taking up the collection, he hands the whole lot of bunches over to the band, which goes off happy to sweet strains from the harmonic young cymbal player.

Barry Sullivan will probably visit America this year, Sam Colville having offered him £6 000 for thirty weeks.

Philip Phillips, the "Lamb of Israel," was to sing "Put me in my Little Bed," and "Come Home Father, Come Home," at Oneida, N. Y., 16th.

Edwin Adams will spend his Summer vacation with Joe Jefferson, at Rice Lake, N. Y., having rented his Long Branch residence for the Summer months to Robert Fox of Philadelphia.

Frank Mayo and Rosa Rand returned to New York city, 16th ultimo, having concluded a seven weeks' tour in the New England cities, with "Davy Crockett."

As the old Louisville Theatre is undergoing demolition to make room for the Courier-Journal building, the following are a few items connected with Louisville dramatic annals: A paper published at Bedford, Pa., in 1808, says: At Louisville, in the State of Kentucky, a town about four times as large as Bedford, they have no church. When the earthquake gave them the first shock they grew very devout in one night; and on the next day, with long faces, they subscribed $1,000 to build a house of public worship. There the matter rested until the second shock came, when another devout paroxysm produced another $1,000. It rested again until the third earthquake and devout fit produced another subscription to the same amount. There was no more of the matter. The earthquake did not return, and the Louisvillians concluded the devil would not send for them for a few years more, and in the meantime determined to be merry. They immediately built a theatre, which cost them $7,000, and employed a company of actors, the pillocurings of maritime city theatre. To this company they gave about $500 per week, till at length the actors, instead of raising the curtain, broke through it, and broke each other's heads with sticks, and the heads of some of the auditors who interfered. The earthquakes have lately begun to shake Louisville again, but whether they laugh or pray I have not heard."

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Aimee Troupe opened at the Metropolitan Theatre on Tuesday evening, and "La Grande Duchesse" was performed to a large and brilliant audience. On the following evening "La Fille de Madame Angot" was performed, and the season closed on Thursday evening with "Barbe Bleue." The troupe started for the East on Friday morning.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-1

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Kate Bateman will play Lady Macbeth to the Macbeth of Henry Irving, at the London Lyceum Theatre next season.

London is to have a new Juliet at the Haymarket, of which much is expected in private circles. This Juliet is a married lady, moving in very good society, whose "at homes" are attended by poets, baronets and others, and whose husband is a well-known authority on Indian affairs. The stage name of the debutante is to be Mrs. Fairfax, and she has been carefully coached in her Shakespeare by Mrs. Stirling.

During the performance of "I Puritani" at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, Mme. Jenny Lind Goldschmidt, who was a spectator, went behind the curtain, and warmly thanked Mlle. Emma Albani for the gratification her singing afforded her.

There was an unprecedented deluge of piano recitals in London during the last week in May. The performers were of various nationalities: English, Russian, Saxon, French and German, but a fair pianist from the banks of the Neva carried off the principal share of the honors. The name of Essipoff is now all potent in London.

Lecocq has nearly succeeded in eclipsing the popularity of Offenbach in Paris.

Mr. Maurice Grau has secured the Emily Soldene comic opera company, of London, for the Lyceum Theatre in the fall.

Mr. Carl Rosa has returned to London from Germany.

Nilsson sang recently at Sims Reeves' benefit in London.

The death is announced in England of the celebrated elocutionist, John Chippendale Montesquieu Bellew, who was so popular in this country last season and the preceding one. He was born in 1823, and was by his mother a member of the Irish Bellew family. He was educated at Lancaster and Oxford, took orders in 1848. In 1850 he became curate of Prescot, and in 1851 went to the East Indies as Chaplain to St. John's Cathedral, Calcutta. In 1855 he returned to England, and remained for a time at St. Phillip's Church, Regent street. In 1862 he became incumbent of Bedford Chapel, Bloomsbury. He subsequently forsook the pulpit for the rostrum, and a few years ago publicly avowed his connection with the Roman Catholic religion. As a reader he had no living equal. He twice visited America, and was well received on each occasion. On the occasion of his last visit a few months ago, his health failed him, and he returned to England, only, however, to die. He has written and published several able works, but he will be chiefly remembered as a reader of great excellence.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Hints on Sleep.

To literary men, preachers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, journalists and brain-workers in general, the following hints are exceedingly worth attention: The fact is, that as life becomes concentrated, short sleep and early rising become impossible. We take more sleep than our ancestors, and we take more sleep because we want more. Six hours sleep will do very well for ploughman, or bricklayers, or any other man, who has no exhaustion but that produced by manual labor, and the sooner he takes it after the labor the better. But for the man whose labor is mental, the stress is on his brain and nervous system, and for him who is tired in the evening with mental application neither early to bed nor early to rise is wholesome. He needs letting down to the level of repose. The longer interval between the active use of the brain and the retirement to bed, the better his chance of sleep and refreshment. To him an hour after midnight is possibly as good as two before it, and even then his sleep will not so completely restore him as it will his neighbor who is physically tired. His best sleep is in the early morning hours, when all the nervous excitement has passed away, and he is in absolute rest.

A Position to be Desired.

The Milwaukee Sentinel thus epitomizes the daily life of an editor-in-chief. From the plaintive tone of the last sentence the writer intimates that he knows how it is himself: "The young man who is fitting himself for a journalistic career asks us if the chief editor's position is difficult. On the contrary it is the most comfortable place on the paper. He has only to dash off a few columns of editorials a day and then enjoy himself. All the good-looking women with poems are shown into his rooms, and he smokes all the cigars sent in for the reporters. He receives invitations to deliver addresses at country fairs, and carries home the best of the books sent in for review. When he hasn't anything else to do he looks over copy and carefully runs his pencil through the joke the writer struggled four hours with and considered his masterpiece."

Time's Healing Finger.

It is reviving to know that sorrow doesn't always kill—that hearts don't break or bust as easily as banks. There's Mr. Soloff, for instance. Six months ago his wife died, and he expressed a determination to not survive her. He even hinted of laudanum, looked wild when he passed a gunsmith's, and his friends watched him with care when he approached near even to a duck-pond. But time set it healing finger on him, and last week he led to the altar a fair lady, whom he told he had never loved until he had seen her. Should she die, he'll probably have the same sad experience. It's only those who've been bereaved half a dozen times of a beloved wife or husband who can bear their sad loss with becoming equanimity.

Couldn't Scare Her.

Grayville, Ill., claims the coolest woman in the State as a citizen. Her husband told her that he was going down in the cellar to commit suicide, and did go down stairs and fire a broadside into the pork barrel. His wife kept right on knitting, and after awhile he man came up stairs swearing the woman hadn't got any feeling.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of S. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stouds, No. 618 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. FOURTH OF JULY!

HEADQUARTERS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, 605 Clay street, near Montgomery.

THE COMMITTEE ON INVITATIONS ARE now sending out invitations to the numerous Orders, Societies, Organizations, etc., in this city AND CITY OF OAKLAND, to join in the Procession on the approaching Anniversary of our National Independence. Fearing, however, that some may be inadvertently overlooked and that perhaps there may be thereby engendered a feeling that an act of injustice had been committed the Committee desires thus publicly to extend a cordial and heartfelt invitation to all organized bodies in the city, and in the CITY OF OAKLAND, to take part in the celebration of the Nation's Birthday. A splendid procession is already assured. Let all join it in the spirit in which this invitation is tendered, and it will be a triumph surpassing all former celebrations of the day in this city. An early response is especially requested, so that the Grand Marshal may be able to assign the bodies accepting, their appropriate positions in the line.

It is proposed to organize a company of "ANTIQUE AND HORRIBLES," to take part in the Procession. All desiring to join will please communicate with the Chairman of the Invitation Committee.

An Editor in Luck.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: There is something well nigh stunning in the good luck of J. Heron Foster, a Philadelphia editor notwithstanding the expression, 'A Philadelphia editor for luck," passed into a proverb long since. At the time of the California gold fever this fortunate Foster bought some cheap California land. He paid little attention to his investment, but recently his wife went to the Pacific Coast and found that the property had so increased in value as to be worth half a million dollars. To add to the felicity of the Fosters the two young ladies of the family, right upon the heels of the California wonder, fell heirs to an estate worth $100,000. There is one melancholy feature, however, to this remarkable affair. One of the young ladies is of a literary turn and intends to start a newspaper as soon as she becomes of age.

Silly Billy.

Little Billy was very cross and tired the other night, and he wanted his father to take him on his knee; but father was tired, or pretended to be. "I want you to hold me on your knee," he whined. "I tell you I cannot do it; I am tired," replied his father impatiently. "Tired? you wasn't very tired last night when you held Mary on your knee in the kitchen." Billy got a spanking, and was put to bed, after which Mr. and Mrs. B. had a little confab. That pretty servant girl is now looking for another situation, without a character to assist her.

Panic-Mongering Newspapers.

Two men have died this year in the Manchester and Liverpool hospitals from mere fear of hydrophobia. "Perhaps," says a writer in an English paper, "these are not the only instances of the unintentional but fatal mischief done by panic-mongers. Such persons have loss of life and the anxiety of thousands to answer for."

Spreading the Seed.

Not long ago a clergyman in a country church not a thousand miles from Augustine, Ga., after finishing his sermon and announcing a temperance meeting, said he had some cotton seed for sale of a new variety which could be had—at only a dollar per bag.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend;
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Newspaper and the Advertiser.

Say what you will, it's human nature to favor those who favor you, and do it honestly. A liberal advertiser, in a reputable business, is always a good fellow, as mean men never advertise.—When you hear a man express contempt for the newspapers, set him down as a fool: If you want to test him, and prove that he lies, puff him, and see how pleased he will be, and how cordial he will be, and how he pat you on the back. There is nothing that you could do but what would be forgiven and forgotten, sooner than a little uncomplimentary squib in a newspaper. You may go on all your life saying good things every day about some person without one word of credit; but the first item of reprimand, and all you have ever done is forgotten at once, and you have a bitter and relentless enemy from that time. Every person who wants to purchase any kind of merchandise will read an advertisement of that merchandise whenever it appears before him. While we believe that every person engaged in a respectable business should advertise, we also believe it to be the duty of the publisher, every thing else being equal, to do what he can, whenever the opportunity offers, to favor those who favor him. For ourselves, we always stay by our friends, and never yet, heathenish as it may seem, forget an enemy.

Time's Healing Finger.

It is reviving to know that sorrow doesn't always kill—that hearts don't break or bust as easily as banks. There's Mr. Solcoff, for instance. Six months ago his wife died, and he expressed a determination to not survive her. He even binted of laudanum, looked wild when he passed a gunsmith's, and his friends watched him with care when he approached near even to a duck-pond. But time set it healing finger on him, and last week he led to the altar a fair lady, whom he told he had never loved until he had seen her. Should she die, he'll probably have the same sad experience. It's only those who've been bereaved half a dozen times of a beloved wife or husband who can bear their sad loss with becoming equanimity.

Men Milliners.

In this age of woman's rights, when it is proposed that avocations hitherto monopolized by men should be open to bold and adventurous spirits of the other sex, it is curious to observe that some branches of artistic industry generally occupied by woman are invaded by masculinity. In Paris there are now nine women's dressmarkers and six milliners carrying on large establishments, and all of them men. These gentlemen are said to be remarkable for their refined luxury and elegant display. None of them ever go abroad without a carriage, or is beheld except in the most complete and and spotless costume—men's costume, of course.

Dangerous Teaching.

Small danger lies in the description of violent sensational crimes, which we presume no one in his senses would take as a pattern to go by; but when falsehood, treachery, sensuality and selfishness are depicted as part of the natural order of things, inborn circumstances of humanity, common to all alike, and seen as often in the good as the bad, then harm of the worst kind is done to the weak and impressionable, and the work is as dangerous as its teaching is untrue.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. San Jose Hospitality.

The San Jose Mercury of Friday, gives the following pleasing illustration of what hospitality in San Jose is: The latest departure of the genus "bum" was taken yesterday. An honest yeoman from the sturdy redwoods came to town and shipped too much liquor; getting drowsy, he sat on a sill and went to sleep. From this slumber he was aroused by an old bummer, who actually arrested him for vagrancy, and advised him to get a good square meal somewhere, before going to jail! The mountaineer had some money, and together the pair repaired to the Buckeye. Here they called for soup, the object of the bummer being to get a meal out of the old man, and probably rob him. They were taken for acquaintances, and the order filled; on the waiter returning, he found them quarreling, and soon discovered what the mountaineer had begun to suspect, the true nature of the situation. "Bum" was dismissed without his soup, and the yeoman was advised to look out for himself. For a piece of cool impudence, this case may be considered leading. It derives additional interest from the fact that impersonating an officer is an offence under the Code.

A Position to be Desired.

The Milwaukee Sentinel thus epitomizes the daily life of an editor-in-chief. From the plaintive tone of the last sentence the writer intimates that he knows how it is himself: "The young man who is fitting himself for a journalistic career asks us if the chief editor's position is difficult. On the contrary it is the most comfortable place on the paper. He has only to dash off a few columns of editorials a day and then enjoy himself. All the good-looking women with poems are shown into his rooms, and he smokes all the cigars sent in for the reporters. He receives invitations to deliver addresses at country fairs, and carries home the best of the books sent in for review. When he hasn't anything else to do he looks over copy and carefully runs his pencil through the joke the writer struggled four hours with and considered his masterpiece."

Couldn't Scare Her.

Grayville, Ill., claims the coolest woman in the State as a citizen. Her husband told her that he was going down in the cellar to commit suicide, and did go down stairs and fire a broadside into the pork barrel. His wife kept right on knitting, and after awhile he man came up staire swearing the woman hadn't got any feeling.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England clothe, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

DR. BERRI, Patent Gold Crowns for broken

Not for George.

A lady acquaintance read the following paragraph in a paper: "A young wife once cured her husband of a disposition to absent himself from home at nights by providing a good dinner, and saying to him afterward, 'George, if you find a sweeter spot than our home, describe it to me, and I will rival it if I die in the attempt.' A kiss and a few tears completed the victory." This lady acquaintance tried the game on her husband. He wasn't melted a bit; he merely said, "When you can get the boys to come here and smoke cigars and talk politics, and you set up a keg of lager, you can count me in. I like the company of the boys, I do." Our lady saw that sentiment had no effect on him. So she didn't throw herself on his neck and hug and wet his paper collar with her tears; but she took a saucer and fired it at his head, and followed it up with a cup, and ended it by slinging a dish of strawberries on his shirt-bosom. Since that time he has been an exemplary husband. Yet he does seem very anxious for her to visit her dear mother as often as four or five times a week.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night Robertson's charming comedy of "Home" will be presented with E. A. Sothern as Col. John White, Henry Edwards as Mr. Dorrison Robert Pateman as Count Montrose, J. P. Burnett as Bertie Thompson, Miss Bella Pateman as Mrs. Pinchback, Miss Minnie Walton as Dora Thornbaugh, and Miss Jennie Lee as Lucy Dorrison. This play was written expressly for Mr. Sothern, and on this occasion he will appear in it for the first time in San Francisco. The first appearance of Miss Bella Pateman will prove an additional attraction.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night Falconer's capital comedy of "Extremes, or Men of the Day," will be presented with Miss Kate Browning as Lucy, Miss Mary Wells as Mrs. Wildbriar, Miss Sidney Cowell as Jennie Wildbriar and Edward Arnott, George Giddens, D. Marden, John Howson, Charles Edmonds, A. D. Billings and others in the cast. "Extremes" is a brilliant comedy and will certainly be well played.

Opera House.

The new season of minstrelsy by Maguire's California Minstrels, with the old California favorite Ben Cotton, and the popular Eastern Ethiopian comedian, W. M. Arlington on the ends will commence to-morrow night. The minstrels have been creating a perfect furore in Oregon, and will no doubt bring back with them many new jokes from the Webfoot country. Arlington and Cotton will appear in the "Black Brigade." "Female Suffrage" and "The Stolen Banjo."

Platt's Hall.

The exhibition of the original Royal Marionettes will commence at Platt's Hall to-morrow evening. These wonderful puppets will be made to give three distinct entertainments: Christy Minstrels, Fantoccini, and the fairy spectacular pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood."

Bella Union Theatre.

J. A. Herne who is in the second week of his engagement at this house, is as popular as ever and gains great applause for his very clever impersonation of "Handy Andy." Miss Alice Ross, Ed Murray, Miss Jennie Johnson, Cal Mandeville, Matt Kelly, Tommy Bree and a host of other favorite appear nightly.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"I Want to be a Doctor," Mortimore's sketches, Johnny Tuers in song and dance, Ned Buckley in acts, and many other attractions will be offered this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens always present thousands of attractions. The illuminated balloon ascension made last night by Etienne Buisley and his son Joaquin, was quite a success. A night balloon ascension with fireworks was never before accomplished in the United States. The following dispatch received just as we go to press, reports the safety of the aeronauts.

FOLSOM, July 6th.

Landed three miles from Folsom. All right here with balloon. S. BUISLEY.

Notes.

"David Garrick" will be played next week at the California Theatre, with E. A. Sothern in the title role, for two nights only.

Mons. Deschamps, the popular baritone of the Aimee troupe, will have a benefit at the California Theatre on Sunday next, when Mlle. Aimee will make her last appearance.

The Luque Spanish Dramatic Company performed "Masaniello" in excellent style, at the California Theatre last night.

Charles Vivian, the popular character vocalist, has returned to this city from an extended tour in Oregon, "We're glad to see you, boy."

Pacific Hall now transformed into a pretty little theatre, will be re-opened on Tuesday evening July 14th, when Fred G. Monell will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit, engineered by Thomas M. Blair. Many amateurs will appear.

The holiday season of four performances given at the Opera House, by Morrell's San Francisco Minstrels proved highly successful. It closed last night with a double song and dance contest for the championship, and two handsome medals. Messrs. Mestayer and White were the victors. The San Francisco Minstrels having gained a Metropolitan reputation, will proceed on their travels. They will perform at various places en route for Winnemucca, and remain for some time in Idaho Territory.

S. H. Marsh, pianist and harpist, pupil of Hon. John Cramer, Kalkbrenner, Bochsa and Ferrari, has established himself in this city for the purpose of giving lessons on the piano and the harp. We hope to hear him at some public entertainment before long.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-i

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Port-r House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-x

What Cheer Laundry

"DRAW."

Through the light long Summer day
Sum the game of Draw did play;
Through the Summer Sammy laughed,
Sang and played the game of Draw,
Gay and jolly and serene—
Wit his breeches of nankeen.

Through the doleful Winter days
Still at Poker Sammy plays;
Gone his songs and smiles so bland,
He is waiting for a hand—
And the Winter skies are chill,
And he wears that nankeen still.

MORAL.

Draw and nankeen go together
Very well in Summer weather;
But when Winter time sets in
Draw and nankeen get too thin.

Punctuality at Death.

Mr. Higgins was a very punctual man in all his transactions through life. He amassed a large property by untiring industry and punctuality, and at the advanced age of ninety years was resting quietly upon his bed, and calmly waiting to be called away. He had deliberately made almost every arrangement for his decease and burial. His pulse grew fainter, and the light of life seemed just flickering in its socket, when one of his sons observed:

"Father, you will probably live but a day or two, is it not well for you to name your bearers?"

"To be sure, my son," said the dying man, "it is well thought of, and I will do it now."

He gave a list of six, the usual number, and sank back exhausted upon his pillow. A gleam of thought passed over his withered face like a ray of light, and he rallied once more.

"My son, read me that list. Is the name of Mr. Wiggins there?"

"It is, my father."

"Then strike it off," said he emphatically, "for he never was punctual, was never anywhere in season—and he might hinder the procession a whole hour."

A Solomon of a Judge.

The following tale comes from Ireland: Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man being from Connaught, immediately seized a lump of stone and let fly at the head of the opponent, who dropped his head and missed the stone, which went through an expensive plate-glass window and did much damage. A magistrate was called upon next morning to determine which of the two should pay the cost. The evidence clearly showed that the aim was a good one, and that if the second man had not dipped his head he would have been struck. "Therefore," said the magistrate, "he must pay the damages, as it is certain the first man didn't intend to injure the window, and the window would not have been injured if it had not been for the act of dodging on the part of the second man."

The death is announced in England of the celebrated elocutionist, John Chippendale Montesquieu Bellew, who was so popular in this country last season and the preceding one. He was born in 1823, and was by his mother a member of the Irish Bellew family. He was educated at Lancaster and Oxford, took orders in 1848. In 1850 he became curate of Prescot, and in 1851 went to the East Indies as Chaplain to St. John's Cathedral, Calcutta. In 1855 he returned to England, and remained for a time at St. Phillip's Church, Regent street. In 1862 he became incumbent of Bedford Chapel, Bloomsbury. He subsequently forsook the pulpit for the rostrum, and a few years ago publicly avowed his connection with the Roman Catholic religion. As a reader he had no living equal. He twice visited America, and was well received on each occasion. On the occasion of his last visit a few months ago, his health failed him, and he returned to England, only, however, to die. He has written and published several able works, but he will be chiefly remembered as a reader of great excellence.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Batoun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

What Josh Billings Says.

Men talk about drinking rum to drown their sorrows. It iz cheaper, and a mutch surer way, to drown themselves in a mill pond.

Temptashuns are necessary; a man kant even tell whether he iz honest or not, until he haz been tempted.

A perfectly natural man iz generally a perfectly honest one.

It iz a grate deal better to be ignorant than to believ what aint so.

Experience sekts on some people just as it duz on a bull tarier; he don't fairly git over one whipping before he goes in for another.

There is nobody who gits so low down in the ditch but what he thinks there iz sum one lower down than he iz.

Anger alwuss hurts us more than it duz things we git mad at.

Avarice eats up every other quality ov the harte, good, bad and indifferent.

Most all very cunning men have a spesh-ality, and they are generally az dull in other things as they are sharp in that.

Next to doing a man an injury, in point of meanness, iz to do him a benefit, and then continually remind him uv it.

When a man finds fault with himself, he expekts you will kondradikt him, not koincide with him.

A good karakter is allwuss gained bi inches, but is often lost in one chunk.

Humility may not make what the world makes a grate man, but it will make what God calls a good one.

Reazon often makes mistakes, but conshience never duz.

It takes a very wize man to be thoroly kontented; phools are ever az oneasy and dissatisfied az hornets are.

Munny is responsible for the most of the dirty work that has been dun in this ar world.

Hints on Sleep.

To literary men, preachers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, journalists and brain-workers in general, the following hints are exceedingly worth attention: The fact is, that as life becomes concentrated, short sleep and early rising become impossible. We take more sleep than our ancestors, and we take more sleep because we want more. Six hours sleep will do very well for ploughman, or bricklayers, or any other man, who has no exhaustion but that produced by manual labor, and the sooner he takes it after the labor the better. But for the man whose labor is mental, the stress is on his brain and nervous system, and for him who is tired in the evening with mental application neither early to bed nor early to rise is wholesome. He needs letting down to the level of repose. The longer interval between the active use of the brain and the retirement to bed, the better his chance of sleep and refreshment. To him an hour after midnight is possibly as good as two before it, and even then his sleep will not so completely restore him as it will his neighbor who is physically tired. His best sleep is in the early morning hours, when all the nervous excitement has passed away, and he is in absolute rest.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here my flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Those Good Old Sayings!

A correspondent of the St. Louis Times says, "Consistency is a jewel honored less in the breach than in the observance." But he must remember that vice is a monster beyond which endurance ceases to be a virtue.

There is a good deal of force in those old sayings. We delight in quoting them. There is profound philosophy in the following: "The drowning camel will clutch at the last straw if he breaks his back in doing so," "A bird in hand is worth all the chickens that have come home to roost," "A strolling stone gathers no moss in glass houses," "Every goose thinks its own kittens are swans," "It is a wise child that makes friends with its own mother-in-law." There are many others which we refrain from giving, lest we should not quote them correctly.

A Genial Notice.

This is the way the Daily Press, a queer little paper published in Salt Lake, Utah, welcomed John Wilson's circus:

A circus will pitch its unholy tent in our midst in a few days. No right minded man can regard the visit of these vultures with anything but dread. They always drain the country of the spare change even in flush times, and now, when the band of hardship hangs heavy on the business interests of our Territory, a visit of one of these unnecessary luxuries (?) is simply a scourge. We can only hope that our citizens will not be foolish enough to patronize the one coming.

This of course had a great effect on the patronage of the circus. It always does.

New Music.

We have received from M. Gray, the publisher, the following new music: "Just Touch the Harp Gently, My Pretty Louise," words by Samuel N. Mitchell, composed by Charles Blamphin, and "It Was a Dream," words by R. E. Francillan, music by Fred H. Cowen.

Virtuous Indignation.

Those highly virtuous papers, the Chronicle and Post howl in chorus at the Call for publishing burlesque pictures of persons who took part in the Fourth of July procession. They think it was profanation. What did they think of the Antiques and Horribles?

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Walt Whitman's Latest.

The editor of the Minneapolis Tribune having heard some one repeat Walt Whitman's poetic offering to Nellie Grant, was so charmed with it that he went to the office and copied it off, as nearly as he could remember, for publication. This is the delightful result:

A KISS TO THE BRIDE.

Scarred, blistersome, undefined.
With venison from East and West,
And salerat is North and South,
And numerous other ingredients from the Northeast and Southwest,
And several counties yet to hear from.
Through me, to-day, 1,000,000 tarts and hams,
Wafting 2,000,000 clubs, 3,000,000 soul-felt swears,
With 40,000,000 reserved fund in the Treasury.
—Tender and true remains the marm that yields thee.
Clear sun by day, bright stars at night, with rising barometer in the morning, and increasing cloudiness over the Lower Lake region, and possibly rain or snow over the latter.
Queer girl—through me the ancient rye juice, too—
For the New World, through me, at distillery prices, the old, attenuated, ancient, venerable, anti-crusade wedding-greeting.
O youth and health! O sweet Missouri rose! O bonny bride! O almighty greenback! O much! O more! Owe everybody, with nothing wherewith to redeem!
Yield thy red cheeks, thy lips, mouth, palate tongue, trachea, tonsils, pharynx, larynx news inks, to day.
Saturday, May 28, 1874,
Unto a nat on's loving smile.

The Past Season.

Wilkes' Spirit, of New York, says: "The past season has been one of the most disastrous to theatrical enterprises ever known. Not half a dozen established theatres have made a cent, and most of them lost heavily. Among the latter may be mentioned Booths, Daly's, and Niblo's, New York; McVicker's, Aiken's, and Hooley's, Chicago; De Bar's in New Orleans; all the Philadelphia houses except the Walnut, and all the Washington and Baltimore theatres. Those who are reported to have come out ahead are the Union Square and Wallack's, New York; the Boston Museum, De Bar's in St. Louis, Gardner's in Chicago, and the Walnut in Philadelphia. Booth's losses are put down at $40,000, Jarrett & Palmer's at $60,000, and Daly's at $80,000.

Poor Men.

Just about this time it is alarming to discover the number of very poor men there are in the community. The assessor knows better than anybody else how very poor are those esteemed to be rich. It's only when it doesn't cost taxes that men want to be esteemed wealthy.

A Little Troubled.

Beecher recently advised people to write down the things which trouble them. If the reverend gentleman follows his own advice, we guess the name of Tilton will be written in capital letters.

A Difficult Thing.

It is wise to believe that all things are for the best. But it's mighty hard to think so when a flea is meandering up and down your back and you're sitting in the company of several ladies.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. F. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance, with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but at it they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Those who fail to visit this theatre during the short time that Falconer's great comedy of "Extremes" is being played, will lose a great treat. Last night it was presented in a style which pleased every one. Edward Arnott in the character of Frank Hawthorne, Miss Kate Browning as Lucy Vavasour, Miss Sydney Cowell as Jenny Wildbriar, Miss Mary Wells as Mrs. Wildbriar, John Howson as James, Charles Edmonds as Sir Lionel Norman, A. D. Billings as Dr. Playfair, and in fact all engaged in the representation played their respective parts capitally. The most difficult scenes were smoothly carried through, and the company may now be pronounced capable of doing adequate justice to any comedy that was ever written. "Extremes" will be played again to-night. It should retain the boards all the week, but it will we understand be withdrawn on Thursday, when Mrs. Jeffreys Lewis will make her first appearance in San Francisco.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged as usual last night when Robertson's comedy of "Home" was produced with F. A. Sothern in the character of Colonel John White. The plot is as follows. Alfred Dorrison (E. A. Sothern) returns, after an absence of many years in America, to England. He finds his father entangled by an adventuress of the name of Mrs. Pinchback, who, with her brother a Captain Mountroffe, is making herself quite at home in the Dorrison country house. Under these circumstances he determines to conceal his identity from his father, and presents himself as Col. John White. Under this name he foils the adventuress and rids the house of her presence. Mr. Sothern did some excellent acting. He was always the cool self-possessed gentleman who under no circumstances could lose his self-control. Miss Minnie Walton as Dora Thornbaugh, the lady with whom the pseudo Col. John White is in love, acted charmingly and looked lovely enough to make every one in the house fall in love with her. Miss Jennie Lee as Lucy Dorrison, engaged to Bertie Thompson (J. P. Barnett) played with delicious archness, and Mr. Burnett quite entered into the spirit of the part. Miss Bella Pateman won much applause and many bouquets. She gave a very clever impersonation of Mrs. Pinchback. Robert Pateman played the demoralized Captain Mountroffe. His simulation of drunkenness was perfect in its way. Henry Edwards as Mr. Dorrison, the genial old rather, was all that could be desired. The play was admirably put on the stage and finely acted throughout. It will be played every night this week and will crowd the house.

Opera House.

The minstrels will once more make this house melodious and merry with song and jest. Maguire's San Francisco Minstrels returned last night from Oregon, where they played to crowded houses. They will appear to-night at the Opera House in conjunction with Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington, the king pins of one of the best troupes of minstrels ever organized. Among the acts to be performed are "The Black Brigade," "Female Suffrage," and "The Stolen Banjo." Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington will take the ends in the first part. There will be a tremendous rush to-night, therefore those who wish to obtain seats will do well to go early.

Platt's Hall.

The exhibition of the original Royal Marionettes will commence at Platt's Hall this evening. These wonderful puppets will be made to give three distinct entertainments: Christy Minstrels, Fantoccini, and the fairy spectacular pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood."

Madame Anna Bishop.

This famous vocalist will leave to-morrow for Portland with Mrs. Maginer, Alfred Wilkie and Walter Campbell, E. S. Hill goes as agent.

Bella Union Theatre.

James A. Herne in "Handy Andy," Cal Mandeville in his sensation character sketches, Miss Alice Ross in "Flags of all Nations," H. B. Archer in ballads, and others in various specialties, will afford abundant amusement to all who visit this favorite variety theatre to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers in song and dance, and in amusing sets, Mortimore in sketches, Miss Ida May the favorite vocalist, Miss Ida Fisk, Miss Maggie Brower and a host of others will appear to-night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-1

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-m

LIGHT AND SHADOW.

Love is not all one shadowless day of glory,
Life is not all one lightless night of gloom;
Checkered forever is our human story,
Checkered the time of fallow, time of bloom.
Sun never rose that did not cast a shade,
Before, behind, oblique, on either side;
Light were not light, if darkness lent not aid,
By darkness only light is deified.
Night never fell, engulfing in its blackness
Lost creatures, but some little candle threw
Long light upon the path, to speed the slackness
Of hopeless footsteps that have lost their clue.
So light and shadow weave their mingled web,
Be life at highest flood or lowest ebb.

LASTING LOVE.

The love that will soonest decay,
The love that is surest to die,
The love that will soon fly away,
Is the love
That is told by a sigh.

The love that is surest to last,
The love that a woman's heart needs,
The love that will be kept fast,
Is the love
That is spoken in deeds.

Setting a Fashion.

A lecture was recently given on Hats. The speaker, who was a phrenologist, argued in favor of a man betraying a character by the manner in which he wore his head-gear, and, doing so, he demonstrated that those of a bellicose turn of mind placed their hats on one side of their heads (the soldier for instance), in order that the hat might touch the most actively developed part of the brain—namely, that of combativeness. The proud man, too, he continued, would naturally wear his hat well on his forehead, resting it upon the apex of the parietal bones, beneath which lay the organ of self-esteem. And, continued he, the benevolent man, the person who loves his fellow-creatures, the being who delights in acts of kindliness, wears his hat on the back of his head in order that it may rest on the upper portion of the frontal sinus, where is situated the organ of benevolence and generosity! When the audience left the hall, two-thirds of them had suddenly betaken themselves to wearing their hats on the extreme back of the head. Scarcely a man was present who had not set up for a generous, benevolent, high-minded individual on the spot.

The Kansas Method.

Out in Leavenworth, Kansas, when ministers have misunderstandings with the deacons, they don't make so much fuss as in this part of the country. They don't call them before councils of the church, and instruct them in their duties, and call them hard names, and threaten them with expulsion from membership. That's the way we do here. Out there, when a deacon disagrees with the minister, the reverend gentleman entices him into an alley, and convinces him of his error. His way of convincing is to smash the deacon's head with a hammer.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

A Medical Experiment, and its Extraordinary Effects.

Max Adeler who is now engaged on the Danbury News, tells the following story:

A recent medical experiment has excited a considerable amount of interest in our village. My neighbor Simpson was nearly dead with consumption, and Dr. Hopkins, at last in despair, concluded to try the effect of a transfusion of blood, of which he had heard so much lately. As no human being was willing to shed his blood for Simpson, the doctor bled Simpson's goat, and, opening a vein in Simpson's arm, he injected about two quarts of the blood into the patient's system. Simpson immediately began to revive; but, singular to relate, no sooner had his strength returned than he jumped out of bed, and, twitching his head about after the fashion of a goat, he made a savage attempt to butt the doctor. That medical gentleman, after having Simpson's head plunged against his stomach three or four times, took refuge in the closet; whereupon Simpson banged his head against the panel of the door a couple of times, and would have probably have broken it into splinters had not his mother-in-law entered at that moment and diverted his attention. One well-directed blow from Simpson's head floored her, and then, while she screamed for help, Simpson frolicked around over the floor, making assiduous efforts to nibble the green flowers in the ingrain carpet. When they called the hired man and tied him down on the bed, an effort was made to interview him, but the only answer he could give to such questions as how he felt and when he wanted his medicine, was a "ba-a-a-a," precisely like that of a goat; and then he would strain himself in an effort to butt a hole in the head-board. The condition of the patient was so alarming, and Mrs. Simpson was so indignant, that Dr. Hopkins determined to undo the evil if possible. So he first bled Simpson freely, and then, by very heavily bribing Simpson's Irishman, he procured fresh blood from him, and injected Simpson the second time. Simpson is now as well as ever, excepting that he shocks the old Republican friends by displaying an irresistible tendency to vote the Democratic ticket, and makes his mother-in-law mad by speaking with a strong brogue. But he has given up butting, and has never indulged in it since but once, and that was on Sunday, when one of the remaining corpuscles of goat's blood getting into his brain just as he was going into church, he butted the sexton half-way up the aisle, and only recovered himself sufficiently to apologize just as the enraged official was about to floor him with a hymn book.

It Didn't Work.

A couple of neighbors up-town were so enraged against each other that they would not speak. Recently one of them was converted. On Thursday he met his neighbor with whom he had the quarrel. He walked up to him, held out his hand, and said: "How are you, Bassett? I've been converted and I've become so humble that I'd shake hands with a dog." Bassett looked at him steadily for a minute, and then said: "I don't think there's any dog that's fallen quite so low as to even give you a paw. If I had a dog and he would condescend even to bark at you, I'd give him a swim with a stone around his neck. That little breach hasn't been healed yet between the neighbors.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Art In San Francisco.

No wonder Art flourishes in San Francisco. It is worth the while of any artist to come here to have his paintings criticised by the Morning Call. That paper had yesterday a description of the new altar piece of St. Francis' Church. It informs its readers that it is painted by Mr. Joseph Harrington, and that it took over ten weeks to paint it. The subject of the picture is Christ on the cross. The Call notes a great improvement on the old masters in this picture. It says:

The feet of Christ are nailed separately, thus avoiding the contortion of the limbs noticeable in some other paintings on the same subject, where a single spike is driven through both feet.

We are not told whether or not Mr. Joseph Harrington has copyrighted or patented this improvement on the crucifixion. It certainly must be an improvement. As the Call seems to suggest, nailing each foot separately is more workmanlike, and must look, if it really is not, more comfortable. It is these little attentions to detail that prove the true artist, and the accomplished connoisseur.

Obtained Her Rights.

Susan B. Anthony recently got one lick ahead on Judge Hunt, of Canandaigua, N. Y., Court, who refused to let the jury that tried her for illegally voting to render a verdict, claiming that it was only a question of law before the Court, and the jury had nothing to do with that. She carried her case up to the law-makers, the House of Representatives, and the Judiciary Committee have made a report repudiating without exception the arbitrary action of Judge Hunt, and deciding that the jury should have been allowed to return a verdict. The Committee, in order to vindicate the right of trial by jury, recommended that the fine of the petitioner be remitted.

A Scotch Celestial.

A correspondent in New Zealand tells the following story in illustration of the supremacy of the Scottish race in Otago. Proposals were the other day invited for some public work to be executed there. One Macpherson was successful. Mr. Macpherson was accordingly invited to attend to complete his contract. To the amazement of all the officials, a Chinaman, with a noble pig tail, put in an appearance. "Where's Mr. Macpherson?" asked the clerk. "Me!" replied John. "How came you to be called Macpherson?" "Oh, nobody get nothing in Otago if he be not a Mac," replied the unabashed Celestial.

Quite Chop-Fallen.

The Open Letter says:

What has taken hold of the Chronicle? It is as namby pamby and weak as a three-weeks calf. All the papers are pitching into it and letting fly at it, yet it never so much as gives an answering bleat.

No one has taken hold of it, on the contrary, everyone is letting go of it. The Chronicle is discouraged. Let's discourage it some more.

The Pioneers.

The Pioneers held their annual election of officers yesterday, and had a grand banquet. James Lick was elected President. In the evening the newly-elected President was serenaded and cheered. The day's celebration wound up with a serenade to certain of the newspapers. FIGARO acknowledges and appreciates the compliment paid.

At the Art Gallery.

"Who is that a statue of?" asked a lady of her husband, pointing to an Apollo.

"The Apollo Belvidere."

"Law! how affectionate you are, my love. And now, darling, who was Apollo Belvey?"

An explanation on pronunciation followed, which we did not stay to hear.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind.",

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gerrille keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To get their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Dr. Aborn.

ANOTHER CALIFORNIA HUMORIST.

No sooner does California hatch out a humorist than he flies off to the East, or to Europe. We have scarcely a humorist left now. We have one. We do not refer to the Brevity man of the Alta, or the editor of the Jolly Giant, they are simply idiots. The comic genius to whom we have reference is the regular San Jose correspondent of the Call. He wound up his letter which appeared in yesterday's Call with a sentence which for keen, wit, genial humor, and cutting sarcasm, can scarcely be surpassed. He announced that a dramatic entertainment was to take place this evening, and it was to be called "The Louisiana Relief Benefit." There is a good deal of fun in this, but just wait a little till we come to the cream of the joke. "The Octoroon" is to be performed in San Jose to-night for the benefit (ha, ha, ha) of the sufferers by the late floods in Louisiana. Fancy a benefit in San Jose! A benefit for anything else but a church, or a minister. The idea is too rich. We will keep our readers in suspense no longer. Here is the joke which we assert will rank with Mark Twain's best:

Mayor Murphy has consented to take charge of the funds and forward them to their proper destination.

Fancy the responsibility the Mayor of San Jose has assumed! We have a clairvoyant vision of the worthy Mayor at 11 o'clock to-night, after the performance is over, sealing up five three cent postage stamps in an envelope, and forwarding the precious package to the Louisiana Relief Commissioners. If a larger amount than this be realised in consequence of people from San Francisco going up to San Jose to push the thing through, due acknowledgement of the fact will appear in FIGARO. As the matter stands at present it appears to us a huge joke.

Love Put to Flight.

A few days ago a young couple in this city, says the Wheeling (W. Va.) Intelligencer, were "sighing for the knot there's no untying!" They had known each other long, and thought they knew each other well.

One evening the gallant called upon his future bride. He had passed the previous night with a party of bachelor friends, and didn't go "home till morning." As a consequence, not even the bright eyes of his dulcines could drive sleep from his eyelids. He reclined upon the sofa, and suddenly dropped into the land of dreams. Heavy breathing was followed by a slight snore, which developed into a snort which caused the house to tremble. There was as little variation in the nasal music as in the puffing of a high pressure steamer.

The young lady began to think of the future—then wept. She shook her sleeping lover, but he snored with renewed vigor. At last she was furious, and seizing his hair gave it a jerk that brought him to his feet. He stammered:

"What's the matter, my——"

"Matter enough," she replied. "I shall die an old maid before I marry a man that snores. Good-night!"

She left the parlor—he the house. The young lady could not keep the secret, and the reason why the match was broken off is now generally known among their circle of friends.

Too Funny.

A foreign correspondent to the Louisville Courier Journal relates the following anecdote, told him by an Englishman: He said he had assisted once at a marriage in England, and that, while the bridal party were kneeling around the chancel, a mischievous groomsman poked the groom in the ribs, and caused the poor fellow to laugh aloud. The bride followed suit, the bridesmaids ditto, and the clergyman rose up in his wrath and said that he would not marry such an impious couple. Indignantly he retired from the church, and no one could persuade him to return. The moments were fleeting, and 12 o'clock came with the knot untied. No marriage can take place in England after that hour, so there was nothing left for the bridal party to do but to return home and wait another day, when they could appear soberly and reverently to take their vows.

In Luck.

An exchange remarks:

Olive Logan, in an article on "The Voice as a Source of Income," in the Galaxy for July, says:

"I have, it is true, received as much as eight hundred dollars for a single lecture."

It is well to know this from Olive herself, as few, if any, who have listened to her platform patchwork would have ever dreamed that a lecture committee or any one else would have been guilty of paying one-twentieth of that sum for it.

Strong Testimony.

"What do you know of the character of this man?" was asked of a witness at a police court the other day. "What do I know of his character? I know it to be unbleachable, your honor," he replied, with much emphasis.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant egress under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 23 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England clothe, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance, with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The commencement of the new season of Minstrelsy at this house last night, drew an immense audience. Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington, who made their apresarance on this occasion, in conjunction with Maguire's California Minstrels, met with a most enthusiastic reception. Ben caused much fun by his style of singing "It's Funny When You Feel That Way," Billy Arlington's farm-yard imitations were very good, and his performance on two banjos was clever and original. "The Black Brigade," with which the First Part closed, is one of the most attractive finales ever produced. Billy Newcomb distinguished himself in "The Girl With the Curl." Billy Arlington delivered a clever burlesque speech on "Woman Sufferage." Billy Sweetnam appeared in "Uncle Eph's Dream," Welch and Rice in "Senegambian Gambols," Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington in "Who Stole the Banjo?" Little Mac in his "Essence," and George S. Knight in his Specialties. A more lively and varied performance has seldom been witnessed. The same bill will be played to-night.

California Theatre.

The very pleasing comedy of "Home" will be played to-night and to-morrow night. On Friday evening "David Garrick" will be performed with "Dundreary Married and Settled," as an after piece.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The sparkling comedy of "Extremes" will be played to-night for the last time. To-morrow evening Miss Jeffreys Lewis will make her first appearance in this city, in the fine comedy of "School."

Platt's Hall.

There was an immense attendance at this hall last night when the first exhibition of the wonderful troupe of Marionettes was given. Everyone was delighted with the entertainment which for novelty and variety has never been surpassed in this city. The wooden head minstrels kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter, the Fantoccini accomplished the most marvelous feats and the pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood," with which the performance closed, was a great success. There will be a matinee to-day at two o'clock, and a performance this evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

J. A. Herne in "Handy Andy," Miss Alice Ross and Ed Murray in "Terence's Return," Col. Mandeville in his sensation character songs, and a great variety of other attractions specified on our first page will be presented to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Miss Rose Vincent in fancy dances, Mortimore in sketches, Johnny Tuers and Ned Buckley in acts, Miss Ida Fisk in ballads and other performances will be given this evening.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Sam Bickey, whose popularity in New York is unbounded, will come here shortly, under engagement to Manager Maguire.

John King and G. W. Duncan, of Maguire's New Theatre will leave for the East to-morrow morning. Mr. King has long been connected with theatres under the management of Mr. Maguire, and has played a great range of characters.

"Sam" will be produced at the California Theatre next week.

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. BEFORE THE BALL.

What conquests will you make to-night—
What new loves will adore you?
Who'll swear your face is far more bright
Than any seen before you?
Who'll clasp your lithe waist in the dance,
And prize each precious minute,
And wonder if your tender glances
Has any meaning in it?

Who'll love you with an old-world love—
Long since gone out of fashion;
Will burn to win and wear your glove,
And plead an earnest passion?
Who, gazing on your childlike eyes,
Will deem you his ideal;
And, hanging on your sweet replies,
Believe your love is real?

Ah, lady, let the dress be gay,
And dest the handmaid's duty;
But spare one idle moth to-day
That flutters round your beauty.
For you, who play a cruel part,
So many loves forsaking,
May one day know you have a heart,
And chance to find it breaking.

Mother Hubbard and Her Dog.

The aged and venerable maternal representative of a family which descended from an ancestral progenitor known in his time by the patronymic appellation of Hubbard (perhaps from his having been one of the early poets or bards of the Hub),

Wended her way to the small apartment ordinarily devoted to the storage of crockery, and such portions of the family provisions as were left unused at the prandial meal,

To obtain, for the gratification of her favorite but emaciated specimen of the genus canis, a fragment of an osseous nature once composing an integral portion of the skeleton of an animal (whether bovine, porcine, or otherwise, the narrator was not able to determine satisfactorily), from which she had reason to believe her petted quadruped would obtain ailiment.

When by continuous progressive motion she had arrived at the end of her brief journey, and in fact had reached the objective point, and the goal of her desire,

Her fond anticipations were not realized, and her calculations came to nought; for the family receptacle, before alluded to, proved to be entirely denuded of everything in the way of that sustenance which tends to prolong life when received within and assimilated by the animal organism.

Consequently this indignant and long-suffering member of the higher class of the vertebrates called mammals, but familiarly known as the "poor dog," failed on this occasion to obtain anything to appease his unseated and voracious appetite, which there is reason to believe had previously been whetted by the anticipation of the favorable result of the visit of his friend and protector to the usual store-house of his supplies.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's easeless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men,
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

What Cheer Laundry

The Rainy Day.

It is surprising that so many people live without taking thought of the morrow. Reckless expenditures to ensure ease for the present seems to be the order of the day. With all the accomplishments of the young people now-a-days, how few have the education which will enable them to economize in time of need! The girl's smattering of the languages won't do this, nor the boy's skill at billiards; and thus the household expenditures suffer from the lack of an intelligent system of housekeeping and the ignorance of the younger branches of the family, both on this point and the way to earn their own living. Isn't it high time that there should be a change in this respect? The chances and changes of business, and the uncertainties of investments, make sad havoc with the position of once well-to-do people, and find too many members of families unable to do anything to keep the wolf from the door. The same neglect of a sound and reasonable education prevents the wives and children of working men from helping to bear the load which presses so heavily on the father of a family. How many good housekeepers are there among either the upper or middle classes who can, by careful management, so reduce their expenses as to tide over dull times, and in bright days have a surplus ready for the savings bank? This is a practical question to which our household economists should pay attention. Although the cost of living has largely increased during the last decade of years, it is still possible by the exercise of judicious economy and foresight, to provide for the needs of the rainy day.

Sweet San Jose.

The Independent California, published in San Jose, has the following: To characterize the vile caricatures of temperance ladies made by the hoodlums of San Jose on the 4th as simply disgraceful, would be dealing with the subject too mildly. It was an outrage upon morality and decency in every respect and an insult to the ladies and to every honest American citizen. The exhibition did not take us by surprise. We had intimations of the whole proceedings the day before, but choose not to anticipate the outrage. We knew that the liquor men were at the bottom of the affair, and would use the hoodlums of San Jose to carry out their programme. We said: let them do it. They are showing their hand. Let them do their worst, it will react upon them.—We see it in the same light now. They will carry on this style of display, and insult every sense of decency till they array every decent man and woman not implicated in the traffic against them. "Give the devil a rope long enough, and he will hang himself" is an old and true saying. He has a long rope in San Jose, and swings himself clear already.

Honors to an American Journalist.

Max Adeler says: All the world knows by this time that Mr. Bailey has fulfilled the chief purpose of his mission to England which was to settle the unseemingly quarrel between the Prince Beatrice and the Duchess of Edinburgh. But Mr. Bailey very modestly has refrained from stating that as a reward for this service the Queen has made him a Knight Commander of the Bath. The duties are not onerous; they are merely honorary; he does not really have to take command of a bath tub and keep his eye on the soap and towels. He must, however, wear a decoration upon State occasions, and hereafter, whenever there is a muster of the Connecticut militia, he will be compelled to take the field of an ironclad horse, and not only wearing brass trowsers and a galvanized shirt, but having upon his head a helmet, resembling an ice cream mould. It will be a grand and imposing spectacle, and it will probably be entirely free. These honors fall thickly upon young American journalists. Only a few months have elapsed since the King of Sweden made John Russell Young a Knight of the Order of the White Elephant, and that nobleman has taken daily exercise on the animal ever since. I myself narrowly escaped a somewhat similar honor. My publishers sent a copy of my books to every sovereign in Europe, Asia and Africa, and I have since learned that for their unfortunate mistake in addressing the Imaum of Muscat as "Sire" instead of "Serene and Awful Potentate of the Whole Earth," that worthy monarch would have made me a Chevalier of the Order of the Pink Hippopotamus." The Kahn of Khiva is yet to hear from, so there is still hope of something else. I was a narrow escape from greatness, and a larger salary; for, of course, once in the nobility, no man can afford to write for plebeian prices.

More Old Proverbs Examined Critically.

"More haste less speed." Try this when you are late for the train.

"A cat may look at a King"—if he be sufficiently tall to see over the heads of the crowd.

"Birds of a feather flock together." To test the truth of this, join a church decorating party. You will of course find that the poor curate makes hot love to a penniless young lady, while the wealthy young ladies hold themselves proudly aloof.

If the iceberg decline to visit Mahommed, the cheapest plan for the latter will be to enter a pastry-cook's shop and procure a sixpenny ice.

"All is not gold that glitters." No, indeed, some is diamond!

"Carrying coals to Newcastle." A necessary and habitual proceeding, as the mines are outside the town.

True Enough.

A young bootblack observed a neighbor poring wisely over a newspaper, whereupon he addressed him thus: "Julius, what are you looking at that paper for? You can't read." "Go away," cried the other, indignantly, "guess I can read; I'a big enuff for dat." "Big enuff!" retorted the other, scornfully; "dat ain't nuffin. A cow's big enough to catch mice, but she can't."

A Desperate Woman.

The Free Press records the emotions of a Detroit woman who was "sent up for sixty days": "She wildly called for poison as she was led back, but there was no poison. Bijah offered to let her swallow the big door-key, the mop, or his brass-bound watch but she finally concluded to wait and let some of the members of the Common Council talk her to death."

The Latest Dodge.

The last way of picking pockets is the Quaker City fashion. A woman carries a baby into a car, sits down beside her customer. Soon the baby vigorously kicks the customer, and the woman apologizes. Pickpocket gets out of the car very soon, with the kicking baby and the customer's wallet.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Buy "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices cheap. 3-v

Great Bargains in Clothing:

The only store in the city that has the largest, cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys' Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Melancholy Poets.

The female poet who writes for the papers poems with melancholy titles, like, "What are Earthly Joys to Me," and "I Yearn for the Silence of the Tomb," can put away more corn beef and cabbage than any female that we ever knew who was anxious to wear a wooden overcoat. But there's never any accounting for the peculiarities of poets. We know a poet, one of the sort who writes verses that you'd imagine were written by a man who could never smile again, and whose face you'd think would be solemn as an alligator's, and yet we've seen that poet in a crowd singing "Carry the News to Mary," and dancing a breakdown, and acting as frivolously as though this was a rather good world after all. Knowing these things about the poets with whom we come in contact, we sometimes think that some of the agonizing things which Byron informed us he felt, his sensational sufferings, and all that sort of thing, was put on paper without having ever been really experienced. The fact is in our opinion all the melancholy and suicidal poets were shams. Men who feel like walking into the graveyard and lying down and dying, or being anxious for insertion in cremation furnace, don't go into eating houses and eat beefsteak and onions and drink lager and sing comic songs. We have lost all faith in this style of poets since a young gentleman came to us one day and said. "I've got something here which I'd like to sell you. It's a poem. I think its good. Read it." We did read. It was the most dispairing howl we ever read. No dog that has been asphyxiated at the pound ever uttered so sad a yelp. We said it wasn't in our line. He said we could have it for one dollar as he was anxious to attend a dog fight that night. What a descent! From Parnassus to a dog pit! Then we lost our faith in wailing poets.

Free Postage Stamps.

A gentleman who was a stranger in Little Rock when to the desk of one of the hotels and asked if he could buy a postage stamp. The clerk replied that he had none, whereupon a bystander took out his pocketbook and graciously handed the gentleman a number of stamps telling him to help himself. The stranger took two of them, and, thanking the gentleman for his kindness, handed back the remainder of the stamps and six cents to pay for those he had taken. But the pennies had scarcely been placed in the hands of the other when he flung them on the floor and exclaimed excitedly, "If you were not such a d——d fool, sir, you would know that an Arkansian don't peddle postage stamps!" No apologies would be accepted, and the irate man walked out of the hotel.

More Light.

Goethe is said, on his death-bed, to have uttered these words: "More light! More light!" This is what the real truth-seeker is always saying, living or dying. No man, not a dogmatist, supposes that he has at any time all possible light upon any subject; he never presumes, for instance, that he knows certainly either that there is or is not a God, that immortality is a truth or a fiction. Belief in what are called "spiritual things" is largely a matter of temperament and education; but a truly liberal man will believe or not believe in all modesty, well knowing that it becomes him not to dogmatize on any point where demonstration is, or ever may be, lacking. Yet he is always desiring, and always grateful for, "more light" on any and every subject, let it come from whatsoever source it may.

Spiritualism.

Spiritualists have occasion to congratulate themselves on the endorsement which Spiritualism has lately received from Mr. Alfred Wallace, the distinguished English naturalist. In a recent number of the Fortnightly Review Mr. Wallace has an article entitled "Defence of Modern Spiritualism," in which the following explicit and pronounced statement occurs: "The facts of Spiritualism are ubiquitous in their occurrence, and of so indisputable a nature as to compel conviction in every earnest inquirer." Spiritualism has long been regarded as a heresy by the Church, and a delusion and superstition by Science; yet who knows but out of this very "Nazareth" may come the long-hoped for demonstration of immortality?

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city.
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast
And that he keeps the raw'st
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Reminiscences of Julia Dean.

The Louisville Courier-Journal indulges in the subjoined reminiscences of Julia Dean: "Old Dean was a solid, thick-set Cerberus, and watched his daughter with the austerity of a Crummles and the pride of a Costigan. He wore a blue coat with metal buttons, and carried a silver-headed cane, the terror of the larks who hung about the stage door and box office to catch a glimpse of the Fotheringay. What a girl she was, to be sure; a sylph-like thing with brown hair and hazel eyes, which glanced from pit to gallery and from gallery to pit in a ravishing way quite irresistible. All the beaux and bucks of the period were in love with her, and there was no end to the flowers and the verses contributed to her glorification. She married, and was unhappy; she died, and is, let us hope, in heaven. Perhaps we should not think her much of an actress now. But she was an ornament in her day to the stage, and passed through a singularly checkered career without ever having incurred a breach of suspicion or slander.

Shakspeare's Co-laborers.

The New Shakspeare Society has entered upon its work with promising vigor, and several of its members have brought forward satisfactory proof that Fletcher and Shakspeare together wrote "Henry VIII;" that Shakspeare wrote nearly half of "The Two Noble Kinsmen," and introducing every character in it; and that only the scenes in which Catherine and Petruchio appear in "Taming of the Shrew" were written by Shakspeare, the other scenes being due to the recaster of the old drama, "Taming of a Shrew."

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance, with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicium of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

California Theatre.

The present week is the last but one of the engagement of E. A. Sothern and Miss Minnie Walton at this house. To-night "Home" will be played, and to-morrow night the evening's entertainment will consist of "David Garrick" and "Dundreary Married and Settled."

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night a treat will be afforded the theatregoers of San Francisco in the first appearance at this house of Miss Jeffreys Lewis, in the obaracter of Naomi Tighe, in Robertson's admirable comedy of "School," which will be presented in capital style throughout. Miss Lewis has an excellent Eastern professional reputation.

Opera House.

Another large audience last night enjoyed the comicalities of Ben Cotton, Billy Arlington, Billy Sweatnam and Little Mac, and applauded to the echo the neat song and dance business of Bobby Newcomb. "The Girl with the Curl," the "Essence," "Who Stole the Banjo?" and "Uncle Eph's Dream," are among the attractions to be presented this evening.

Platt's Hall.

Both at the matinee yesterday and last night there was a large audience to witness the wonderful performances of the Marionettes. The pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood" is the most perfect thing of the kind ever seen. The arrangements of the stage are admirable and the changes of scenery are accomplished with great skill. The programme for to-night appears on our first page.

Bella Union Theatre.

Cal Mandeville's character songs, J. A. Herne's clever impersonation of Handy Andy, Miss Alice Ross' songs, H. R. Archer's ballads, and a variety of entertaining acts make up a very attractive bill at this house. Harry Courtaine will put in an appearance to-morrow night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Oakland Guest," "I Cut His Tail Off," Intelligence Office," are some of the acts to be performed to-night by the excellent company engaged at this house.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, at 5 P. M., Mons. Buislay will make another grand gas-balloon ascension, for a twenty-four hour's trip in the clouds. Previous to which the usual performances will be given in the Pavilion. Look out for a rush.

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

THOUGHTS DURING DIVINE SERVICE.

Too early, of course! How provoking!
I told Ma just how it would be.
I might as well have on a wrapper,
For there's not a soul here yet to see.
There! Sue Delapsine's pew is empty.—
I declare if it isn't too bad!
I know my suit cost more than her's did,
And I wanted to see her look mad.
I do think that sexton's too stupid—
He's put some one else in our pew—
And the girl's dress just kills mine completely;
Now what am I going to do?
The psalter, and Sue isn't here yet!
I don't care, I think it's a sin
For people to get late to service,
Just to make a great show coming in.
Perhaps she is sick, and can't get here—
She said she'd a headache last night.
How mad she'll be after her fussing!
I declare it would serve her just right.
Oh, you've got here at last, my dear, have you?
Well, I don't think you need be so proud
Of that bonnet, if Virot did make it,
It's horrid fast looking and loud.
What a dress!—for a girl in her senses
To go on the street in light blue!—
And those coat-sleeves—they wore them last Summer—
Don't doubt, though, that she thinks they're new.
Mrs. Gray's polonaise was imported—
So dreadful!—a minister's wife,
And thinking so much about fashion!
A pretty example of life!
The altar's dressed sweetly—I wonder
Who sent those white flowers for the font!—
Some girl who's gone on the assistant—
Don't doubt it was Bessie Lamont.
Just look at her now, little humbug!—
So devout—I suppose she don't know
That she's bending her head too far over
And the ends of her switches all show.
What a sight Mrs. Ward is this morning!
That woman will kill me some day,
With her horrible lilacs and crimsons,
Why will these old things dress so gay?
And there's Jenny Welles with Fred Tracy—
She's engaged to him now—horrid thing!
Dear me! I'd keep on my glove sometimes,
If I did have a solitaire ring!
How can this girl next to me act so—
The way that she turns round and stares,
And then makes remarks about people;
She'd better be saying her prayers.
Oh dear, what a dreadful long sermon!
He must love to hear himself talk!
And it's after twelve now,—how provoking!
I wanted to have a nice walk,
Through at last. Well, it isn't so dreadful
After all, for we don't dine till one;
How can people say church is poky!—
So wicked!—I think it's real fun.

—George A. Baker, Jr., in Scribner's Monthly.

Mrs. Partington Convalescent.

"La, me!" sighed Mrs. Partington, "here I have been suffering the bigamies of death for three mortal weeks. First, I was seized with a bleeding phrenology in the left hampshire of the brain, which was exceeded by a stoppage of the ventilator of the heart. This gave me an inflammation in the borax, and now I'm sick with the chloroform morbus. There is no blessing like that of health, particularly when you are ill."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here.
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

THIS AND THAT.

Generally speaking—Women.

All flowers of speech spring from tulips.

What is there beats a good wife?—A bad husband.

If thine enemy wrong thee, buy each of his children a drum.

How to get rich—Learn to live on air and sleep on a clothes line.

An Iowa man bought a light axe because his wife was sick, and couldn't chop very well with a heavy one.

A "monster," in human form, says that the only time a woman does not exaggerate is when she is talking of her own age.

Chicago has a female sexton, and they charge her with reserving all the best graves for young men.

A young lady will sail in the next steamer from Boston for Europe who doesn't expect to marry a nobleman; another one who isn't going to Italy to study music.

"Dried tongue," was the answer which a minister, just going out to "exchange," gave to some one who asked him what he had in his carpet-bag, which contained seven sermons.

The old superstitious notion that crocodiles weep has been exploded by the scientists; but it is pretty generally acknowledged that sailors have repeatedly seen whales' blubber.

Paterfamilies (who believes in the employment of women) writes to ask why young women should be kept out of the pulpit while there are so many olds ones let in.

Lady Visitor—"My dear, do you know if your mamma is engaged?" Little Girl of the Period—"Engaged? Bless you, why, she's married!"

Terrible Child—"What is matter?" Sensible Parent—"Never mind." Terrible Child—"What is mind?" Sensible Parent—"No matter."

A paper says of the air in its relation to man, "It kisses and blesses him, but will not obey him." Boobs says that description suits his wife exactly.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity," remarked Johnny, as his mother gave him a cake of maple sugar to compensate for a fall down the cellar stairs.

Now that the word "hymeneal" is so commonly used in reference to weddings, it is suggested that births be headed "crymeneal," and deaths "diemeneal."

The excuse of a young lady to her minister, who caught her napping, was. "Don't you think ladies had better be fast asleep than fast awake?"

The coming poet is Napoleon, Ohio, warbles:—

"'Tis midnight, and the setting sun
Is rising in the wide, wide west.
The rapid rivers slowly run;
The frog is on his downy nest."

FRIDAY .....JULY 10, 1874

Up and Down in Japan.

The Japan Mail says:

One of fortune's freaks is related in one of the native papers. A samourai, whose name is uncertain, hired a jinrikisha, the drawer of which was so weak that he excited the indignation of his fare. Added to this, he unfortunately managed to drop his shafts and the rider was thrown out upon his head and rolled into a puddle. Full of wrath, the samourai struck him severely. The poor fellow apologised in vain. The samourai stormed at him; and, asking how he dared insult him by keeping his head covered whilst he spoke to him, he seized the blue handkerchief with which the man's head was bound, and pulled it off. No sooner had he done so, however, than he repented of his ferocity. To his surprise he discovered in the poor weak jinrikisha man his former master, who under the Tycoonate was a hatamoto. The samourai had long been looking for him; and, notwithstanding the awkwardness of the circumstances, he showed great joy at the discovery. He offered him all the money he had about him, and invited him to accompany him home; and here the curtain falls, so far as the public are concerned.

This sort of thing is not so likely to happen in the United States as in Japan. A man meeting a former boss in indigent circumstances in New York, Boston, or San Francisco, would not, as a rule, offer him all the money he had about him. Japan is at present not quite "civilized."

The Rationalistic Beecher.

And now Mr. Beecher has said another startling thing. Recently, in a sermon, he held out that the story of the Garden of Eden was a parable, and that the view that we are held responsible for what Adam and his wife did is so contradictory of God's justice, that no man should regard it but with repugnance. The men, too, he said who believe that the world was made in six days are brothers of Egyptian mummies, and the mummies are the best men of the two! Only a little while ago he said that it has not been the Church that has preserved the Church; and that organized Christianity has been the poorest part of religion! Really another Council ought to be called, which should make short work with Brother Beecher.

A San Jose Benefit.

The dramatic performance for the benefit of the Louisiana Sufferers, came off at the Opera House last night. The "Octoroon" was performed. The evening's receipts were $167.20, expenses $193.85. "Mayor Murphy has consented to take charge of the funds and forward them to their proper destination." This is what the Call's San Jose correspondent observed before the "benefit" came off. We hope the Mayor won't send a requisition to the Louisiana Sufferers calling on them to make up the difference between expenses and receipts. We hope the San Jose people will let them off. A "benefit" in San Jose! Ye gods.

New Music.

We have received from the publisher, M. Gray, "How He Loves me Best," a ballad words by H. Saville Clarke, music by Desmond L. Ryan.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys' Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

The Good Fellow.

We wonder if "The Good Fellow" ever mistrusts his goodness, or realizes how selfish, how weak, how unprincipled, and how bad a fellow he truly is. He never regards the consequence of his acts as they relate to others, and especially those of his family friends. Little fits of generosity towards them are supposed to atone for all his misdeeds, while he inflicts upon them the disgraces, inconveniences, and burdens which attend a selfishly dissolute life. The invitation of a friend, the taunts of good-natured boon companions, the temptations of jolly fellowship, these are enough to overcome all his scruples, and lead him to ignore all the possible results to those who love him best, and who must care for him in sickness and all the unhappy phases of his selfish life.

The Good Fellow is notoriously careless of his family. Any outside friend can lead him whithersoever he will—into debauchery, idleness, vagabondage. He can ask a favor, and it is done. He can invite him into disgrace, and he goes. He can direct him into a job of dirty work, and he straightway undertakes it. He can tempt him into any indulgence which may suit his vicious whims, and, regardless of wife, mother, sister, who may be shortened in their resources so as legitimately to claim his protecting hand—regardless of honorable father and brother—he will spend his money, waste his time, and make himself the subject of constant and painful anxiety, or an unmigated nuisance to those alone who care a straw for him. What pay does he receive for this shameful sacrifice? The honor of being considered a "Good Fellow" with a set of men who would not spend a cent for him if they should see him starving and who would laugh over his calamities. When he dies in a ditch, as he is most likely to die, they breathe a sigh over the swill they drink, and say, "after all, he was a Good Fellow."

The Comet.

An exchange says: The comet visible is the one which appeared in 1836, and which created such a sensation among the superstitious, who looked upon it as the one which was to take an active part in reducing the world to ashes and upsetting the people who inhabited it. It was an erratic orb which changed both its position and its shape. Sometimes assuming the form of a sickle, and then becoming straight. It cavorted around until it ceased to be a scarecrow and modestly disappeared.

Since this has got out we see no harm in mentioning it. We knew all along which comet it was. We recognized it at a glance. The newspapers couldn't play it on us for a Coggia or Coggins comet. It's no use trying to calculate the course of that comet. One thing we are convinced of that is, that it means business this time. It will be observed that, as the comet gradually approaches the earth (by "gradually" we mean at the rate of a couple of millions of miles a day,) the weather gets warmer. We state authoritively that it will get warmer still. We have no real estate. If we had we would sell. We are not afraid of that comet, but it is a sort of comet that will make it mighty warm and uncomfortable for the wicked.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-x

Joe Giusta's Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-m

Ruskin on Lectures.

Ruskin disapproves of the lecture system. A request having been made to him to deliver a lecture at Glasgow, he replied by emphatically declaring that the desire of audiences "to be audiences only" is becoming an "entirely pestilent character of the age." The multitude are in too great haste to be wise, or, as he puts it, they expect a man to knead into small sweet pills the knowledge which it has taken him half a lifetime to acquire, and to put it straight down their throats. This, as he very truly says, is not to be done; and he proceeds to condemn as "entirely pestilent and abominable" the "modern fire working, smooth downy-curry-and-strawberry-ice-and-milk-punch-altogether lecture." The death of poor Dickens, who was killed by the insatiable demands of the mob, when he might have been writing "blessed books" till he was eighty, Ruskin says is a lamentable example of this modern tendency.

Tickled to Death.

How it goes to be fresh married in Buena Vista is thus told by the Sioux Rapids Echo: One of our young married men thinks so much of his lovely wife that he lights a candle two or three times every night to look at her. Then he quietly goes to sleep like a turkey gobbler, he feels so good."

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance, with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The comedy of "School" was performed at this house last night, and Miss Jeffreys Lewis on this occasion made her first appearance before a California audience. She made a decided hit. Her personal beauty at once recommended her, and when by the very clever manner in which she played the part of Bella, the audience were convinced that to her personal charms was added the gift of talent of a high order, their applause became enthusiastic. Miss Lewis was called before the curtain again and again, and numbers of bouquets were thrown on the stage. Miss Lewis has learned her profession in a good school, and is a valuable acquisition to the California stage. "School" was very well played, in many particulars. Miss Sydney Cowell made a charmingly tomboyish Nomi Tighe, Miss Mary Wells did some excellent acting as Mrs. Sutcliffe, and A. D. Billings as Dr. Sutcliffe, presented one of those pleasing old gentleman characterizations for which he is famous. Edward Arnott as Jack Poyntz, played the part with all the nonchalance required, Charles Edmonds made Lord Beaufoy a manly fellow whom one could respect, John Howson made up for, and acted the part of Krux with admirable skill, and George Giddens was particularly effective, in the last act, in the character of Bean Farintosh. He gave a wonderfully realistic picture of a weak minded worldly old man brought to a realization of his follies. The young ladies in "School" played their respective parts with commendable animation, and the performance as a whole was most enjoyable. The same play will be given to-night and at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"Home" was performed again last night, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all capable of appreciating true dramatic art. To-night another play of even greater excellence, a play which is now being performed in English, Italian, Spanish and French will be presented. In no play does Mr. Sothern appear to greater advantage than in "David Garrick." This with the farcical afterpiece of "Dundreary Married and Settled" will constitute the evening's entertainment. At the matinee to-morrow "Home" will be played for the last time.

Opera House.

To-night Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington will appear on the ends in the First Part and in their great act of "Who Stole the Banjo?" Bobby Newcomb will present his inimitable song and dance, "The Girl with the Curl," Little Mac will execute his wonderful Essence, George S. Knight will appear in his specialties and the performance will conclude with "Uncle Eph's Dream." The usual matinee performance will be given to-morrow.

Platt's Hall.

To-night, and also at the matinee to-morrow, the Royal Marionettes will be exhibited in a very attractive programme comprising a minstrel entertainment made up of some songs and bright jokes, the wonderful feats of the Italian Fantoccini, and the fairy pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood." All the children in San Francisco should be taken to Platt's Hall to enjoy this entertainment.

Benefit of M. Deschamps.

On Sunday an admirable entertainment will be given at the California Theatre for the benefit of M. Julien Deschamps, the baritone of the Aimee troupe. The charming Mlle. Aimee will on this occasion make her last appearance in San Francisco. The performance will consist of "Un Mariage du Coton," by Mlle. Marie Aimee and M. Deschamps an interlude of song and dance, in which M. Deschamps, Madame Franzini, Madame Marie Briet and Mlle. Marie Gaugain will take part, and Offenbach's operets of Lischen and Fritzchen performed by Mlle. Aimee and M. Deschamps. This very delightful entertainment will doubtless be enjoyed by a large audience.

Bella Union Theatre.

J. A. Horne has made a decided hit at this house. He will appear to-night as Captain Cuttle in the play of "Dombey and Son." The management also announce the engagement of the eccentric, "very eccentric" comedian, Harry Courtaine, who will play Toots. Miss Jennie Johnson will play Susan Nipper and Miss Lana Proctor, Florence Dombey. In addition to this great attraction there will be a capital First Part and an olio of songs, acts and dances, in which Miss Susie Robinson, Miss Alice Rees, Ed Murray, Matt Kelly, Tommy Bree, Cal. Mandeville and others will take part.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

A great feature of the capital performance given at this house, is Johnny Tuer's screaming act of "The Oakland Ghost." It will be presented to-night in connection with a great olio of songs acts and dances. Ned Buckley and Harry Devoy also appear in rattling acts.

Back Again.

Charles Wheatleigh and his agent, J. Snyder, arrived from the East last night. Of course they have some new plays, and we hope that the public of San Francisco, who so thoroughly appreciate Mr. Wheatleigh, will be afforded an opportunity of seeing him on the stage.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, at 5 P. M., Mons. Baisley will make another grand gas-balloon ascension, for a twenty-four hour's trip in the clouds. Previous to which the usual performances will be given in the Pavilion. Look out for a rush.

BY THE RIVER.

The falling out of faithful friends
Renewing is of love.

The noise of the busy city
Had passed, like a storm, away,
As we stood by the rising river
On a calm, sweet night in May,
And gazed on the fairy prospect wide,
I and the trusting maid at my side.

As far as the eye could wander,
The lamps in thousands gleamed,
Like golden stars in the water,
Where a golden palace seemed,
While the moon with jewel-glittering hand
Threw over the river a silver band.

My life was like that river,
With its ceaseless fall and rise,
And the band of silver splendor
Was the light of maiden's eyes;
And the palace of gold I seemed to see
Was the joy her presence built in me.

I stood again by the river,
But stood that night alone;
And the moon was clouded over
And the fairy vision gone,
For the scene had changed by a single breath,
Like spring's young life to winter's death.

And so, in a moment's anger,
A doubt grew o'er my peace,
A jealous fear flashed through me
That bade life's beauty cease;
And a passionate love seemed doomed by fate
To be turned by a word to a passionate hate.

For I knew she had some secret
That coiled around her life,
And brought in the midst of pleasure
The sting of some inward strife.
I had cried, in my rage, "The love must die
That is hedged by doubt or bound by a lie."

We stood once more by the river,
Midst a wild and merry throng;
But joined not the dance or laughter,
Nor heeded the joyous song:
For the storm that had rent our lives apart
Was followed by anguish and grief of heart.

But years of affliction were over,
And like an autumn morn
Succeeding a night of tempest,
Our joy appeared new-born,
To gild with its glory our weary days,
As the sun gilds clouds with his golden rays.

I have not hid my sorrows;
She has revealed her past;
Bound by that trust to each other,
Love will surely last;
For life without love is death to me,
And love is the bliss of eternity.

An Unfortunate Conjurer.

A magician came to grief recently while giving a performance in England. He was handcuffed, covered in a large bag, then lifted into a box, which was closed and fastened, and afterward placed in a cabinet. The trick consisted in releasing himself from his bonds and getting out of the bag and box without disturbing the fastenings. The audience waited for some time, when faint sounds were heard from the box. On opening it the unfortunate magician was found nearly smothered to death, and had to be carried off the stage. Some of the machinery had gone wrong, and a few minutes more confinement would probably have caused the man's death.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here"
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam sand crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Suicide of a Manager.

The Brooklyn Eagle, of June 27th, prints the following account of the suicide of a veteran actor and manager: Thomas Wemyss, a man formerly well known in this city, and especially in theatrical circles, now lies at the point of death, at his residence in Williams avenue, East New York, from the effects of a bullet-hole in the brain, he having attempted to put an end to his own life by shooting. The affair occurred at 8:30 o'clock this morning, and would seem to have been the sudden freak of a man laboring under temporary aberration of mind. Wemyss was for five or six years stage manager and leading heavy man at Mrs. F. B. Conway's old Park Theatre, and during that time he made for himself a good record. While thus employed he had some domestic troubles, and eventually a lawsuit, which terminated in his obtaining a divorce from his wife, who is now deceased. Subsequently he made the acquaintance of a widow of considerable fortune and married her, and this circumstance led him to abandon the business. For some years he has resided in a neat little cottage in the village of East New York, and until within a year past conducted the business of an extensive shirt manufactory. Lately he had become addicted to heavy drinking, and not only made himself miserable in consequence, but also all those with whom he associated. He recovered from the effects of one of his sprees on Friday morning, and being unable to sleep last night, he procured a quantity of morphine and swallowed the whole of it, not, however, with the intention of committing suicide. The drug seems to have acted contrary to expectation, for Wemyss made his appearance this morning, looking worn and haggard, and to the inquiries of his wife remarked that he had not slept all the night. His brother was in the breakfast room at the time, and turning to him Wemyss said, "I'm going to shoot a dog," and at the same time he drew a revolver from his pocket, walked over to the window, placed the weapon to his forehead and fired. The bullet entered above his right temple, and passed from thence to the base of the brain, where it lodged. He fell forward upon the floor, and it was thought by his horrified wife and brother that he was dead, but Dr. Andrews, who was summoned, made an examination and discovered that life still lingered. The unfortunate man was placed on a bed, and remained for several hours in a stupor, from the effects, as supposed, of the morphine. His death is regarded as the matter of only a few hours. He is fifty-two years of age, and has a wife but no children.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Stephen Massett, well known as "Jeems Pipes, of Pipesville," will give his clever monologue entertainment at the Lecture room of the Congregational Church, on Thursday evening, July 16th. This will be Jeems' farewell of Sacramento and "other towns yet to hear from."

SAN JOSE.—The dramatic performance for the "benefit" of the Louisiana sufferers came off at the Opera House on Thursday evening. "The Octoroon" was performed in good style by Miss Carrie Lipsis, Miss Neko McCabe, and San Jose amateurs. The receipts were $167.20; the expenses $193 85. The performance was repeated last night. Under the circumstances the San Jose people will not call upon the Louisiana people to make up the deficiency.

GILROY.—This pretty little town is to have a new theatre. George T. Nichols and George W. Bell are at work on stage and scenery, and the theatre will soon be ready for dramatic performances. L. H. Dwyer is the proprietor.

PORTLAND.—The next entertainments the Portland people are to enjoy, are a series of concerts by Madame Anna Bishop, Mrs. Morrison, and others whose names we gave the other day.

VIRGINIA CITY.—The Coleman Sisters, Misses Clara, Alice and Louise, commenced an engagement at Piper's Opera House last week, and have been playing to good houses during the present week. Their entertainment consists of vocal and instrumental music, comedy and farce.

SALT LAKE.—At latest dates the stock company were performing at the Theatre and John Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre Circus Troupe was doing an immense business.

DENVER, COL.—At the Cricket, which is managed by Harry Spriggs, Miss Coriell, O. B. Rose, Mlle. Aubrey, Miss Jennie Logan and others give an excellent variety entertainment. Johnny Thompson, who opened at the Denver Theatre proved to be a fraud, and was withdrawn after the first night. Bremond & Morton's Minstrels are performing at Guard's Opera House.

Geysers.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
Over which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Bacon & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

A London correspondent says: J. K. Emmet is in London. I met him here the other night, and on my asking him if he intended playing in London, he replied that no engagement had been yet concluded. When Emmet opened at the Adelphi he brought money, but the latter part of his stay was a fiasco, financially speaking. Byron is writing another piece for him.

Mr. Gye has given up his engagement as director of the Italian operas of St. Petersburg and Moscow. He found that he would have to act under a high Russian official, and the subordinate position did not suit him.

Another candidate for "La Fille de Madame Angot" honors turns up in the person of Miss Blanche Terri, in Dublin, who is highly commended.

Nothing in music or the drama has excited such a sensation in England as Lecocq's "La Fille de Madame Angot." It has been played in all the notable theatres from the Channels to Land's End.

Mr. J. L. Toole, Mr. Macoabe, and Mr. Howard Paul, are all booked for America by the White Star Line.

The Viennese Female Orchestra, now playing at the Alhambra Theatre, Brussels, have created a very great sensation, and the theatre is crowded to excess every evening. The members of this orchestra consist partly of Hungarians, Bohemians, and Viennese. Mlle. Hpstein, who plays the violin with such extraordinary skill, is only 16 years old. Her sister, who plays the violincello equally well, is 18 years of age. On leaving Brussels they will proceed to London.

The Prince of Wales was present at a recent full-dress rehearsal of Balfe's "Talismano," at Covent Garden, London. At the end of the rehearsal, he sent for Mme. Balfe, the widow of the composer, and after expressing the gratification he had derived from the performance, accepted the dedication of the work.

Miss Rose Coghlan, late of Wallack's Theatre, is playing Lady Isabel, in "East Lynne," at the St. James Theatre, London.

Miss Helen Barry, a beautiful woman but a poor actress, will play the Countess de Chandoce in "Led Astray," at the Gaiety Theatre, London.

The death is announced of Mr. Charles Abbot, the well-known clown and pantomimist. He died at Cardiff, Wales, of consumption, at the age of thirty-two, on June 8th.

Madame Jenny Van Zandt, our native American prima donna, is now on a visit to London for pleasurable enjoyment, after a long and exhausting labor of English opera, but she will return in the Fall, to resume her professional engagements in the United States.

A rather realistic incident occurred, one night recently, in the realistic third act of that realistic comedy, "Mont Blanc," at the Haymarket Theatre, London. In the market scene, with real fountain, real vegetables, real poultry and real coops, a real hen laid a real egg (some may say it was only a chalk one,) and set up a real cackling—which caused—best of all—a real laugh.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A most capital entertainment was presented at this house last night. It consisted of the comedy of "David Garrick," and the screaming farce of "Dandreary Married and Settled." In the character of David Garrick, Mr. Sothern did some excellent acting. The drunken scene was remarkably well carried out; the drunkenness was just real enough to deceive and disgust a woman, and at the same time, the audience, many of whom were aware of the eccentricities to which drunkenness leads, could see that Garrick was shamming. It was a consistent drunk, and if there is anything we like more than another, it is consistency, even in a drunk. In the last act, in which Garrick urges Ada Ingot to return to her father, Mr. Sothern exhibited intense pathos, and perfectly carried the audience with him. Robert Pateman gave a capital representation of a country squire of the olden time, and his simulation of intoxication was equal in its way, to that of Mr. Sothern. The support was generally good. Miss Minnie Walton looked charmingly lovely in the character of Ada Ingot and played it in a very natural and unaffected manner. At the matinee to-day "Home" will be played, and in the evening last night's bill will be repeated.

OPERA HOUSE.—There is no such a collection of stars extant, as that at present performing at the Opera House. Ben Cotton, Billy Arlington, Bobby Newcomb, Billy Sweatnam, Little Mac, Geo. S. Knight, and Welch and Rice are unrivalled in their various specialities. They will all appear at the matinee to-day, this evening and again to-morrow evening in a great bill comprising "The Black Brigade," "Female Suffrage," "Who Stole the Banjo," "Senegambian Gambols," and other amusing performances which are set forth on our first page. The expense of such a combination is enormous, but the crowded houses sustain Mr. Maguire in his resolution to engage the best talent and plenty of it.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—The excellence of the company engaged at this house is well shown by the capital style in which the comedy of "School" is performed. Miss Jeffreys Lewis has made a profound impression on the San Francisco public, and may already be considered one of the greatest favorites on the stage. Miss Sydney Cowell is very pleasing in soubrette parts, John Howson, Edward Arnott, Charles Edmonds, Miss Mary Wells, George Giddens, A. D. Billings, and all the rest of the company spare no pains to please, and the manner in which plays are put on the stage reflects credit on the management. "School" will be played at the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening, and should be seen by all lovers of modern comedy before it is withdrawn.

PLATT'S HALL.—The performances of the wonderful troupe of wooden headed artistes known as the Royal Marionettes have drawn crowds to this house during the week. The entertainment is particularly pleasing to children and also has a fascination for children of a larger growth. The minstrel entertainment is capital, the Fantoccini interlude is very amusing, and the pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood" as regards acting, scenery and costumes, is unexceptionable. There will be a matinee performance to-day, and a performance in the evening.

BENEFIT OF MONS. DESCHAMPS. — To-morrow night, an admirable entertainment will be given at the California Theatre for the benefit of M. Julien Deschamps, the baritone of the Aimee troupe. The charming Mlle. Aimee will on this occasion make her last appearance in San Francisco. The performance will consist of "Un Mardans du Coton," by Mlle. Marie Aimee and M. Deschamps an interlude of song and dance, in which M. Deschamps, Madame Franzini, Madame Marie Briot and Mlle. Marie Gangain will take part, and Offenbach's operets of Lischen and Fritzchen performed by Mlle. Aimee and M. Deschamps. This very delightful entertainment will doubtless be enjoyed by a large audience.

NEW BELLA UNION THEATRE. — This well managed variety theatre presents a very attractive bill at present. After a rattling first part by the male and female minstrels, and a varied interlude, "Dombey and Son" is presented with James A. Herne in his great character of Captain Cuttle. Harry Courtaine as Toots, J. W. Summers as Mr. Dombey, Miss Jennie Johnson as Susan Nipper, Cal. Mandeville as Jack Bunsby, and a generally strong cast. Then come more acts, songs and dances, and the laughable sketch entitled "The Hotel Runners" concludes the evening's entertainment.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Johnny Tacrs in "The Oakland Ghost" and in specialities, Ned Buckley and Harry Devoy in "I Cut his Tail Off," Mortimore in his sketches, Miss Rose Vincent in fancy dances, Miss Ida Fisk in song and dance, Miss Ida May in serio-comic songs, and a great variety of other performances will be given to-night and to-morrow night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—BALLOON ASCENSION.—To-morrow at 5 P. M., Mons. Buisley will make another grand gas-balloon ascension, for a twenty-four hour's trip in the clouds. Previous to which the usual performances will be given in the Pavilion. Look out for a rush.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mengenberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice. Omnibuses will leave on SUNDAYS, at 9 o'clock A. M., from the corner of Market and Kearny streets, and every hour afterward, until 4 o'clock, from the corner of McAllister and Fillmore streets connecting with the Market Street and Hayes Valley cars and from the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets by the way of City Front and Lone Mountain cars.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

NOTES.—Russell Girardi of the wonderful Girard Brothers, who were such a feature of the holiday performances at the California Theatre, reports from Melbourne, Australia, to FIGARO, under date July 1st. He says: "Our debut here, which occurred on May 30th, was a grand success. The house was crammed from pit to dome. We were most cordially received and the applause during our performance was most enthusiastic. Miss May Howard has made a decided hit here, in Melbourne. Her beauty and her magnificent toilettes are the talk of the town. She has just concluded the first half of her engagement, and has cleared over three thousand dollars, that is £600. At her benefit on Friday week, she had a tremendous house, and made a speech which seemed to please the people very much. She was honored on that occasion by the presence of Lord and Lady Bowen. And as they don't turn out to everything, it was considered quite an honor; the papers gave her splendid notices for her Romeo, which was really a most excellent piece of acting. Melbourne is a fine city and we like it as well as we could any place outside of 'Frisco. I tell you we did not know how much we liked your good city until we got away from it. But I suppose we shall probably get used to this place, although everything is so very different from the United States, especially the arrangements for eating, after Frisco it is dreadful. We sigh for a dinner at the Maison Doree. There is no such place here."

By letters from Honolulu, S. I., we learn that Billy Emerson was there, and will return to this city by the next steamer, about August 6th.

Our young California artiste, Miss Lotta, has invested in real estate in this city, the amount of $60,000. She evidently thinks "there is no place like home."

Joe Murphy, with a company consisting of Miss Fanny Young, Miss Mollie Eaynor and other local talent, leave for Los Angeles on Tuesday next for a short dramatic season there.

In addition to the great aggregation of talent at the Opera House, Sam Rickey, Master Barney and Miss Lulu Delmay, are underlined on the bills as engaged to appear. No one was more popular during the late season in New York, than Sam Rickey.

Miss Jeffreys Lewis who has made such a success at Maguire's New Theatre, came out to New York from England under special engagement to the Lyceum theatre. The failure of that theatre disengaged a considerable amount of talent. We are glad to get our share of it.

The Art exhibition has reduced the price of admission to 25 cents. A few leisure hours could not be spent to more advantage than examining the display at 313 Pine street.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The Clipper gives the following dismal account of amusements in New York:—"Never within the memory of the oldest inhabitant have public amusements in this city been so poorly patronized as during the present Summer season. Wallack's and the Olympic Theatre succumbed to the financial depression and thermometrical inflation, and closed their doors after the performance of June 27. During the past week, at all the places of amusement save the Hippodrome, a mere handful of people were nightly gathered together. It would seem that we are drifting back to antebellum days, when the regular season closed early in June, and was recommenced by the middle of August or early in September. During the recess none but the most venturesome would attempt to cater for the public'....."Peril" was being played at Union-Square Theatre....."The Two Sisters," produced at Niblo's Garden on the 23d, was to be followed by a revival of "Ivanhoe".....Miss Kate Fisher and her trained horse appeared at the Bowery on the 29th in "Mazeppa".....Buffalo Bill commenced at the Bowery on the 27th ult.

Bartley Campbell has written a domestic drama entitled "The Orphans" for the Carrolls—R. M. Carroll, and Masters Edwin, Dick and the General.

Much progress has been made in the reorganization of the Kellogg English troupe for the next season. The best portion of its old material will be retained and valuable additions made. Of the former company Messrs. Maas and Carleton, and Mrs. Seguin, contracts have finally been signed with Messrs. Castle and Campbell, and negotiations are in progress with Miss Blanche Cole, the English prima donna.

The San Francisco Minstrels will reappear in New York on August 31.

Madame Ristori commences an engagement at the Lyceum Theatre on March 1, 1875.

Max Maretzek has disposed of his wardrobe and music to Mr. Maurice Grau.

It was reported some weeks ago that Blanche Chapman had married Mr. H. Clay Ford and gone to Europe. They were not married until the 24th ultimo, and left the 27th in the Italy for Liverpool. The wedding took place in Baltimore.

The New York Mercury has the following genial notice of a popular psalm slinger: Our Rochester correspondent says: Phillip Phillips, "ye cherubic songster of Palestine," will hum a few for the benighted heathens who live at Bath, N. Y., and thereabouts on the 30th, which is his last concert previous to embarking for Australia, July 6. P. P. is a queer one. He don't approve of dead heads or local newspapers.

Little Nell has added to her repertoir two society plays, "No Name," and "Cachita the Creole."

It is authoritatively stated that Charles R. Thorne, Jr., will not be a member of the Union Square theatre next season.

The Chicago critics are very much displeased with Gayler's new play, "With the Tide," and although Katie Mayhew, the stellar heroine, was immensely popular in Chicago for several seasons, the play has failed to draw.

Annie Graham and F. L. Gardener sailed for Europe on the Wyoming, 23d. The starring tour did not extend farther from San Francisco than Denver.

Miss Annette Ince has just purchased a new play, dramatized from a recently published Ledger story, by an American dramatist. The author, aside from the copyright of the play, has taken out a copyright of two original scenes that, for simplicity of setting and novelty, are said to excel anything that has been produced for years.

Oliver Doud Byron, has presented to the United States Court at Philadelphia, Judge Cadwalader, in equity, setting forth that in November, 1871, he wrote and composed an original drama, which on the 27th of that month, he had copyrighted under the title of "Ben McCullough; or, Certain as Death," with the following incidents and effects: "Double log hut, water-well and well-pole and bucket, falling walls, burning hut, hotel passenger elevator or baggage elevator, throwing or falling of body or bodies through elevator, fire scene, effects, etc." That since that times he has performed the play and superintended its performance in all the cities of the United States; that the composition is in manuscript, never having been printed; that on June 15, J. M. of that city, produced a play under the title of Ben McCullough; or, Certain as Death, which was in all respects the same play which he had composed and copyrighted, and was an infringement upon the same; wherefore he prayed an injunction to restrain them from the further producing such a play or infringing upon such copyright. The defendants put in no answer to this bill nor did they appear in court to defend against the proceeding, and therefore the Judge directed the injunction to issue as prayed for in Byron's bill.

The Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, is undergoing the much-needed process of altering and renovating, the auditorium being entirely rebuilt, with three new tiers, balcony, family circle and amphitheatre. These improvements will be completed by September 1, and will cost $20,000.

W. A. Mestayer is at present taking a holiday in Washington, D. C., preparatory to the Fall season. He is engaged for three years to Lucien Barnes. Owen Marlowe, Ed. Marble, Miss Katy Wilson and George Middleton are in New York.

Miss Alice Costinedia, one of the four lady riders in the hurdle race in Barnum's Hippodrome at the matinee performance 25th, while riding the racer Caster, was thrown on her left side, shoulder and face, and the horse rolled over upon her. The following horse stepped on her breast, but not heavily. The employes who ran to her side found her insensible, and her horse lived only a few minutes after the accident. Miss Costinedia was sent to her residence. She is a pretty young lady, and has figured in the Hippodrome procession and races since the opening. Her accident was almost exactly like one that befel Miss Mason, another rider, a few days ago, in the same spot. She is now in a fair way of recovery, and expects to ride again in a few days. The horse had 1 0 pounds to carry, including the saddle. Solid girl!

One of the New York papers, in a very bitter article, on what it calls "The Benefit Nuisance," says: "Will the benefit nuisance ever end? It is a relic of the early days of the drama when actors were proscribed and persecuted, of days when such an actor as Betterton was paid a salary of five hundred pounds a year, and allowed so many benefits to enable him to live. To-day the stock actors of a good theatre get better salaries than the clerks or one-half of the people who are called upon over so many times during the season to make up a sum to enable a stock actor to swell it during the Summer season at Long Branch or elsewhere. This thing ought to stop at once, and every manager in the country ought to put his foot down firmly on this subject. What right has the well-paid actor to levy contributions upon the theatre-goers to make up on amount which could have been saved from his salary had he lived less extravagantly. The salary of an actor runs from twenty to one hundred and fifty dollars per week, and if they can't live on any of these amounts we would advise them to 'go west.' It is the sheerest imposition for a stock actor or a star, who gets even a fancier salary, to ask for a benefit. The only proper occasion for a benefit is for some charitable purpose. Than the actor should willingly give his services and the public their dollars for the common end. It is time that the benefit nuisance was wiped out forever.

This is only one side of the picture, as every thoughtful person will see at once.

Betsy, the largest of the elephants in Barnum's Hippodrome, was imported from Germany five years ago, and with her came Carlo, a dog that had long been her inseparable companion. Night and day they have been together. Carlo is sixteen years old, and his death is daily expected. Six months ago he became too ill to go into the ring, and Betsy has since been with difficulty induced to perform without him. He is failing fast, and Betsy seems to know it. Formerly she tossed him playfully with her trunk. Now she only pats him softly, and rolls him over very gently. A yelp or a whine calls her at once to his side, and she gets angry when anybody but George Moore, her keeper touches him. A few months ago, in anticipation of Carlo's death, a new Carlo was put into the pen with Betsy and the younger elephant. It was hoped that he might gradually get a place in the elephantine affections, so that things might go on smoothly after old Carlo's death. The new dog however, is only tolerated, and sick old Carlo gets all the petting. Last Sunday afternoon the neighborhood of the Hippodrome was alarmed by the hideous bellowing, and the four elephants were found to be frantic with rage because the new Carlo was fighting the old Carlo. They had torn down the hangings and ornaments of their pen in their efforts to reach the dogs who were in the passage outside; Betsy being the leader of the movement. Moore seized the iron hook with which he enforced obedience, and, after rescuing old Carlo, prodded the elephants into subjection. All the next day Betsy was tenderer than ever in her care of dying old Carlo, and he thanks her by licking the trunk with which she fondles him.

An Interesting Ghost.

Wm. Crookes, F. R. S., and a scientist of note in England, claims that he has succeeded in photographing, by means of electric light, the materialized form of "Katy King," manifesting, as it is alleged, through the mediumship of Miss Florrie Cook. Katy claims to be the daughter of Morgan, the Buccaneer of the Spanish Main; that her real name is Annie Owen Morgan, and that she lived in the earth form about a hundred years ago. The materialization, as stated by Crookes, is attested by Prof. Wallace, by Prof. Varley, the electrician, and by many distinguished persons, who have been investigating the phenomena for the last three years. In speaking of the likeness he has secured, Prof. Crookes says: But photography is all inadquate to depict the perfect beauty of Katie's face, as words are powerless to describe her charms of manner. Photography, may indeed, give a map of her countenance; but how can it reproduce the brilliant purity of her complexion, or the ever-varying expression of her most mobile features, now overshadowed with sadness when relating some of the bitter experiences of her past life, now smiling with all the innocence of happy girlhood when she had collected my children round her, and was amusing them by recounting anecdotes of her adventures in India?"

Give the Girls a Chance.

The Philadelphia Age asserts that the number of illiterate women in proportion to the number of illiterate men is in New York and Philadelphia more than two to one; in St. Louis, as nine to seven; in Boston and Baltimore, as two to one; in Cincinnati, as five to one; in New Orleans, as eight to five; in San Francisco, as four to three; in Louisville, as three to two; and in Pittsburg, as thirty-nine to twenty, or nearly two to one. The Age thinks that this unequal education is the fault of the parent; that they give their boys superior facilities; that they put all the education they can afford upon their one boy, and keep their two girls at home to grow up in ignorance. This record is a shameful one.

This is not giving the female portion of the race a fair chance. It is a relic of barbarous times when women had to do all the drudgery and worked all the better for being ignorant. Times have changed.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 632 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 2-cj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcun & Stenda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 8-m

Miss Thackeray's Opinion.

There is a general tendency in society to ridicule old maids, to speak of the miseries of unmarried life, and of a husband as indispensably necessary to the comfort of woman. A great deal, of course, depends upon the feelings and dispositions of the lady, but provided she is not enamored of one of the virile sex, there is in Miss Thackeray's opinion nothing to render spinsterhood miserable. She says:

What possible treason can there be to prevent unmarried any more than married people from being happy or unhappy, according to their circumstances from enjoying other pleasures, more lively than the griefs and sufferings of their neighbors? Are unmarried people shut out from all theatres, concerts, picture galleries, parks and gardens? May not they walk out on every day of the week? Are they locked up all the summer time, and only let out when an east wind is blowing? Are they forced to live in one particular quarter of the town? Does Mudie refuse their subscriptions? Are they prevented from taking in the Times, from going out to dinner, from matchmaking, visiting, gossiping, drinking tea, talking and playing the piano? If a lady has had three husbands, could she do more? May not spinsters be well as bachelors give their opinions on every subject, no matter how ignorant they may be? Travel about anywhere, in any costume, however inconvenient, climb up craters, publish their experiences, tame horses, write articles in the Saturday Review? They have gone out to battle in top boots, danced on the tight rope, taken up the Italian cause, and harangued the multitudes. They have gone to prison for distributing tracts; they have ascended Mount Blanc and come down again. They have been doctors, lawyers, clergymen, squires—as men have been milliners, dressmakers, ballet dancers, ladies' hairdressers. They have worn waistcoats, shirt collars, white neckcloths, wide-awakes. They have tried a hundred wild schemes, pranks and fancies; they have made themselves ridiculous, respected, particular, foolish, agreeable; and small blame to them if they have played their part honestly, cheerfully and sincerely. With all this it is dismally true that many single women have a real trouble to complain of, and one which is common also to married people—that is, want of adequate means. And when the barest necessaries are provided, life can only be to many a long privation, from books, from amusement, from friendly intercourse, from the pleasure of giving, and from that social equality which is almost impossible without a certain amount of money; but then surely it is the want of money, and not of husbands, which bring such things to this pass.

John Chinaman in Australia.

John Chinaman feels better in the Australian colonies than he does here. He has more liberty and is apt to infringe on his neighbors rights. The following account of an act which might perhaps have led to a sort of Beecher-Tilton scandal on a small scale, we clip from an Australian paper. We premise that "gin" means wife in the language of the aborigines of Australia: The native Dundally was brought before the Armidale Bench, charged with the murder of Ah Chung, a Chinese hawker, on the Guy Fawkes-road, and committed for trial. The following is his admission to the police: "I want to tell the truth. My right name is Dundally. This Chinaman wanted to take my gin away, and I go down to the water with a can. When I come back I don't see Chinaman and gin. He is gone behind tree, with gin. He say, 'You follow me, I shoot you.' 'What are you going to do with my gin?' He say, 'I take her away.' I say, 'No; that belongs to me.' "Well, I am very cross. 'You will have to give her back.' 'No, I won't.' He had this time the gin in his hand. I ran up with a tomahawk. I hit the gin first, on the forehead, with a stick. I then give him—that man, the Chinaman—two cracks on the head with the tomahawk. He drop down. That's all. I caught the gin when the man dropped. I overhauled his two baskets. I pick up handkercher, three comb, necktie, a ring, a knife. I put my hand in his waistcoat, and take him cheque £5, £1, and 7s 6d in silver tied up in a bit of paper with him. Nothing more."

Amusements in Sydney.

The "Sydney Town and County Journal" of May 30th says: "There is not likely to be a dearth of amusements in Sydney for some time to come, at least. The School of Arts is engaged by different companies for the next four months. In case the Emersons do not extend their season beyond the end of their advertised time, there are four applications for the week, during which they had the option of retaining the hall. The Victoria Theatre is engaged for the Italian opera company at the termination of the present dramatic season. The Masonic Hall has been fitted up by the Carandinis. In addition to the people playing at present, the Claus and Bekel company are seeking for a hall, and there are at least ten others playing in the country districts, among whom the Beltons and Holloways, who are at Newcastle, and the Bromly troupe. Mr. Thiodon returned, with his panorama, this week, but proceeds to England before he shows again." The minstrels, it appear, did not extend their season, but on the contrary broke up. Billy Emerson came passenger on the "Tartar," as far as Honolulu, where he remained over until the next Australian steamer. Ainsly Scott, Sutton and the rest of the minstrels remained in Sydney. Emerson has three new professionals in company with him, variety people, not minstrels. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates were playing at the Victoria Theatre. The dramatic season closed July 10th. The same paper contains woodcuts of the Bateses, with most wonderful biographies attached from which we learn that Mr. F. M. Bates made his debut under the management of W. H. Fleming, and that afterwards "the young aspirant joined Mrs. Mossop's company, then about to visit the Western States. Mr. Jo. Jefferson was one of the members, as well as Mr. J. S. Clarke, the great London comedian, and the present Mr. Charles Mathews. This was a successful engagement, and the young Bates was favorably mentioned by the Western papers as a rising actor." Poor Jefferson, Clarke and Mathews, never got a line. By the way, what year was it that these three poor devils were playing in Mrs. Mossop's company in the Western States? Can some old stager inform us, as the biographer, very thoughtlessly has forgotten to mention the date.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend;
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gorville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Crowded and fashionable audiences every night is the rule at this pleasant little theatre. With this week the engagement of Cotton and Arlington expires, and the new bill presents them in their strongest and best acts for their final appearances. Arlington will give his very clever burlesque lecture on "Female Suffrage," and will appear in "The Black Brigade," and on the end in the first part, in conjunction with that comic luminary Ben Cotton, who will also appear as Toby in "The Portrait Painter." The whole performance will wind up with the comic sketch of "Weston the Pedestrian," with Sweatnam, Welch, Murphy, Reed, and the whole company in the cast.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"School" so admirably performed by Miss Jeffreys Lewis, and the new company at this theatre, as been withdrawn to make way for Boucicault's romantic drama of "The Willow Copse," which will be performed this evening, with Miss Jeffreys Lewis in the leading role, of Rose Fielding, supported by Miss Kate Browning, Miss Mary Wells, Edward Arnott, A. D. Billings, John Howson, George Giddens, Charles Edmonds and others.

California Theatre.

The present will be the last week of Sothern. To-night he will appear as David Garrick, and as Lord Dundreary in the one act afterpiece of "Dundreary Married and Settled," for the last time. Tuesday and Wednesday will be the only nights of "Brother Sam;" and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and at the matinee he will appear in his original character of Dundreary in "Our American Cousin." Secure your seats. Lotta will make her first appearance on Monday next, in the double part of Little Nell and the Marchioness.

Platt's Hall.

Those funny characters on humanity, the Royal Marionettes, are drawing immense houses here. Manager McDonough announces that he will give in addition to the regular evening performances, three matinees this week, namely, on Wednesday and Thursday, commencing at 2 P. M., so as to allow parents to bring their children without interfering with their school duties. The Saturday matinee will commence at the regular hour, 2 P. M. Take the little folks to see the Marionettes.

"The Lu Lu Sensation."

The Palace Amphitheatre will open on Friday night with this startling act, which consists of projecting a young lady from the ground with the speed of an arrow thirty feet in the air. The act has created an immense sensation wherever it has been done, both in Europe and in the East. The Human Cannon act, catching a real cannon ball fired from a howitzer, and also a minstrel and variety interlude will be given in addition to the great Lu Lu Sensation. Thrilling as the act is, we are assured by Messrs. Hamilton and Chapman, the managers, that there is absolutely no danger of accidents, but that the projected young lady will be caught every time in mid air, at the termination of her aerial journey, by a man suspended head downwards from a trapeze, and this part of the act never fails. We should hope not.

Bella Union Theatre.

J. A. Horne has made a decided hit in Captain Untile in the play of "Dombey and Son," is ably supported by Harry Courtaine, Miss Jennie Johnson and others. Ed. Murray appears nightly in his Budget of Fun, Col. Madeville and Matt Kelly on the ends in the first part, and an excessively lively entertainment is given.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers in "The Oakland Ghost," Ned Buckley in amusing acts, Mortimore in sketches and many other attractions will be offered at this popular variety theatre to-night.

Notes.

The benefit of Mons. Julien Deschamps, at the California Theatre last evening, was a worthy compliment to an excellent artist. The theatre was crowded in every part, and the performances gave perfect satisfaction. Mlle. Aimee charmed every one by her versatile and volatile acting in the one act comedy of "Un Mari dans du Coton," and was ably supported by Mons. Deschamps, who was the recipient of enthusiastic applause.

Eccentric Sam Rickey, lightfooted Master Barney and Miss Lulu Delmay, a very charming ballad and character songstress, arrived direct from New York, last night, under engagement to Manager Maguire, for his Minstrels. They will make their first appearance on Monday next. Won't there be a house on that occasion?

Montgomery Queen's circus and menagerie, is en route for this city. This is one of the big Eastern traveling shows, and is coming hitherward strong in attractions. It will exhibit at Reno on Wednesday. Charley Pell, an old Californian, is the business agent.

Ed Marble and wife, (Katy Wilson) both old Californians, are engaged for the Opera House, Galveston.

Cotton and Arlington's engagement at the Opera House is for two weeks only. They return to the East again after next Saturday night.

RECIPROCITY.

I would not kiss the sweetest lip
Unless it kissed me too;
As well go from the rosebud sip
The morning's clear cold dew;
Nor clasp a hand, though soft and warm,
Unless it pressed my own;
I'd rather love the perfect form
Carved out of Parian stone.

I will not worship eyes the bright
And beautiful they be,
Unless they bend their loving light
On me—and only me;
I would not love a form that heaven
Itself had stamped divine,
If I but dreamed that love was given
To other hearts than mine.

Children of Nature.

The Sacramento Union tells the following story: Next to being happy one's self, the best thing is to see other people happy. But, then, there may be too much of a good thing. For instance, at the depot there is daily much hugging and kissing done, as people meet are separated from relatives or friends. There are all sorts of kisses—those between husbands and wives, between young people that are engaged but are still a little timid, between brothers and sisters, mothers and sons, mothers and daughters, cousins, lady acquaintances, and a number of other varieties, all of which our special depot reporter is so well acquainted with (by observation only) that he feels competent to tell just by the osculatory demonstrations the relations the parties hold to each other. But yesterday he saw a specimen of that sort of thing that rather staggered him. Just as the train stopped a stylish lady stepped out of one of the sleeping cars, and from its platform gazed anxiously about. Almost simultaneously a gentleman sprang from the depot platform to where she stood—and the time commenced. "Oh, George! (smack, smack, smack, smack, dear George, I'm so glad you've met me! (smacketysmack). Sure you've been well?" (smacks of anxiety, with a dozen or more of relief following his affirmative answer.) Then they gazed into each other's faces so very "spoonily" that the porter of the car, who felt himself getting sick, promptly requested them to move aside and let the passengers out. Arm in arm they entered the car, sat down in one of the sections on the side nearest the depot platform, and kissed and hugged, and kissed again, utterly ignoring the astonishment and amusement of the passengers, and the fact that a crowd of fifty or more idlers were gazing at them through the windows. During the entire time the train stopped they were the "observed of all observers," but either didn't know it or didn't care, continuing on with the train to their destination, wherever the might be.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that.
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure,
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Joe Giusta's Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

Hand-Shaking.

How did people get into the habit of shaking hands? The answer is not far to seek. In early and barbarous times, when every savage or semi-savage was his own lawgiver, judge, soldier and policeman, and had to watch over his own safety, in default of all other protection, two friends and acquaintances, or two strangers desiring to be friends and acquaintances, when they chanced to meet, offered each to the other the right hand, the hand alike of offense and defense, the hand that wields the sword, the dagger, the club, the tomahawk, or other weapon of war. Each did this to show that the hand was empty, and neither war nor treachery was intended. A man can not very well stab another while he is in the act of shaking hands with him, unless he is a double-dyed traitor and villian, and strives to aim a cowardly blow with the left while giving the right hand, and pretending to be on good terms with his victim.

The custom of hand-shaking prevails more or less among all civilized nations, and is the tacit avowal of friendship and good will just as a kiss is of a warmer passion. Ladies, as every one must have remarked, seldom or never shake hands with the cordiality of gentlemen, unless it be with each other. The reason is obvious. It is for them to receive homage, not to give it. They cannot be expected to show to persons of the other sex a warmth of greeting which might be misinterpreted unless such persons are very closely related to them by family or affection, in which case hand-shaking is not needed, and the lips do more agreeable duty.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

Comet Hunting.

This is the way a Cincinnati man went hunting for the comet: A policeman found a man lying flat on his back on the esplanade at a late hour the other night, calmly studying the heavens. Upon raising him to a sitting posture, and asking him what he was doing there, he replied that he was "'trying' to find the (hic) comet." He had a copy of the Commercial in his hand, containing a diagram of the heavens. "You see," said the flagstone astronomer, spreading the paper on his knees, and blinking gravely, "this ere comet's 'tractin' 'tention of best 'stronomers. Its 'tracted mine. I am looking for it. I read in the paper 'taint visible without a glass, so I took one. For fear one glass wasn't enough, I (hic) took 'nuther. Paper says comet's 'tween little dipper and great dipper. Wife made a fuss 'bout it. Told wife I'd (hic) dip her, too, 'f she interfered. Then I started out to find pole star, 'cause comet's in that neigh borhood. Ran 'gainst tel'graph pole, stumbled over pole to a wagon and woke up a pole cat, but couldn't find 'er pole star. Step'd in s'loon and treated myself to 'nuther little dipper. And yet I couldn't (hic) see comet. Read in paper comet's on line with nose of the bear. Asked a man what he knows of the bear. Man told me to bear off. Been watchin' for that comet mos' all night. Heavens full of dippers, bears and (hic) pole stars. No comet." "Well, com' mit me," said the watchman; "I'll show yot the bole star," and he led him where the Ninth street station light is softly beaming.

Weak Lightning.

The hamlet of Wilkesbarre, in the Quaker-wealth of Pennsylvania is ahead on the slow lightning. Last week Dame Nature went in to rehearse in the elements. Great agitation prevailed, and among other big things perpetrated was the exploit of a freak of lightning. The electrical bolt struck a railroad track at the mouth of a mine, followed the iron for one mile and a half under ground, and nearly killed a man. The idea of the electric fluid taking passage on a railroad to facilitate its movements is new and comical. But that it should so tire out after a mile and a half of subterranean travel as to be unable to kill a man, when it had a fair chance to hit him, is as refreshingly consoling and could hardly have occurred in any but a comet year. The whole affair reminds one of the boy who placed some damp powder upon a hot stove to dry it, and on its igniting ran into the yard to get a pail of water to extinguish it. "Why," said he, in explaining his loss, "before I got back with the water more than half the darned stuff had burned up."

Simple Enough.

The Louisville Ledger has been puzzled for a long time to know why the women of Massachusetts make more noise than their sisters in other states. Archbishop Whately once propounded a similar conundrum: "Why do white sheep eat more than black ones?" and answered it with the inevitable reply: "Because there are more of them."

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baldwin & Shonda, No. 618 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

Great Bargains in Clothing.

"BREVITIES."

It is rumored that the Brevity man of the Alta will shortly take editorial charge of The Jolly Giant.

The first number of the San Francisco China News made its appearance yesterday. It is an admirably edited and well printed sheet. It has a strong editorial on the Beecher-Tilton scandal.

Bunker, of the Bulletin, isn't allowed to go up in balloons any more. He's too good a fellow.

San Rafael is being written up in Resources of California. It is one of the prettiest places in the world.

Balcom is in as bad a fix as Beecher. He has been found out.

Charles Wheatleigh will appear on the San Francisco stage.

Steps are being taken to get up a grand testimonial to James Lick. The world expects California to do no less.

The Mad Dog Panic.

The New York Dispatch says: There are some people who don't believe in hydrophobia. We saw one of them in Nassau street on last Monday. He was saying: "No, sir, you can't make me believe that there's such a thing as hydrophobia. I've been among dogs all my life. I've been bitten hundreds of times. You can't frighten me with cries about mad dog. No, sir." Just then a crowd dashed around the corner of John street shouting, "Mad dog! Mad dog!" And the man that didn't believe in hydrophobia shinned up a telegraph pole with a celerity that would have won him the prize in a climbing match. When the dog had been dispatched to the happy bone-hunting grounds, he lowered himself slowly, and the man he had been talking with said to him: "Oh, you can't be frightened with cries of mad dog. Oh, no, certainly not. You're still standing around here hoping that some so-called mad dog will come and bite you, so that you can prove the falsity of all the theories about hydrophabia. You want to be bitten bad, I guess." "The fact is," said the unbeliever in hydrophobia, "I climbed up that telegraph pole to escape from my own ferocity. Had I staid on the sidewalk and beheld the poor brute clubbed to death, I must have interfered. My interference might have resulted in the death of somebody. Sir, I do not want to imbrue my hands in blood; but I know the ferocity of my temper when it is roused. That is why I climbed the telegraph pole." "Jest so," said his friend.

An Improvement.

Dr. Steinbeis, of Wurtemberg, is opposed to cremation. He evidently thinks it would be a waste of good material. He proposes that the corpses be placed in troughs made of cement, and the troughs be filled with liquid cement so as to completely cover the cadaver. The cement would soon harden, and absorb all moisture from the body, thus converting it into a preservable mummy. Meanwhile, as soon as the cement had grown hard, the coffins would become like blocks of stone. We favor Steinbeis' plan. How sweet it would be to make useful the revered remains of the still loved though dead! It would be delightful to build a front stoop of their cemented remains. Your beloved and cemented wife would make a first-class door-step, on which, on pleasant evenings, you could sit while your feet rested tenderly on the top step, made out of the cemented remains of your mother-in-law, and you could gaze lovingly down on the other steps constructed out of cemented brothers-in-law and maiden aunts and impecunious cousins. This would be a better use of the remnants of the loved and lost than could be made of the ashes which cremation would leave. We join our fortunes with the cementists, and shall hereafter express our horror of cremation as unchristian, and a most decided destruction of first-class building material.

Perilous Times.

We had better begin to pack our trunks and prospect for a new location if, as the Saturday Review owlishly affirms, "there are changes beyond the power of man to arrest, and long before our planet has dropped into the sun, it will have become an unsuitable abode for civilized beings." The comet is making it pretty warm just now. Look out.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Fa'tern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 619, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Coville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Boucicault's melodrama entitled "The Willow Copse," has seldom been so well performed in this city as it was last night. Miss Jeffreys Lewis did some charming acting in the character of Rose Fielding, Miss Kate Browning acted the part of Lucy Vaughan admirably. Miss Mary Wells presented a powerful and artistic impersonation of Meg. Edward Arnott as Luke Fielding, was particularly good. A. D. Billings was effective as Dick Hulke, and Charles Edmonds played the role of Sir Richard Vaughan with commendable ability. "The Willow Copse" will be played again to-night.

California Theatre.

"David Garrick" and the farce of "Dundreary Married and Settled," were performed last night, and gave great satisfaction to the large and fashionable audience present. To-night and to-morrow night Mr. Sothern will appear in his wonderfully clever impersonation of Lord Dundreary's Brother Sam, in the play of that name. All who have seen Dundreary must wish to see his brother, and we have no doubt but that "Sam" will draw crowded houses on the only two occasions on which it is presented.

Opera House.

This popular house is thronged nightly. This week is announced as the last of the engagement of those prime favorites, Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington. They could, in conjunction with the California Minstrels, crowd the Opera House for a month longer did their engagements in the East permit of their stay. The splendid bill which caused so much amusement last night, and which appears on this page, will be repeated to-night. In order to obtain a seat it is necessary to go early.

Bella Union Theatre.

The play of "Bombay and Son" is capitally performed at this house by James A. Herne, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard, Miss Maggie Maguire and others. Miss Alice Rose delights the audience with her serio-comic songs, Ed Murray presents his Budget of Fun, and numerous other performances are given.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts of "Clam Kel," "The Dentist Shop," "Earach Oil," "The Fellow that Looks like Me," are capitally performed by Johnny Tuers, Ned Buckley, Frank Mortimore, Harry Devoy and others.

"The La Lu Sensation."

The Palace Amphitheatre will open on Friday night with this startling act, which consists of projecting a young lady from the ground with the speed of an arrow thirty feet in the air. The act has created an immense sensation wherever it has been done, both in Europe and in the East. The Holtum Gannon act, catching a real cannon ball fired from a howitzer, and also a minstrel and variety interlude will be given in addition to the great La Lu Sensation. Thrilling as the act is, we are assured by Messrs. Hamilton and Chapman, the managers, that there is absolutely no danger of accident, but that the projected young lady will be caught every time in mid air, at the termination of her aerial journey, by a man suspended head downwards from a trapeze, and this part of the act never fails. We should hope not.

The Tableau of Ireland.

J. B. Kealy's Tableau of Ireland, a grand panorama of the Green Isle, will shortly be exhibited in this city. J. R. Morse, the manager, is already here.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great Impalement Feat, throwing 24 poignards at a disrobed person, while stationed to a plank, and the new pantomime "Los Indiens Wendt," are the great attractions for Saturday and Sunday. A sea bear is on exhibition and the Century Plant is in bloom.

The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A DOUBT.

BY MRS. E. M. B. PIATT.

It is subtle, and weary, and wide,
It measures the world at my side;
It touches the stars and the sun;
It creeps with the dew to my feet;
It broods on the blossoms, and none,
Because of its brooding, are sweet;
It glides as a snake in the grass,
Wherever, wherever I pass.

It is blown to the south with the bird;
At the North, through the snow it is heard,
With the moon from the charms of night
It rises, forlorn and afraid;
If I turn to the left or the right,
I cannot forget or evade;
When it shakes at my sleep as a dream,
If I shudder, it startles my scream.

It smiles from the cradle; it lies
On the dust of the grave, and it cries
In the winds and the waters; it slips
In the flush of the leaf to the ground;
It troubles the kiss at my lips;
It lends to my laughter a sound;
It makes of the pictures but paint;
It unhalows the brow of the saint.

The ermine and crown of the king,
The sword of the soldier, the ring
Of the bride, and the robe of the priest,
The gods, in their prisons of stone,
The angels that sang in the East—
Yea, the cross of my Lord it has known;
And wings there are none that can fly
From its shadow with me till I die;

An Optical Illusion.

A New York paper says: A young man of Brooklyn saw the comet. He and a friend were returning from a moonlight excursion. They were radiant with happiness, and filled to the brim with clams and larger. Suddenly one of them stopped and gazed sentimentally at the moon. "Oh, how bright the moon shines," said he. "To be certainly," said his friend; "'n'count scursh'n." "Look! look!" said the first speaker, "there is the comet." "That's so. Queer nothin' 'n newspapers 'bout it. Guess its head o' time," said his friend. "Isn't it a beautiful sight, and so very brilliant." said the first speaker. His friend grasped an awning post, steadied himself, and has soberly as he could, surveyed the comet. Suddenly he burst out laughing, released his hold of the post, tumbled into the gutter, and when he had once more regained his clutch on the post, said to his friend, "You're a smart un, you are. That's a pooty comet, that is. Why, you blasted fool! it's nothing but a rag on the telegraph wire." Just then a police star appeared in view, and the friends by strategic movements succeded in escaping a night in a place where comets are never seen.

Advantage of Being Thick-Skulled.

It is advantageous sometimes to be thick-skulled. On the 1st of July an attorney of Memphis, of the name of Barnes, fired at another gentleman of the legal profession, by the name of Welsh. The ball hit Welsh on the head, just above the ear, penetrated the flesh to the back of his head, but did not hurt the skull materially. That's one advantage of being thick-headed.

Rather Hard.

In St. Louis, a man named Goring was shooting at another man, and while engaged in that amusement accidentally shot a woman. He is disgusted now that he finds they keep him in prison, as he expresses himself willing to apologize to the dead lady's friends. It is rather hard on a well-meaning young man.

Trying.

Nothing so harrows up the soul of a sensitive man as to discover a young lady watching him through the blinds while he is trying to join the fractured parts of a broken suspender.

Joe Giusta's Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. "Led Astray" in London.

"Gammer Gurton" the London correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times says: Mr. Dion Boucicault has definitely settled his company for "Led Astray," which will be produced at the Gaiety Theatre early in July. The heroine, after all the talk and the discussion, is to be Miss Helen Barry—the very lady who was selected by Boucicault for his Amazon in the famous Babil and Bijou. In my humble opinion a greater mistake could scarcely have been made—if, indeed, Mr. Boucicault is honestly anxious to give the public a good performance of a good play. I am aware of the difficulties. For the heroine of "Led Astray" is required to be a beautiful woman and a practised actress. To combine the two would have been admirable. But I should have thought that Mr. Boucicault would have preferred electing a less beautiful woman and a more accomplished artist. The leading artists of Paris, women like Favart and Fargueil, are not really beautiful. They become so by their intelligence and by their true artistic instinct. A beautiful woman is always a "joy forever," but if I were producing "Led Astray," which depends so materially on the genius of the actress, I would sooner have less beauty and more art. Not to put too fine a point upon it, Miss Helen Barry is a beautiful lady, but an amateur. The aim and object of all independent criticisms is to protest against amateurishness in all forms of art. Amateurs have got the possession of burlesque. Let them keep it. But do not let them drag down our comedy and drama. For the rest, Mr. Boucicault appears to have done very well. Miss Amy Roselle is a pretty and extremely clever ingenue. Miss La Thiere is also very clever and will do remarkably well. Mr. Leathes, the young lover, is well spoken of, and he has education (he is the son of Professor Donaldson), and good breeding to back him. Mr. William Belford, a popular actor and old favorite, has been secured for Major O'Hagan, the Irishman, and all so far looks very promising. Many people will say at once: "What madness! here is Boucicault bringing out a play in July, when the weather is at fever heat, when everyone has left town, when London is intolerable when we are all rushing down to Ramsgate and Margate, when half the world is on the continent or abroad; who can expect "Led Astray" to do any good?" They forget that this trick of producing plays in the dog days is a mania with Boucicault. He has done it frequently at the Princess.' Witness the "Streets of London" and "After Dark," and the plan has not failed hitherto. Besides, this year all is in favor of Boucicault. The Lyceum will be closed, the Vaudeville will be closed, and Mr. Boucicault will have the great Strand district entirely to himself.

An Unpleasant Woman.

A New Orleans young woman, who writes pieces for the paper, says that occasionally a woman meets a man to whom she says: "On the barren shores of Time, O, my soul's kinsman, I have found in thee my 'pearl of great price,' and there is nothing more precious out of Heaven!" She doesn't tell us what the young man says. Probably he keeps mum, knowing that it isn't polite for a gentleman to inform a lady that she's "talking like a dem'd fool, anyhow."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins,
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain!
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Miss Neilson.

A correspondent of the Boston Courier peaking of scandals says: This concerns that beautiful lady and charming actress, Miss Lilian Adelaide Neilson (Mrs. Philip Lee). A paragraph is going the rounds to the effect that an English couple named Birch have lately been before the divorce court—the wife alleging that her husband had been too intimate with the handsome Juliet—and that there must be something in the case, as the judge had granted a decree nisi. It is only due to a lady whose private reputation has never before been assailed, to say that this paragraph does her great injustice. The decree was granted on proof of Mr. Birch's infidelity with a notorious woman of Manchester; and the only report of the case which I have seen in an English newspaper expressly states that there was no evidence to criminate Miss Neilson, and that her connection with the affair was to be attributed solely to the jealousy of Mrs. Birch.

New York Malice.

A New York paper tells the following story: There's a man on the upper end of Manhattan Island who takes great pride in the accuracy with which his mule can kick with its left hind leg. Last Thursday, while he was fixing something about the mule's harness, the sagacious animal turned to look at what was going on. He just beheld a fly light on his owner's nose. From experience he knew that a fly is very annoying, so he determined to brush away that fly. He raised his left hind leg, and let it fly. The fly was brushed away. So, also, was two-third's of his master's nose. Notwithstanding this little inaccuracy of aim the owner has still confidence in his mule's proficiency, and is ready to bet that his mule can kick an apple off the head of any man or boy who will take the chances. "That ere mule," said the admiring owner, "is a sort of William Tell in his way." So little of the patriotic spirit exists on the upper end of this island that no man or boy has stepped forward and offered to try the mule's accuracy as an apple hitter.

A Peaceful Place.

We are glad to learn that there is one city in this country where it isn't safe to learn to play on musical instruments. After the third or fourth evening's mangling of music the aspiring youth is invited to stray by the river bank, and the next thing seen of him the coroner is pulling his body out for an inquest.

The progress of Kansas City is accounted for by this fact.

Grand Opening.

The Centre Market will be open for business to-morrow (Thursday) morning. The stalls up to No. 93 are all taken, and already 90 built. There will be a grand illumination Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The public are invited to attend.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Stouds, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

A Sensible Paper.

One of our best interior exchanges is the Grass Valley Union. There is no Bunebyism about it. On the subject of "stopping papers" it says: They have a new way of running newspapers in San Francisco. In that town when a man becomes a subscriber to one of the sensational journals they print his name in the paper. He is put upon a sort of roll of honor. All that was well enough, and if a person did not object to be known as a subscriber to such papers no harm was done. But the times changed and men changed with them. Subscribers began to fall off instead of accumulate, and the sensational papers began to publish the list of those who ordered the paper stopped. In some instances lengthy denunciations of prominent persons who order a paper stopped are indulged in. For the credit of the business of publishing and of the profession of journalism we hope the custom of publishing subscribers names, or the names of those who stop a newspaper will not become general. A man has a right to take a newspaper and not be published for the act, and he has a right to stop one whenever he pays up and pleases, and a publisher has no business to question motives in either case.

A Hard Hit.

The Grass Valley Union tells the following story: A friend of ours, residing in this town, is a great lover of music, and he is inclined withal to be sentimental at times. He was up at Nevada city, a few days ago, while the German band was playing to the people there. The band discoursed several tunes to a knot of listeners among whom was our friend. They all applauded a piece played, and our Grass Valley friend went farther than applause. He made a chunk of a speech to the boys. He said that was one of the sweetest pieces of music he had ever heard. The time was perfect and the cadence was exquisite. He wound up by remarking: "the fact is, gentlemen, I never hear 'Home, Sweet Home,' played without feeling like shedding tears." Our friend wiped a little moisture out of his eye with a corner of his handkerchief. But his auditors did not get sympathetic, but burst out into a laugh. The band has been playing the "Last Rose of Sunshine." We give no name, but suggest that Pope has a wooden overcoat ready for the man who asks him about the difference between Home Sweet Home and that belated rose of Summer time.

Amusements in San Jose.

The San Jose Tribune in its notice of a theatrical performance at the San Jose Theatre last week said:

The "Gotoroan went off smoothly though several of the performers seemed to lack spirit, probably because of the adverse circumstances under which they were laboring.

We can't imagine a play with such a title going off "smoothly" under any circumstances.

Insane.

Mr. Edgar Bascom was taken to the Insane Asylum at Hartford, recenty just three months from the day his son Joseph purchased a fiddle. And a resident of San Francisco was ordered taken to a similar place at Stockton the morning after her marriage—so no more fiddles, no more marriages.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Nilsson in London.

Although it may seem somewhat ungracious, I am sorry I cannot unreservedly join in this otherwise universal cry of praise. "Marguerite" is Nilsson's best part, and by it she would probably elect to be judged. To say, however, that she is the best representative of the role, is absurd; her voice is not by any means to be compared with that of Madame Patti or Mlle. Titiens; it is not so full, luscious, or powerful; and, in fact, were it not for her charming face and figure, her graceful deportment and powerful acting, Madame Nilsson would probably be classed among the second order of operatic vocalists. Her acting is now, if anything, over elaborated; she is not the Nilsson of yore, remarkable for unaffectedness, refinement, and simplicity; she is a woman using every elaborate device possible, for the sake of what is called in polite society, "heightening the effect," but which in theatrical parlance would be known as "piling up the agony," and who sacrifices simplicity for elaboration, and unaffectedness for a craving after artificial "points." What else, for instance, could be the reason for the strong tremolo in the last eight bars of "Tardi si fa," and the undue demonstrativeness in the "jewel" song, but an artificial device to heighten the effect or "pile on the agony?" Nilsson's dress, in the garden scene, too, should be altered; a steel chatelaine with its pendant of scissors, poniards, knives, &c., encased in leather of the latest Paris fashion, being absurd for the simpleminded Gretchen. I am the more eager to point out these defects, as the impersonation of Madame Nilsson is one far above the common; her voice (always excepting the unrivalled mezzo-voce) is not of first-rate quality, but her histrionic powers are great indeed.—Figaro.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

There was a capital house last night to witness the first appearance this season of Mr. Nothern in the character of Sam in the play of that name. In the opinion of many Mr. Sothern is, in this part, even more amusing than in that of Dundreary. The character itself is a more possible one, Hon. Sam Slingsby might exist; Lord Dundreary is a composite character which bears no resemblance as a whole to any living being. Sam was excellently well played last night. Mr. Sothern in the title role, caused much amusement and drew shouts of laughter and applause. Robert Patemar gave an excellent rendition of the part of Mr. Trimbush, and was thoroughly appreciated by the audience, (whatever the "critics" of the press, who seem to prefer stagey low comedy to bread (an, may have thought of it) Henry Edwards as Mr. Jonathan Rumbelow was capital. Miss Ella Wilton at Mrs. Trimbush did some very pleasing acting, and Miss Minnie Walton as Alice was perfectly charming. "Sam" will be played tonight for the last time. To-morrow night "Our American Cousin" will be revived, and Mr. Sothern will conclude his engagement in the most famous and most popular of all his impersonations—Lord Dundreary.

Opera House.

The programme presented at this place of amusement can scarcely be surpassed. In the first part, Cotton and Arlington on the ends keep the house alive with mirth, and J. G. Russell, W. F. Baker and G. W. Harley supply delicious melody. After this Welch and Rice appear in their original act "Off for America," Arlington delivers his famous oration on Woman Suffrage. Bobby Newcomb appears in his original song and dance "Pretty Little Minnie," and the performance concludes with the comic sketch entitled 'Weston the Pedestrian," in which Billy Sweetnam, Billy Welch, Charles Reed, Con. T. Murphy and others appear.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Miss Jeffreys Lewis has achieved a decided success at this house. Her great personal beauty, genius and admirable style of acting render her a general favorite. "The Willow Copse" was performed last night in a manner which afforded much pleasure to the audience, and it will be presented again to-night.

Spanish Dramatic Performance.

The Luque Spanish Dramatic Company will give a performance at the California Theatre on Sunday evening. The entertainment will consist of "Cabano de Tom" ("Uncle Tom's Cabin.") and the afterpiece of "Los Parbaillos."

"The Lu Lu Sensation."

The Palace Amphitheatre will open on Friday night with this startling act, which consists of projecting a young lady from the ground with the speed of an arrow thirty feet in the air. The act has created an immense sensation wherever it has been done, both in Europe and in the East. The Holtum Cannon act, catching a real cannon ball fired from a howitzer, and also a minstrel and variety interlude will be given in addition to the great Lu Lu Sensation. Thrilling as the act is, we are assured by Messrs. Hamilton and Chapman, the managers, that there is absolutely no danger of accidents, but that the projected young lady will be caught every time in mid air, at the termination of her aerial journey, by a man suspended head downwards from a trapeze, and this part of the act never fails. We should hope not.

The Tableau of Ireland.

J. S. Keals's Tableau of Ireland, a grand panorama of the Green Isle, will shortly be exhibited in this city. J. E. Morse, the manager, is already here.

Bella Union Theatre.

The comedy of "Dombey and Son" with Jas. A. Herne as Captain Cuttle, Miss Jennie Johnson as Susan Nipper, and a generally good cast will be played to-night, together with a good first part and a lively olio of songs, acts and dances. The performance will terminate with the comic sketch of "The Hotel Runners."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers is a favorite at this house, and in conjunction with Harry Devoy, Johnny Price and others gives much amusement to the large audience always present at this popular variety theatre. John Kellog is underlined to appear shortly.

Wash Norton.

Wash Norton, the champion jig dancer of Australia is en route to this city. Mr. Norton has also a good London reputation.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great Impalement Feat, throwing 24 poignards at a disrobed person, while pinioned to a plank, and the new pantomime "Los Indiens Woodi," are the extra attractions for Saturday and Sunday. A sea bear is on exhibition and the Century Plant is in bloom.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

"DO A' THE GUID YE CAN."

There's mony ups and downs in life,
Within this world o' ours;
Our path is very often strewed
Wi' faith the thorns and flowers,
Let's pick the roses frae the flowers
Since life is but a span,
And as ye gang along the road,
Do a' the guid ye can.

If fortune has been kind to you,
Be thankful for its smiles;
An' dinna grudge to help along,
The man that's dreed its wiles.
If honest poverty you meet,
Hand out a helping han';
You only do what's right when ye
Do a' the guid ye can.

'Twas said long syne by one that ken't—
An' what he says believe—
'Tis better far, at any time,
To give than to receive.
Then O, be sure you bear in min'
To follow Mercy's plan,
An' to the utmost o' your power
Do a' the guid ye can.

A Sure Preventive.

Recently a young man called to see his sweetheart, and forcibly folded her to his vest pattern. While thus seraphically engaged in denuding her lips of nectar, a streak of lightning called. The young woman was killed, the young man was stunned. He was probably of the magnetic kind, and while attracting a vagrant streak of lightning that was ungallant enough to strike a lady, himself acted as a conductor and escaped. The difference between railroad conductors and lightning conductors is that the former "knock down" and the latter get knocked down.

Life insurance agents here have a hint. They should advance the rates on young ladies who are visited by extra magnetic young men. To such dangerous masculines it may be added that oiling the hair profusely and parting it in the middle is calculated to repel attacks of lightning, although it attracts the attention of rabid dogs. To young women, if you would avoid beaus and life insurance agents, get struck by lightning; it's a sure preventive.

Soaring a Jew.

It is well known that the Pope is extremely fond of music. A celebrated German pianist, Sulzer, who is a Jew, while on a visit to Rome recently, was invited by the Holy Father to play for him, which he did, much to the Pope's satisfaction. When about to take his leave, His Holiness raised his hands to give him his Apostolic blessing. Sulzer jumped back in holy horror, exclaiming: "Why, I'm a Jew!" "Ah, well," said Pio Nono, with his ready good humor, "let me, then, bless you simply as an old man, and thus we will both save our conscience."

Regular Bricks.

They must be a curious lot of people in Toulouse, if we're to judge from a recent visitor. He says: "It is a large town, containing 60,000 inhabitants, built entirely of brick."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-dj

By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-y

Joe Giusta's Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-N

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-I

Music Hath Charms.

Rough on the Patriots.

An Eastern paper thus complains: If some of the men who lived in the "times which tried men's souls," could only get out of their coffins and read the poetry which has been written in their praise, we fear that they would wish they hadn't fought and died. On last Monday we received a poem entitled "An Ode on the Fourth of July." It starts out in this frantic style:

"Oh, glorious day! When freedom first was born—
When first Americans met the foe in scorn," and then proceeds to enlighten us with the startling intelligence that

"On all the earth there breathes not the sort of men
Like those who plucked Columbia from the lion's slavish den."

Now does anyone believe that if George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Nathaniel Green could burst out of their coffins and read poems like the one we have suppressed, they would not feel sorry for having been the fathers of a country that could produce such unadulterated idiots? It is best for their peace that they can't imitate the ex-King of Denmark, or they'd give such directions for the revenging of their "most foul, unnatural" treatment by versifiers, that our coroners would have more business than they could attend to. The Patriots of the Revolution should be sacred from the assaults of their countrymen. But there is no name too sacred for the poet's use so long as he can get a word to rhyme with it.

An Error.

A religious paper says: "When the tree is fallen every man goeth to it with his hatchet." We have great respect for religious papers. We know that their editors lie awake nights trying how they will avoid untruths. In this instance we think they have slipped up slightly—in fact, have told a whopper. Now the writer must know that if a tree falls on a man's property all the neighbors don't turn out to chop it into firewood for him; and he must also know that the man who owned the tree wouldn't let his neighbors turn out to cut it into firewood for their own use. Here is another point which the writer overlooked: Suppose a big tree fell in the wilds of Africa, would every man take his hatchet and start out for that unknown country, and how would they learn that a tree had fallen? This religious writer will have to acknowledge his error, and beg forgiveness for misleading his readers. We do not generally correct the misstatements of contemporaries, but we could not let so startling an error as this pass. Having been published in a religious paper it might get into the Sunday-school books, and thus plant in the youthful minds erroneous views of their duties when any tree should fall in their vicinity.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Chicago Geese.

Poor Chicago has received another set back. Only a little while ago all that troubled that city seemed to be geese. One of the papers complained as follows: Now that our Board of Trustees are about revising their ordinances they should provide one for the proper restraint of the perambulating geese. They are becoming a far greater nuisance about the town than cattle or horses ever will be. They are early risers, and some families keep thirty to forty about other people's premises. The resident of the town who chances to rise at four o'clock discovers an old gander marshalling his forces for a day's foraging, and when they are all in marching order he takes a bee line for the nearest garden, and if a gate has been left six inches ajar in a few moments the whole tribe may be heard conversing in the most exasperating manner regarding the degrees of excellence of the plants which are found therein. They will bear any number of clubs and stones, and after being driven out will stand on one leg and watch complacently for the prevailing nuisance next in order, the small boy who leaves the gate open, when they will return to their work of destruction on two legs if they have them, but if they have but one left from the previous "engagement" they return on that—they get back anyhow. They are a squalling nuisance and ought to be exterminated.

Cooks are But Mortals.

A writer on the noble art of cookery says: As a rule the feelings of cooks are very imperfectly under control; there is, indeed, a general tartness about their disposition, and a whole household out of joint. The crustiness of old cooks—due, perhaps, to prolonged exposure to fire—and the sauciness of young cooks are proverbial; while cooks of all ages are apt, even when piously inclined we fear, to be puffed up with unreasonable pride and self-conceit.

Church Chromos.

The sacredness of the pulpit has at last been invaded by the enticing chromo. The pastor of a Westfield, Mass., church announced the other Sunday that a "beautiful chromo" would be presented to all who would contribute $1 toward a certain charity. The congregation, seeing that they had a good chance to do a meritorious act, and at the same time to get the worth of their money back, came down liberally.

Premium Awarded.

The $500 prize for the best Stall in the Centre Market, has been awarded to Abe Newman, Stalls 1 and 2. It is a magnificent piece of workmanship.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Stouds, No. 618 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

"THE LAST DAY."

Stewart, of the Virginia City Chronicle, has been indulging in some speculations on comets in general, and on Coggia's comet in particular. There is no doubt but that the earth will, about the 22d of this month, be completely enveloped in the luminous atmosphere forming the tail of the comet. This may be healthy, and on the other hand it may perhaps be unhealthy. Mr. Stewart observes: "There was a time when the earth was suddenly enveloped in an all-pervading, life-extinguishing cloud of carbonic acid gas." Some "religious" people are of the opinion that at that period of time known as "the last day," this earth will be destroyed by fire. This is not necessarily a portion of the divine scheme. "An all-pervading, life-extinguishing cloud of carbonic acid gas" generated by a comet (possibly Coggia's) would effectively clear this earth of its present inhabitants, and after a time it would be ready for a new and better race of beings. "In the Scientific American of July 11th" says Mr. Stewart, "we find these significant words: 'Father Secchi has observed the spectrum of Coggia's comet and finds the lines of carbonic oxide and carbonic acid very brilliant." Mr. Stewart then goes on to show how probable it is that the comet which we are all admiring so much at present "is the identical source from which our planet obtained its rich supply of carbonic acid gas many thousand years ago." He cheerfully adds, "If this conjecture shall prove correct the knowledge of the fact will be of slight value to mankind a fortnight hence, for if Professor Parkhurst and Pierre Secchi are both correct in their calculations, the earth is about to enter a new carboniferous period, and if our atmosphere is to be again deluged with carbonic acid gas, we shall all be suffocated in less than two weeks." We rather like this idea. It is not so poetical as the conventional picture of the Last Day, with its trumpet blowing and marshaling of heavenly hosts, but it is more practical. The Second Adventists will have no need of resurrection robes in which to be smothered by means of carbonic acid gas. Of course the idea offends the vanity of some human beings, they would rather be burned in sulphurous flames than smoked to death like a nest of yellow jackets. The last day, under these circumstances, will not be a great dramatic effect, but it will serve its purpose very well.

An Old Law Discovered.

The women of Ohio recently held a State temperance convention. Among other acts, they dug up out of the musty statutes of the past a law enacted twenty years ago providing for the appointment of inspectors to test liquors, and empowering them to destroy all that are found impure. Destroy all the impure liquor in the land, and intemperance would cease as by magic.

A Sportive Young Man.

A young gentleman in Missouri, for fun dressed up like an Indian and made a descent on the cabin of a quiet family. His joke was discovered after the contents of three rifles had added to his avoirdupois. He didn't seem to enjoy the fun very much, though the family did keep him on ice three days, waiting the arrival of his friends.

Cooking vs. Cremating.

Twenty-five years ago there were fifty converts to Christianity in Madagascar. And now there are but ten. The others have supplied the unconverted inhabitants of the island with fresh meat. What does Mr. Croly think of the chances of these digested Christians on resurrection day?

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. DROP IN AND SEE TUTTLE AND GALE AT the Opera House Bar, adjoining the Opera House, Fine Wines, Liquors and Cigars. 2 w.

A Santa Clara Youth.

A verdant at a San Jose hotel left his young wife in his room Sunday evening and went down to ask the clerk what time he figgted up. "Well," said the accommodating clerk, with a smile, "we usually light up at 9 o'clock, but to accommodate you I'll light up immediately." He then sent a bell boy to the room of the verdant to light the gas. The young man from the country was profuse in his thanks, and wouldn't go back to his wife until the clerk accepted a cigar.

Trapped.

A husband in town the other day informed his wife that she did not know anything about Scripture, you know. The lady, being a Sunday-school teacher, thought she knew considerably better than that, and asked to be catechised. The man began with the first chapter of Genesis: "Who was the first man?" "Adam." "Who was the first woman?" "Eve." "Who killed Cain?" "Abell" all delivered with vigor, and the answerer went to the foot.

His Opinion.

A Brooklyn writer on street-car courtesies holds this opinion: "To vacate your place for every young thing who enters—who has been on a visit or shopping, and who will doubtless dance a half dozen sets after she gets home—is notgallantry, but the air of an effected fop or downright fool, and will never be performed by a sensible man who has done a hard days work."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington on the ends in the first part and in "The Black Brigade." Welch and Rice in their original act "Off for America," Bobby Newcomb in his inimitable song and dance "Pretty Little Minnie," Billy Sweatnam and others in "Weston the Pedestrian," and other attractions will be presented at this house to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Miss Jeffreys Lewis appears to good advantage at this house in the role of Rose Fielding, in the powerful melodrama of "The Willow Copse," and is making rapid advances in public favor. She is ably supported by Charles Edmonds, Edward Arnott, John Howson, Miss Kate Browning, Miss Mary Wells, Mrs. Frank Rea, and others whose names appear on our first page.

California Theatre.

"Sam" was played last night, and caused much amusement. To night, to-morrow night, and at the matinee on Saturday and on Saturday night, Mr. Sothern will appear in his grotesque creation of Lord Dundreary in "Our American Cousin."

Spanish Dramatic Performance.

The Leque Spanish Dramatic Company will give a performance at the California Theatre on Sunday evening. The entertainment will consist of "Cabano de Tom" ("Uncle Tom's Cabin") and the afterpiece of "Los Parbalillos."

"The Lu Lu Sensation."

The Palace Amphitheatre will open on Friday night with this startling act, which consists of projecting a young lady from the ground with the speed of an arrow thirty feet in the air. The act has created an immense sensation wherever it has been done, both in Europe and in the East. The Holtum Cannon act, catching a real cannon ball fired from a howitzer, and also a minstrel and variety interlude will be given in addition to the great Lu Lu Sensation. Thrilling as the act is, we are assured by Messrs. Hamilton and Chapman, the managers, that there is absolutely no danger of accidents, but that the projected young lady will be caught every time in mid air, at the termination of her aerial journey, by a man suspended head downwards from a trapeze, and this part of the act never fails. We should hope not. An exhibition of this feat took place last night in the presence of members of the press and invited guests, and was a perfect success.

The Tableau of Ireland.

J. E. Kealy's Tableau of Ireland, a grand panorama of the Green Isle, will shortly be exhibited in this city. J. E. Morse, the manager, is already here.

Bella Union Theatre.

The performance at this house commences with a bright first part, this is followed by an olio of songs, acts and dances, and then the great comedy of "Dombey and Son" is admirably played by James A. Herne, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard, Cal Mandeville, Miss Maggie Maguire and others. After this there are more songs, acts and dances, and the comic sketch of "The Hotel Runners" terminates the evening's entertainment.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers and Harry Devoy in "Olameel," Miss Ida May in serio-comic songs, Miss Maggie Brewer, Frank Mortimore and Johnny Price in "The Fellow that looks like me," and others in various specialties, will make up a good bill to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great Impalement Feat, throwing 24 poignards at a disrobed person, while pinioned to a plank, and the new pantomime "Los Indians Woods," are the extra attractions for Saturday and Sunday. A sea bear is on exhibition and the Century Plant is in bloom.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Arrived.

The French Opera Bouffe and ballet company, from Lima, with which the projected Alcazar was to have been opened, arrived yesterday by the Arizona, from Panama. Their names have already been published in FIGARO.

Mlle. Marie Gaugain.

This very pretty and accomplished danseuse, who has for some years been a resident of San Francisco, left for New York by steamer yesterday. She made her last appearance on the occasion of the benefit of M. Deschamps, at the California Theatre on Sunday evening, when she made a great hit in the Grisette Polka.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

TIMES.

"Good times, and bad times, and all times, pass over."
Then cheerily bend to the oar;
Through depth and through shallow, though calm and through tempest,
The bark is still nearing the shore.

Soft woos the zephyr and low laughs the ripple,
Warm glows the rich light of the sun,
But oh, at his brightest he slopes to the westward;
The good time is over and done.

Black rolls the billow, white flashes the breaker,
Fierce and bitter the pitiless blast,
But of its own fury the storm sinks exhausted;
The bad time is over and past.

Our "times" we can neither foretell them nor rule them;
Let us face them, however they come;
Pray God for one true hand to clasp through the hours,
Till night brings us haven and home.

Spiritualism.

Materialism is the prevalent belief in Melbourne, Australia. Foster, the medium, on his visit to that city, met with more opposition from this class of people than from the church people. Since he left a Mr. John Tyerman, has been delivering a series of lectures on Spiritualism which have been well attended. A local paper gives a synopsis of his remarks as follows: The object of the lecture was to show that the phenomena of modern spiritualism are not new, but as old as the Bible, because they are paralleled by the phenomena recorded in the Bible. Spiritualism is of profound importance to the Christian, because it explains and renders credible many of the facts on which Christianity is founded; and it is of great significance to the materialist, because it professes to give a practical demonstration of the continued and conscious existence of man after he has departed from this life. Spiritualism professes to answer the questions which the human heart asks respecting the condition, occupations, and capacities of departed friends. As an organized movement it was new, but in all other respects old—that is to say, events analogous to those occurring now are recorded in the Bible as having occurred in ancient times. The spiritualism of our day was not identical with the divination and necromancy prohibited by Moses, and even if it were the Mosaic prohibitions are not binding upon Christians. If the prohibition be carried out at all, it ought to be carried out literally, and, therefore, Christians ought to stone spiritualists to death. Jesus violated this prohibition by talking to Moses and Elijah; and what the Master did, His followers may do. The lecturer discussed these topics at length, contending that the investigation of spiritualism was perfectly lawful. He then showed that in ancient times, according to biblical accounts, many of the phenomena of spiritualism, such as trance speaking, impressional and direct writing, the levitation of human bodies, spirit lights, spirit voices, and the presentation of spirit forms occurred, and in support of this view he descanted at great length on the marvellous occurrences recorded in the Bible. His lecture was listened to by a most intelligent audience with earnest attention, and evidently made a deep impression on many of his hearers.

A Big Boot.

Because a St. Louis paper said something about "the boot of public indignation," the jealous Louisville Courier Journal must go and say: "On a St. Louis foot such a boot would be capable of kicking the stuffing out of a range of mountains."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their beer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
So sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-t

CENTRE MARKET.

Grand Opening To-day!!

ILLUMINATION

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

EVENINGS.

WHO OCCUPY THE STALLS.

The Centre Market was opened this morning, and the proprietors of the various stalls were kept busy by the throng of purchasers. The market presented a splendid appearance, the stalls being well supplied. There will be a grand illumination to-night, and the public are invited to attend.

The premium stalls 1 and 2 are occupied by Abe Newman. Superior beef, mutton, smoked and corned beef always on hand.

Hepburn has opened stall 4, with fresh meats of all kinds. Families and restaurants supplied on the shortest notice.

Stall 38, Holm & Boyle have a splendid assortment butter, eggs, cheese and a general assortment of fancy groceries. Goods delivered free.

Stalls 81, 83 and 84, Wood & Hannifan, have opened their stalls; wholesale and retail dealers in poultry, game, butter, eggs, etc., delivered free.

Stalls 39 and 40 are occupied by Kerlin & Hassard, dealers in fruit, vegetables, etc., of the best and freshest. Delivered free of charge.

Stall 6, makes a magnificent show of fresh meats. L. Zimmerman & Co. have one of the nicest stalls in the market. Restaurants and families will find it to their advantage to give them a call.

Love & Spindal occupy stall 37, with a superior stock of butter, cheese, eggs, hams, cured fruits, etc. Orders promptly attended to.

Robert S. Reardon has removed from the Occidental Market to stall 76. He is noted for having the best quality of meats.

John D. Coughlin, stall 5, supplies meats in large quantities, in good style, to ships, hotels, boarding houses and families at the lowest market prices.

Stalls 74 and 75 are taken by the pioneer Poultry and Game dealers, Stolgman & Strasser. The finest Poultry and Game, and the Freshest Butter and Eggs in the city. 7-x

BOSTON OYSTER HOUSE.—L. O. Pratt has opened stalls 89 and 90 in Centre Market. Oysters in every style. Chops and Steaks of the choicest. Ladies private rooms up stairs. 7-x

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the oldest oyster men in the city.

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnificent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

Strawberries! Strawberries

The Matinee Fruit Store 609 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-x

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. The Fastest Trotting on Record.

The telegraph this morning announces the remarkable time made by Goldsmith Maid, yesterday, at the Driving Park, East Saginaw, Michigan, in which she won three straight heats, respectively, in 2:19¾; 2:16 1-2; and 2:16. The second and third heats are the two fastest on record. The race was for a special purse of $5,000; $2,500 for the first horse, $1,500 to the second, and $1,000 to the horse which beat the best time on record. That the Maid should make the fastest mile ever trotted in the third heat after being pushed by Judge Fullerton, her only competitor, to her full speed in the first and second heats, seems remarkable. She made a bad break in the first heat, and only recovered the lead of Fullerton after being well down the home stretch. Goldsmith Maid stands at the head of the trotting record in the following time. Fastest mile heat 2:16¾, at Boston; fastest two consecutive mile heats, 2:18¼ and 2:17 1-2, at Suffolk Park, Philadelphia; fastest second and third heats, 2:19 and 2:17 3-4, at Brooklyn; fastest three consecutive mile heats, 2:17 1-4, 2:19 and 2:17 3-4, at Brooklyn. Our Occident is credited with beating the Maid's record, 2:16 3-4, in speeding for the prize plate at the State Fair, at Sacramento, last Fall, by a half second, but that time has not ye found its way on record. Judge Fullerton's time at Saratoga was 2:20 1 2, 2:19, 2:18 3-4 The Saginaw track measures three feet over a mile.

Foolhardy People.

Max Adeler says: A recent number of a "health" journal says: "One of the strongest arguments against the paper currency now in circulation is that it spreads disease. Thousands of persons annually die from small-pox taken from money that passes through their hands." This is dreadful and after reading it I feel disposed never to touch another dollar of the money again. But other people are different. I know that the statement will appear incredible; I know people will scoff at the assertion; I am aware that I make myself liable to a charge of frightful mendacity, and yet it is an absolute truth that I can lay my hand on a reckless dare-devil of a man who will stuff his clothes with all the paper money he can get and take his chances with the epidemics. It may seem strange that such foolhardiness should exist, and yet this man of mine would indulge in it if he had a chance. Some men are born so that they can face death without a shudder.

A Religious Community.

The Grass Valley Union is responsible for the following:

The Fourth of July exercises in Grass Valley included the Lord's Prayer. They had to send to the next town, however, for a man that could say it through without a mistake.

The above is from the Stock Report, a San Francisco newspaper. That paper will persist in slandering Grass Valley's piety, although it stands up pretty well for our mines here. The Stock Report is hereby indignantly informed that there are not less than three men in Grass Valley who can repeat that prayer correctly. We defy the Stock Report to prove the contrary of our assertion in that behalf.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few doors below What Cheer House. t

Starting a Newspaper.

One who knows how it is himself, wails as follows: The Peoria (Ill.) Review, is to be sold at Sheriff's sale this morning, to satisfy a mortgage. We are under obligations to a Peoria friend for promptly advising us of this opportunity to regain an interest in that excellent paper, cheap, but we don't want any.

We have loved the Review; so did the gods, hence it has died young—less than a year and a half old. It marked an era in our journalistic career which we love to ponder over with tears. It was the daily paper we helped to start. It precious soon got the start of everybody connected with it. We had that little twilight twinkler for nearly a quarter of a year. Then it had us the rest of the time.

The insatiable maw that pretty deceitful little sheet, in its nobby, metropolitan dress of minion and nonpariel, had for coupons; the wild, ungoverned appetite it had for shekels, the excellent voice it had, which it retained to the last, for louis d'ors; the avidity with which it reached out for base bullion, and the equal avidity with which it didn't get any! Such a fearful old inflationist it was on the Dr. side; such a terrible contractionist it was on the Cr. side.

We hope it will sell well. We hope the mortgage will be satisfied. If it is, it will be the first thing the Review ever satisfied. We hope some good man will buy it and run it successfully, though we doubt if it can be made to do better than it did under Mr. Coffinberry's excellent and careful management. But with all due regard and tender feeling for the journal of our earliest love and highest aspirations, we do not wish any more of the fruit, if you please. Life is too short to throw away on such a hollow vanity as a Peoria evening daily.

If at any time we desire to renew the fierce excitement of those sweet days, we can wait till harvest and go up in the country and crawl into a thrashing machine, or in a city where so many sawmills ply the busy buzz as in Burlington, we can find pastime of a less exciting and arduous character than running the Review, it is true, but still sufficiently exhilarating for a man of a rather phlegmatic temperament.

We do not wish to run any evening dailies on our own hook—that is, not just at present. We may, after a while, along some time after the millenium, may be, but we are too young for such onerous duties now. And then, since we came to Burlington, we have become so dreadfully addicted to telling the truth that we are about ruined for Peoria newspaper work anyhow.

Chemistry on the Stage.

A New York correspondent says: On the return of Miss Morris from Europe, she appears in the "Sphynx," at the Union Square. During her stay in Paris she will get possession of the secret which has made the success of that famous piece. Its author evidently hit on some chemical sensation and built the play to introduce it, as Nicholas Nickleby had to write the drama for Crummels to bring in the pump and real tubs. This chemical bit of dramatic art is the death of Blanche de Chelles by Mlle. Croizette. The actress fixes a dose of poison for her rival, then in a French fit of virtue and remorse gulps the dose herself directly has a pain, a worse one, a pang, a cramp and finally convulsions, during which her face, neck and arms go through the changing hues of white to gray, gray to purple, and purple to black, when she very properly dies. This is accomplished by the application of some wash to the skin and the turning on at the moment of some vapor or gas, which acts upon the chemical property of the cosmetic worn. The effect is startling and very sensational. A well-known actress from another theatre, fainted at the very first performance of this death and its variegated complexion. Miss Morris will do all this on her return next Fall. Her mortuary repetoire includes death by drowning, by madness, by consumption, by violence, and to be complete the corrosive sublimate business must be added, and she must die the death of a bed-bug.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

Fashion Notes.

The long traveling shawl is a Boston striped India shawl, or else one of soft domestic wool, in blocks of white, with black, brown or blue.

Very dressy sashes to wear with Summer dresses are of pale gros grain ribbon, two inches wide, in stripes alternating with valenciennes insertion. Black sashes have guipure insertions between.

The linen polonaise still exists for traveling attire, because it is too good a thing to be willingly let die. It is made large enough for an overall, to conceal a handsome suit and protect it from dust, in which case it is called a duster.

Debege has superceded cashmere as the popular fabric for Summer traveling dresses. It is soft and pliable, of serviceable and stylish color, and withal, inexpensive, as it is from forty to fifty cents a yard, and about twenty yards are required.

The redingote is not popular for debege suits, as the material has not body enough. The hat worn with such a dress is black or brown chip, turned up on one side, or both, and trimmed with gray or brown twilled silk, or a single scarf, with short natural ostrich feathers, and some flowers of a becoming color.

Large fans of silk, painted by hand, are prized above those with lace transparencies over silk. Something unique in design is sought after in these paintings—such as groups of tall storks, beside water, aquatic grasses, serpents hanging from limbs of trees, and any subject, no matter if it is disagreeable, is preferred to the Watteau landscapes and bouquets with which fans were lately ornamented.

Silk aprons are offered for sale in the furnishing houses; but the query is, when shal they be worn? as they are too fanciful for morning wear with wrappers, and all other dresses are trimmed in apron fashion. However, they are made of pale blue or pink, or black twilled silk, a single breadth, short, with square corners, trimmed across the bottom with a pleated flounce of white muslin, edged with Valenciennes. There are large pockets, and a belt and strings of ribbon.

The prettiest scarf worn with black Summer suits and lace sacques, is made of Valenciennes lace. It is over a yard long, and has a row of wide Valenciennes insertion in the middle, with wider lace on each side o it. This is worn tied closely around the throat, with hanging loops and ends, and it is intended for street use. The black guipure and Spanish scarfs are still worn. They are very long, and are fastened around the neck by a dagger or arrow of jet or shell, or else by a flower cluster.

A San Jose Benefit.

The San Jose Mercury says: Louis A. Wiltz telegraphs from New Orleans that supplies from the United States Government will render further contributions for the relief of the overflowed unnecessary. For the donations already received, the Committee return cordial thanks. We are glad to hear this. Our amateurs will now be able to collect that $30 difference between receipts and expenditures in the performance of the "Octoroon" for the benefit of the sufferers. As long as the overflowed were in trouble nothing was said about that little balance, but now that they are fixed, we understand steps will be taken for its collection. The amateurs are generous but their generosity is tempered with justice.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, "THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Coryille keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night and at the matinee to-morrow Miss Jeffreys Lewis will repeat her very clever impersonation of Rose Fieldlar in the popular play of "The Willow Copse." Charles Wheatleigh is underlined to appear shortly in Halliday's great play of "Notre Dame." With Wheatleigh there is no such word as fail. The preparations made for the production of this piece are such as will ensure its being the great success of the season. To-morrow night that excellent actor W. J. Cogswell will appear in "The Jibbenainesay."

California Theatre.

Mr. Sothern repeated his impersonation of Lord Dundreary in "Our American Cousin" last night, and will, in this character, take farewell of the public to-morrow evening. "Our American Cousin" will be played to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow.

Opera House.

To-night, and at the matinee to-morrow, Ben Cotton, Billy Arlington, Bobby Newcomb, Welch and Rice, and all the stars will appear in the excellent bill which has drawn such crowded houses during the week. The engagement of Cotton and Arlington closes with the present week. Those who have not yet seen them should not miss the opportunity of doing so.

Spanish Dramatic Performance.

The Lucas Spanish Dramatic Company will give a performance at the California Theatre on Sunday evening. The entertainment will consist of "Cabano de Tom" ("Uncle Tom's Cabin") and the afterpiece of "Los Parbaillos."

Palace Amphitheatre.

A very attractive, varied and sensational entertainment will be given at this comfortable and well-arranged place of amusement this evening. It will comprise the world-renowned Lulu feat, a description of which has appeared in our columns, the Holtum cannon act, in which a man catches a ball fired at him from a cannon, and a variety entertainment by Miss Alicia Mandeville, Miss Bertha Hill, Laura and Harry Clark, and the San Francisco minstrels. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Salia Union Theatre.

To-night the 3 act comedy of "Dombey and Son," dramatized from Dickens' great work and very cleverly played by the stock company of this theatre, will be performed for the last time. Jas. A. Herne's Capt. Cuttle is a remarkably good personation of that bluff old salt. To-morrow night an entirely new bill will be presented.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Thorn and Harry Devoy produce roars of laughter in the comic act of "Clampal," Mortimore's sketches are always applauded, and Miss Maggie Brewer, Miss Rose Vincent, Miss Ida May and others appear in a varied programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great Impalement Feat, throwing 24 poignards at a disrobed person, while pinioned to a plank, and the new pantomime "Los Indians Woods," are the extra attractions for Saturday and Sunday. A sea bear is on exhibition and the Century Plant is in bloom.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

John McCullough.

Mr. McCullough has been offered a London engagement at the Princess' Theatre. "There is a tide in the affairs of man, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune." John McCullough can, if he will, be the dramatic sensation of the next London season. More than this, London will accept his Hamlet as the best extant, with one exception.

Death of an Actress.

Mademoiselle Lafourcade, leading lady of the French troupe which arrived from Lima by the Arizona on Wednesday, died yesterday morning at five o'clock, of Panama fever. Mlle. Lafourcade was a native of Bourdeaux, aged 27 years. The funeral will take place at half-past two o'clock today. The deceased was very popular in the various cities of South America in which she performed.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

"THE EARLY BIRD."

BY MARY D. BRINE.

Daintily over the dew-wet grass
Tripped blue-eyed Milly, the farmer's lass,
Swinging her milk pail to and fro,
As she murmured a love song, soft and low.
Many a suitor Milly had.
From the 'Squire's son to the herdsman's lad;
But she smiled on all with a merry glance
And gave each wooer an equal chance.

Now faithful Donald, the herdsman's lad,
The more he loved her the more was sad;
"For what with the 'Squire's son," thought he,
"She never will turn a thought to me!"
But down in the meadow he raked the hay,
When Milly went singing along that way,
He watched her pass, and she cried, in jest:
"'Tis the early bird'—you know the rest!"

Then suddenly Donald grew so bold
That the "old, old story" was quickly told;
And blue-eyed Milly was nothing loth
On that summer's morning to plight her troth.
"Oh! foolish Donald!" she cried, in glee,
"To wait so long for a bird from me!"
Then merrily over the dew-wet grass
Tripped Donald and Milly, his own sweet lass.

The Pulpit and Stage.

Another of those reverend gentlemen whose self-complacent yearnings for sensational notoriety have recently overcome the reflections their sacred calling should insure, is one J. H. Stanbury. As usual with this class of pulpiteers, his complete ignorance upon the subject of the theatre tempted him to assail the drama, and to do it in terms at once absurd and virulent. On Sunday, the 27th ult., he delivered in a Brooklyn M. E. Church what he doubtless miscalled a sermon upon the "Pulpit and the Stage," selecting for his characteristic text the expression: "Hold Him Fast." This reverend Hold Him Fast, in dilating upon the peculiarities of the "mimic world," asserted that from it "ran avenues to infamy, shame, prostitution, drunkenness, theft and other crimes." He added that those people who attend theatrical establishments must, sooner or later, find themselves meandering from choice in some, if not all the avenues in question, as the necessary consequence of a perverted taste and pernicious influences.

Stanbury is evidently imbued with the same pious zeal without knowledge, and the same peculiar spirit of Christianity, that animated the devotional heart of the Reverend Brother Frost, in Chicago. He is a marvel, either of clerical misinformation or clear mendacity, and as Sheridan would say, draws upon his invention from his facts, though it would be unjust to infer that he possesses any wit for which he can be said to be indebted for his recollections. When so-called ministers recklessly calumniate a profession honored in every community throughout the domains of civilization, they invite a criticism in return which never exalts their character, magnifies their intellect, or compliments their experience. The moral condition of a man who can deliberately murder reputation under the cloak of sanctity, must be singularly unclean, and his erratic imagination must, with crosswise vision, bestow on other minds the singular pollution exhisting in his own. Hold Him Fast Stanbury would, probably, have been the recipient of a few legal attentions ere this, at the hands of the profession he has so slandered, were he not shielded by his insignificance. His shallow conceit and romantic malevolence make him rather the subject of common ridicule than of common animosity.

A Warning.

Don't be stubborn unless you are sure you can afford it. Right in the midst of the late panic, an Iowa man chose to be perversely obstinate. His daughter wanted a $90 silk dress and he wouldn't get it, and he lost $60 by the operation. She took cold poison, and the funeral expenses were $150.

An Economical Woman.

A Baltimore man thrashed his wife for pumping a dose of laudanum out of his stomach. She thought he had taken more than enough to kill him, and, in a spirit of false economy, undertook to recover the balance. Such women should not be encouraged.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice creams
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

EVENINGS.

WHO OCCUPY THE STALLS.

The premium stalls 1 and 2 are occupied by Abe Newman. Superior beef, mutton, smoked and corned beef always on hand.

Hepburn has opened stall 4, with fresh meats of all kinds. Families and restaurants supplied on the shortest notice.

Stall 38, Holm & Boyle have a splendid assortment butter, eggs, cheese and a general assortment of fancy groceries. Goods delivered free.

Stalls 81, 83 and 84, Wood & Hannifan, have opened their stalls; wholesale and retail dealers in poultry, game, butter, eggs, etc., delivered free.

Stalls 39 and 40 are occupied by Kerlin & Hassard, dealers in fruit, vegetables, etc., of the best and freshest. Delivered free of charge.

Stall 3, makes a magnificent show of fresh meats. L Zimmerman & Co. have one of the nicest stalls in the market. Restaurants and families will find it to their advantage to give them a call.

Love & Spindal occupy stall 37, with a superior stock of butter, cheese, eggs, hams, cured fruits, etc. Orders promptly attended to.

Robert S. Reardon has removed from the Occidental Market to stall 70. He is noted for having the best quality of meats.

John D. Coughlin, stall 5, supplies meats in large quantities, in good style, to ships, hotels, boarding houses and families at the lowest market prices.

Stalls 74 and 75 are taken by the pioneer Poultry and Game dealers, Steigman & Strasser. The finest Poultry and Game, and the Freshest Butter and Eggs in the city. 7-x

BOSTON OYSTER HOUSE.—L. O. Pratt has opened stalls 89 and 90 in Centre Market. Oysters in every style. Chops and Steaks of the choicest. Ladies private rooms up stairs. 7-x

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the olde t oyster men in the city.

Swain's original Bakery has opened a magnificent place at 212 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-x

Strawberries! Strawberries

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-y

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-x

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Circus Riot.

A serious riot occurred in Fredericton, N. B., on the night of the 6th, on the occasion of a performance of Lent's circus. A large number of lumbermen were present, and some dispute arising at the ticket office on the subject of change, a row took place, which ended in the circus people drawing revolvers and firing among the crowd. This, instead of intimidating, only served to incense those present, and as fast as those wounded were carried away others took their places, till the circus people were overpowered, and some of their wagons were run into the river. At this time the riot assumed an alarming aspect. The fire-bells were rung, and the Mayor, with a body of special constables hastily sworn in, after some trouble succeeded in clearing the ground. Thirteen of the circus men were arrested. It being rumored that the circus was about to leave for St. Stephen, a large body of lumbermen assembled at the station, threatening to tear up the rails. An injunction from the Supreme Court, however, being served in time, the circus was detained till a full investigation can be made. Much excitement prevails over the affair.

The Lecture System.

Ruskins disapproves of the lecture system. A request having been made to him to deliver a lecture at Glasgow, he replied emphatically declaring that the desire of audiences "to be audiences only" is becoming an "entirely pestilent character of the age." The multitude are in too great haste to be wise, or, as he puts it, they expect a man to knead into small sweet pills the knowledge which it has taken him half a life time to acquire, and to put it straight down their throats. This, as he very truly says, is not to be done, and he proceeds to condemn as "entirely pestilent and abominable" the "modern fireworking, smooth-downy-curry-and-strawberry-ice-and-milk-punch-altogether lecture." The death of poor Dickens, who was killed by the insatiable demands of the mob, when he might have been writing "blessed books" till he was eighty, Ruskin says is a lamentable example of this modern tendency.

San Jose Poets.

We clip the following from the San Jose Mercury:

We are offering 3c. per pound, for poetical contributions, and writers are not limited as to subjects.—Rochester Chronicle.

We have poets in San Jose who, at this price, would bankrupt the Chronicle in less than a fortnight. Several that we know of would make their regular $50 per day, and not work over the statutory number of hours at that. It takes a heap of San Jose poetry to make a pound, but with their improved machinery our poets can get a tremendous gait out of their muses.

Sad Warning.

Intelligence has just reached us that a man was recently killed in Georgia by the explosion of a bottle of soda-water. It it not our intention to harrow the feelings, or harden the hearts of free-drinkers against the indiscriminate use of soda water. It is not our intention to harrow the feelings, or harden the hearts of free-drinkers against the indiscriminate use of soda water; but it is our duty to point out the evil effects of Georgia soda water as well as the pernicious results of Jersey lightning.

A Quiet Place.

There is a Danbury legend to the effect that a party desiring to transact some private business with another was invited by the other to step into a neighboring store. "But we will be disturbed there," said the first party. 'Oh! no," said the second party; "they don't advertise."

A Good Business.

Sothern has played Dundreary 4,052 times. If he has averaged five hundred dollars a performance (and it is most probable) he has received the enormous sum of $2,026,000 for his efforts in this one character.

J. H. Hoskins in Chicago.

An actor named J. H. Hoskins is the only amusement Chicago now possesses. The Tribune, of that city, says:

"The Academy of Music is furnishing, with McVicker's Theatre, all the legitimate drama of the week, and, on account of the heat and unfavorable condition of affairs generally, is doing so to light business. Mr. Hoskins, who is the star of the occasion, comes to us in Chicago almost unheralded. He gained in England, many years ago, an excellent reputation as a comedian, but having lived for some time since in Australia, playing in the principal cities of that continent and New Zealand, he has not been prominently before the play-goers of England or the United States. He plays in the same round of characters as Charles Mathews.

"Monday evening he opened at the Academy, in 'A Game of Speculation,' in which he played the leading part of Affable Hawk. Although he played at a very considerable disadvantage, inasmuch as the company was the weakest ever seen on the Academy stage, it was not difficult to understand that, with proper support, he could have shown out brilliantly. But when a star is compelled to give their lines to the actors supporting him, it is not stretching matters to say that the situation is embarrassing to all parties. Mr. Hoskins is undoubtedly an actor of great experience and finish, his points being made with the ease and flexibility of manner found only in an artist of long experience, and the occasional gleams of comprehension exhibited by the company were followed always by some clever bits of acting by the star. The brilliant farce, 'The Critic,' was more evenly played and more heartily enjoyed.

Beecher's Idea of the Devil.

Men must be frequently whipped into duty. So long as men have bodies there will be motives in the skin. As the world grows the nature and the reasons of the government of God are disclosed. So as the ages roll on men get larger views of God; they make revelations of his nature. One of their modes of revelation is humor; there is constantly some funny side of man's nature projecting itself that discloses the mercifulness of God. You have probably noticed that the devil never laughs. (Laughter.) Now, the churches are all professing to strive for unity, but the unity means "Let me swallow you and we will all be one." (Laughter.) Now, I think that if the gates of heaven were only to be opened to those who believe in the Westminster Catechism there would not be enough to sing a chorus.

Gratifying.

A short time since a little commercial "drummer" chanced to get in on the same railway carriage, in England, in which the Dukes of Argyle and Northumberland were traveling. The three chatted familiarly until the train stopped at Alnwick Junction, where the Duke of Northumberland got out, and was met by a train of flunkeys and servants. "That must be a great swell," said the drummer to his remaining companion. "Yes," responded the Duke of Argyle, "he is the Duke of Northumberland." "Bless my eyes!" exclaimed the drummer; "and to think that he should have been so condescending to two little snobs like us!"

Prayer.

An interesting little boy, timid went left alone in a dark room, was overheard to say in his loneliness, "O Lord, don't let anybody hurt me, and I'll go to church next Sunday, and give you some money."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

Hepburn has opened stall 4, with fresh meats of all kinds. Families and restaurants supplied on the shortest notice.

Stall 38, Holm & Boyle have a splendid assortment butter, eggs, cheese and a general assortment of fancy groceries. Goods delivered free.

Stalls 81, 83 and 84, Wood & Hamilton, have opened their stalls; wholesale and retail dealers in poultry, game, butter, eggs, etc., delivered free.

Stalls 39 and 40 are occupied by Kerlin & Hassard, dealers in fruits, vegetables, etc., of the best and freshest. Delivered free of charge.

Stall 3, makes a magnificent show of fresh meats. L. Zimmerman & Co. have one of the nicest stalls in the market. Restaurants and families will find it to their advantage to give them a call.

Love & Spindal occupy stall 27, with a superior stock of butter, cheese, eggs, hams, cured fruits, etc. Orders promptly attended to.

Robert S. Beardon has removed from the Occidental Market to stall 70. He is noted for having the best quality of meats.

John D. Coughlin, stall 5, supplies meats in large quantities, in good style, to ships, hotels, boarding houses and families at the lowest market prices.

Stalls 74 and 75 are tenanted by the pioneer Poultry and Game dealers, Steigman & Strasser. The finest Poultry and Game, and the Freshest Butter and Eggs in the city. 7-N

BOSTON OYSTER HOUSE.—L. O. Frati has opened stalls 89 and 90 in Centre Market. Oysters in every style. Chops and Steaks of the choicest. Ladies private rooms up stairs. 7-E

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the oldest oyster men in the city.

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnificent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant 5-M

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The greatest combination of minstrel and variety talent in the United States, will appear at this house to-night. Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington have been engaged for another week and will appear on the ends in the first part. Miss Lulu Delmay will make her first appearance in California in her album of serio-comic songs. Welch and Rice will present the "Two Morning Glories." The Abyssinian Dwarf will be exhibited, Bobby Newcomb will appear in a new song and dance written for him by L. Bodecker, and entitled "Darling Isabel." Sweatnam, Reed and Sherwood will present the screamieg act of Scientific Explosions, and to wind up the feast of fun, that most amusing of all Irish comedians Sam Rickey, who played such a successful season in New York, will with Master Barney, appear in his original sketch entitled "Ambition." There will be no standing room after eight o'clock. The best way will be to reserve seats.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night Miss Jeffreys Lewie, Edward Arnott, John Howson, Miss Kate Browning, Miss Sydney Cowell and others of the admirable company engaged at this house will appear in the sterling comedy of "The Unequal Match." This piece has been carefully rehearsed and will have full justice done it by the company.

California Theatre.

To-night that universal favorite Lotta will make her appearance at this theatre and will meet a couple of thousand or so of her California friends. She will undertake the two characters of "Little Nell and the Marchioness" in John Brougham's dramatization of "The old Curiosity Shop." Nelson Decker, who will make his first appearance on this occasion will play Ned Trent, Robert Pateman will take the character of Quilp, Henry Edwards will play Grandfather Trent, Miss Belle Chapman will appear as Mrs. Quilp, Mrs. Judah as Mrs. Jarley, and J. P. Burnett as Dick Swiveller. W. Barry whom we have not seen on the stage for a long time will make his reappearance as Sampson Brass.

Bella Union Theatre.

Jas. A. Herne has made another great success at this house. His Solon Shingle in "The People's Lawyer" is particularly good, and has been received with much applause whenever he has played it. He will appear in this character to-night. Col. Mandeville and Matt Kelly will appear in the first part and also in amusing acts.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers and John Kelly cause great fun at this house. The acrobatic song and dance of the latter is a very original performance. A capital bill will be performed to-night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

The Luque Spanish Dramatic Company drew a good house at the California Theatre last night and gave a very clever performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

E. A. Sothern terminated his engagement at the California Theatre on Saturday night. His future movements are uncertain. In the event of the Tartar steamer being put on the line, she will proceed to Australia. The members of the French company from Lima, will have a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, on Sunday next. Mlle. Aimee and M. Deschamps have volunteered for the occasion.

Billy Sweatnam a very popular member of Maguire's California Minstrels, will take his farewell benefit at the Opera House, on Friday next.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show, Circus, Hippodrome and menagerie, will commence a season in this city on Monday next. The tents will probably be pitched on the City Hall lots at the corner of Market and Seventh streets, opposite the new Mechanics' Fair Pavilion. Montgomery Queen, proprietor, C. O. Pell, general director, and Olando Williams, press agent, are already in this city.

Business Education.

Young men desirous of fitting themselves for business should take a course at Heald's College, 24 Post street.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gorville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Wangaman, at his symposium of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks.

BURNT WINGS.

BY GUY ROBLIN.

How deep a life has love! Three years of pain
Have not aroused me from my overthrow;
Three Summers washed with show'rs of scented rain—
Three Winters whitened with the silent snow,
Have left me comfortless and like to one
Who stands half conscious in a crowded street,
And seeking for his mem'ry that is gone,
Forgets the purpose that should guide his feet.
O where is Pity, that a maid should slay
Sweet things unfelt and blight a life in play?

And where is Reason, that a man should cling
To dead dreams and delusions of his youth:
Is life so small that I may only sing
One song, and die because of one untruth?
No, I am young in God's great wilderness
Of beauties; why then faint upon the brink?
I will go forward for new happiness,
And in the search forget the broken link.
Forget? I do forget myself indeed,
To think that Reason should have pow'r to plead.

On such a quest how find Promethean sparks,
With passions locked up and the gold key lost?
I should mistake all weathercocks for larks,
And meadow's mist of Summer-morn for frost,
I cannot bid one half my heart be still,
And if I could, it is not in my power;
A maid, to gratify her own sweet will,
Asked for my love to wear it as a flower—
Oh what a hope of joy! What need to say
I gave it, and she flung the thing away.

A Sensible Agreement.

There is a counter crusade—a men's movement—up in in Iona county, Michigan. It is called the "calico movement," and is designed as a companion piece to temperance, a reciprocal pledge-signing. The men form praying clubs and pray the women to abstain from the use of stimulants as a beverage, or extravagance in dress. They have drawn up a pledge which is strong and double, and to be signed in couples, one part by men and the other by women. The men's pledge bids them to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The women's pledge is to wear their own hair, and to discard all counterfeits or substitutes for that appendage to the head, except in cases of baldness; to dress in plain material, cheaply, discarding jewelry, paniers, bustles, corsets, stays, hoops, switches, chignons, etc. The obligation is mutual, and every violation by one party releases the other of each couple signing the pledge.

A Direct Answer.

"What," said a teacher to a pupil, "makes you feel uncomfortable after you have done wrong?" "My pap's big leather strap," feelingly replied the boy.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain!
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Strawberries: Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 402 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-y

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. Canine Vengeance.

A little dog belonging to a gentleman, residing near Stony Brook, Long Island, was in the habit of following his master's wood-wagon to the landing, some three miles distant. One day he was set upon and roughly handled by a large dog belonging to a resident in the next village. The next day, though lame, sore and bruised, the little dog persisted in accompanying the wood-wagon again. When the wagon started, the large farm dog was also found to be moving along quietly under it. He was never known to accompany the wagon-team before. The teamster attempted to drive him back, but he refused to return. The little dog led the way, limping and brooding over his wrongs. He was also contemplating the sweetness of revenge, and gloating over its near accomplishment. When he reached the place where he had received his ill treatment the day before, he limped up to where his enemy lay basking in the sun in the front yard, and snapped and snarled through the pickets in a most tantalizing manner. Thinking to repeat the chastisement of the day before, the village dog leaped over the fence, but only to encounter the large farm dog who had been watching the proceedings from under the slow-moving wagon, and who now came rushing to the rescue. The village dog was nearly killed before they could be separated. The large farm dog left the party after the fight and returned home. He had come only for the purpose of aiding his little friend to obtain revenge. The little wretch was almost human in his airs of triumph, and in his expressions of gratified malice. By what process, think you, did the little dog communicate his wrongs, or plan with his big canine friend this well concocted scheme of retaliation?

The Freedman's Bank.

The day before the Freedman's Bank closed, a colored man, who had been making stated deposits at the bank, called and inquired for Mr. Alvord, the President of the bank.

Clerk.—Mr. Alvord is not President now.

Sam.—Well, who is, den?

Clerk.—Mr. Fred Douglas is.

Sam.—Mister who did you say, mister clerk?

Clerk.—Mr. Fred Douglas, I said.

Sam.—De h'll he is. Well, you jes gib me dem deposits ober hes, mister.

Clerk.—Why, what do you want them for Sam?

Sam.—Want dem for? You jes gib dis nigger dem deposits. No white man eber gibs a nigga his coat onless dat coat's got a hole into it; dat's sure. Der's somfin rong wid dis bank, sure.

It is needless to say that there was something wrong with the bank, and that Sam did not get "dem deposits."

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. A Spent Thunderbolt.

The Detroit Free Press relates a story about a young man from the country: Wednesday afternoon a linen-suited individual, who came from some town in Genesee county, was noticed wandering around Franklin street, having considerable money, and being under the influence of liquor. A policeman spoke to him, and warned him that he had better look out for himself, when the young man replied: "Look out for myself! You bet. I will! Why, mister, I'm chain-lightning rolled up in a ball and stuck full of red hot bowie-knives! I'm a thunbolt from the north, I am—a regular rip-up thunderbolt—and folks want to let me alone; they do!" Yesterday morning the same policeman found the same individual lying asleep back of a coal shed. His eyes were battered, there was a hole in his head, and his watch and money were gone. "Here," said the officer, as he woke the man with his club—"say, aren't you that thunderbolt from the north woods?" The man sat up, looking around in a dogged way, and slowly replied: "No; hain't 'zactly a thunderbolt, but I am the darned fool who thought he was!"

Discouraged.

A Utah teamster says: I never tried to get married but once, and that was to a Mormon gal up here to Kogan. She was just about the slickest little critter ever you see. Fust time I come across her was where her folks and I camped out one night right about here. I followed on her trail pretty close for six months, and thought I was going to trap her sure. She wasn't pertickler about that, for I didn't like to jine any church. I never did belong to any church nor an engine company in the States. However, I told her finally, as she crowded me, that I'd swaller Brigham, tabernacle and all, for the love of her. So we got things about fixed, and if she hadn't gone too fur I might have been a bishop by this time. But she had an old maid sister, and she wanted to marry that Susan Jane too—that darned, dried-up, oldSusan Jane! "Emmy," says I, "I can't and won't!" So I sot my foot down and there's where we split. You see the old man was kind of sickly, and just as sure as I'd agree to take Susan Jane, when he died I would have had to marry the old woman, too. I hain't hunted after a wife since.

San Jose Amusements.

The San Jose Patriot says: An entertainment will shortly be given by the San Jose Amatures for the benefit of the Chicago sufferers. A few wind-galled hypochondriacs who went to the "Octoroon" performance, got their moneys worth, and afterwards growled, will be admitted free.—Cushioned seats in the extreme front will be provided expressly for their comfort. The play will be the "Flying Spud." The local of the Mercury will appear as a bird, and sing "Mother is the Battle over, for I Want to go to Bed."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS,
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Wanted to be Religious.

Max Adeler says: The clergyman at our church last Sunday, while indulging in some figurative expressions in his sermon, used the phrase, "Like the roe which leaps upon the mountain—" referring of course to the scriptural animal of that name. As I was coming out of church a horny-handed and sun-burned fellow-pilgrim stepped up to me and said:

"See yer, stranger! what d'yer think of that feller in the pulpit?"

"I think he is a pretty fair sort of a man; near-sighted, may be, and poor; but taking him altogether, good."

"Well, ser yer, stranger! D'd you 'beerve what he said about the roe jumpin' on a mountain? D,d you hear him say that?"

"Yes. What about it?"

"Well, look a yer, cap, of course he was a jokin', wa'n't he?"

"Certainly he was not."

"See yer, now, you don't mean to say he was a tryin' to gag that down us as a fac:? He don't reely believe that no roe ever jumped on a mountain, now does he?"

"He does, of course, and so do I. I know it."

"Well, look a yer, mister; I'm a mere child 'bout most things. I can swaller a'most any ordinary lie. You kin stuff me full of owdacious falsehood when I'm sufferin' from ignorance. But you must excuse me on this. Yes, sir, I sour on you when you ask me to gorge myself with that kinder lie. I've bin a kotchin' shad an' herrin' 'most all my life, and gettin' the roes out ov 'em; but I never seen no roe that could git up an' git when you once laid it down. I wanter be religious; I wanter do right and b'leave in preachers, but when you ask me to b'leeve that any shad roe ever bounced up a hill and frolicked around over the grass, my stummick goes agin' it. It's too much, stranger; much to much."

Then I unfolded the matter to him and he went away comforted.

How the Serpent Tempted Eve.

A Frenchman's account of the temptation and fall of our first mother, Eve, is graphic and interesting:

Monsieur Adam—he wake up—he sees one belle demoiselle aslip in ze garden. Voila de la chance! Here is something interesting. "Bon jour, Madame Iv!" Madame Iv, she awake—she hold her fan before her face. Adam put up his eyeglass to admire ze tableau—zey made one promenade—Madame Iv she feel hungry—she see appel on ze arbre. Monsieur le Serpent se promene sur l'Arbre—make one walk on ze tree. "M. le Serpent," say Iv, "wesl you not 'ave ze bonte to peek some appel? J'al faim." "Certainment, Madame," say ze serpent—charme de vous voir." "Hola, mon ami, ar'r'retez vous!" cry Adam—"stop!—que songes vous faire—what madness is zis? You must not peek ze appel! Ze snek in ze tree he smile—he take one pinch snuff—he say, "Ah, Monsieur Adam, do you not know zere is nossing prohesbeet for ladies? Madame Iv, permeet me to offare you some of zis fruit defendu." Iv she make one courtesy, ze snek he fill her whole parasol wiz appel, he say, "Eritis, sicut Deus; eef M. Adam will eat ze appel he will become like one dieu, know ze good and ze evil; but you, Madame, cannot become more of one goddess than you are now." And zis feenish Madame Iv.

The Editor's Romance.

The editor of the Worthington Times has received a bunch of flowers. He says: "The kind ladies of Worthington have shed a halo of sweetness through the Times office since our last issue, causing it to bear a striking resemblance to a modern Eden, in a floral point of view." This is a very graceful acknowledgment; but to go from such a place to a woodshed, saw a quarter of a cord of rough oak knots, and then sit in the kitchen and hold the baby while his wife stews the dried apples for supper, takes all the romance out of it.

The Prevailing Topic.

The comet is said to be Coggia-tating as to the result of a collision with the earth, and it is thought will take the risks of the encounter. Whether it will comet over us to any disastrous extent is now the question which agitates scientific circles.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-oj

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stouda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

JOE GUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in eve y style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Gusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

It is needless to say that the California favorite, Lotta, drew a splendid house last night, when she made her reappearance before the public who know and appreciate her so well. Both as Little Nell and the Marchioness, she received abundant applause and fairly brought down the house by her banjo playing and eccentric acting in the last named character. Henry Edwards as grandfather Trent, did a nice bit of acting. J. P. Burnett appeared as the gambling Dick Swiveller, Miss Belle Goodman looked charmingly pretty as Mrs. Quilp, and acted the part acceptably, and Robert Fiske man as Quilp, fairly divided the honors of the piece with the star. So wonderfully vivid was Mr. Fiske man's realization of the character of the little monster that the audience showed their admiration of the actor's art by recalling him in the last act before the fall of the curtain. Mr. Fiske man is an artist and those critics who do not appreciate this fact simply expose their own ignorance. With the exception of Asa Trenchard, Mr. Fiske man has played everything which he has attempted well, and his Quilp, stamps him as an actor of extraordinary ability. W. Barry who received a warm welcome in making his appearance, gave an excellent impersonation of Samson Brass, and Mrs. Saunders was very successful as Sally Brass. Nelson Decker who made his first appearance before a San Francisco audience on this occasion, played the part of Ned Trent, for all it was worth, and proved himself a clever actor. Mrs. Judah as Mrs. Jarley was delightfully funny and genial, and the other characters were generally well played. "Little Nell and the Marchioness," judging from the success it met with last night, it is up for a run. It will be repeated every night until further notice.

Opera House.

There was a crammed house last night to welcome the new artists who, in addition to Cotton and Arlington, Bobby Newcomb, Billy Sweatnam, and all the other star performers, made their appearance at this place of amusement last night. Miss Lulu Delmay made a decided hit. She is pretty, unaffected and graceful, and sings better than either Liegard or Ella Wesner. She was repeatedly encored, and in spite of a slight hoarseness sang in a style which pleased everyone. The grand success of the evening, however, was Sam Rickey's performance of Pat O'Brien in his original sketch of "Ambition." Anything more comical than this could not be imagined. The audience laughed until their sides were sore, and expressed their delight by the most enthusiastic applause with hands and feet. The sketch is full of "business" and the New York standing joke of Tom Collins is introduced with good effect. This grand bill will be repeated to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

An admirable performance of the charming comedy of "The Unequal Match," was given at this theatre last night. Miss Jeffreys Lewis as the unsophisticated Hester, acted in a delightfully natured manner, and was rewarded by much applause and an enthusiastic call before the curtain. Edward Arnott was perfectly at home in the part of Sir Harry Arncliff, and John Howson in that of Dr. Batcherby presented one of those admirably artistic delinestions of character for which he has become famous. Miss Kate Browning as the Hon. Mrs. Mountressor the cold hearted woman of the world, did some very effective acting. George Giddens gave an absolutely perfect impersonation of the English confidential servant. Miss Sydney Oswell was charmingly piquante as the lady's maid Bessy Hibbletwaite, and the other characters were generally well played. "The Unequal Match" will be repeated to-night, and should draw a good house.

Billy Sweatnam's Benefit.

The farewell benefit of this favorite minstrel will take place at the Opera House on Friday evening next. On this occasion there will be four end men in the first part, and many other extra attractions specified on our first page, will be presented. No one has better earned a bumper benefit than has Mr. Sweatnam, and we are sure he will have one.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Jennie Johnson, Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton, Tommy Bree, and H. R. Archer in "Dodging a Wife," Jas. A. Herne in Solon Shingle in "The People's Lawyer," Miss Maggie Kelly in comic songs, and others in a variety of performances specified on our first page will afford abundant entertainment to all who visit the Bella Union Theatre to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Thorn in acts and specialities, Mortimor in his clever sketches, John Kelly in his remarkable acrobatic song and dance and a great variety of other attractions will be presented this evening.

Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus.

This great show, is one of those mammoth Eastern shows that travel exclusively by railroads, is now en route overland for this city, in a special train of forty cars, and will open here on Tuesday, July 28th. Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus ranks everywhere at the East with those of Barnum's, Forepaugh and "Old John Robinson's," and is by far the largest establishment in the show line that ever crossed the Continent. It comprises a most varied and talented company of artists and a mammoth collection of wild animals, including among other features the largest elephant that ever visited this coast, all of which will be duly specified in due time in FIGARO which will be the only programme used in this, as in all other shows.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, the grand balloon race between Prof. Martin, Monnat, who has been making ascentions at Sacramento, in his balloon "International," and Mons. Baisley in his balloon "Emperman," will come off at these gardens. The balloons will be cut loose at the same moment, and the rest will be left to chance. A grand performance will be given by Anton Lecq, John Wilder and others, in the Pavilion previous to the balloon race. The whole town will be at Woodwards, on Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

We said on Saturday :—"The brilliant dramatic critics of the press who have been sneering at Robert Fiske man because he does not play for water on Tuesday, after he has appeared in Quilp in "The old Curiosity Shop." The Alta and Call critics do so this morning. The Chronicle's critic is utterly suppressed, no notice of theatrical matter appearing in that paper this morning.

The Call's dramatic critic in his notice of "The Unequal Match," played at Maguire's New Theatre last night says:

Mr. George Giddens as "Blackenson" made a fair representation of a London footman.

This is as much as to say that the Call critic knows what a London footman is. He doesn't. Mr. Giddens was an excellent representative of a "gentleman's gentleman."

J. W. Piercy, an actor who in his short career on the stage has played many parts, and played them well, will take a farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre on Friday evening, when he will appear in "Hamlet." Mr. Piercy will leave for the East on Monday.

O. B Collins and Miss Kate Raymond, of Philadelphia will arrive on the overland train to-night, under engagement to Manager Tesiow, of the Bella Union Theatre.

The live paper's Pacific Slope reporter has discovered by reading Saturday's FIGARO, that Gilroy is to have a new theatre, and publishes the "news" this morning. There's nothing like "enterprise."

The steamer Tartar will leave on Monday for Australia, and will carry away E. A. Sothern and Miss Minnie Walton. Good luck attend them!

Miss Bell Chapman of the famous theatrical Chapman Family, who made her first appearance at the California Theatre last night, did honor to the stock, though Mrs. Quilp is not a character calculated to display her talent to the best advantage.

Harry Andrews, the very active and efficient Manager of Woodward's Gardens, is to have a big benefit at the gardens on Saturday evening, August 8th. Some fifty artists will appear in an immense programme, therefore, we are sure he will have a "big" benefit.

Self-Sacrifice.

An Irishman being recently on trial for some offense, pleaded "not guilty," and the jury being in the box, the District Attorney proceeded to call Mr. Furkisson as a witness. With the utmost innocence Patrick turned his head to the Judge and said: "Do I understand, yer honor, that Mr. Furkisson is to be a witness forenenst me again?" The Judge said dryly: "It seems so." "Well, thin, yer honor, I plade guilty sure, if your honor praise, not because I am guilty, for I am as innocent as yer honor's suckin' babe, but jist on account of savin' Mister Furkisson's sowl."

"Free Jim."

Cincinnati possesses a high-toned minister. He says. "Free Jim's my name. I'm as free as a hog on ice. My education cost sixteen hundred dollars, and I can paddle my own canoe." They ought to do with Free Jim as they do with the other hogs in Cincinnati: kill him.

A Lamentable Truth.

The editor of a daily paper, recently started, pensively remarks: "When your pocket-book gets empty, and everybody knows it, you can put all your friends in it, and it won't 'bulge out' worth a cent."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in now,
It looks so nice—and try their chow."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HARRE, Proprietor.

THE LAUGHTER PLANT.

There's a humorous plant in Arabia—
I don't know it's Arabic name—
The tea from whose leaves sets a laughing
Whoever partakes of the same.

Every leaf's full of nitrous oxide
Evolved in the natural way;
And wise men prefer it to Colton's,
Because there is nothing to pay.

It is thought the Arabian hyena
From this jolly provender wins
The power to express his emotions,
At nightfall, in audible grins,

Than Longfellow's famed Minnehaha
'Tis very much better, I think;
For there all the laugh's in the water,
And not in the people who drink.

I'd like to have placed in my garden
Some plants of this ludicrous kind,
And to put a few sprigs in the teapot
Whene'er to blue-devils inclined.

One might carry some seeds in the pocket,
And, dull yarns should somebody spin,
Might swallow a few at the point where
The laugh was supposed to come in.

I would that I knew of some Arab,
Reliable, worthy and wise,
Who would send me some roots of this comic
Specific for sorrow and sighs.

Couldn't Stand the Test.

Even out in Duluth, false, fickle man can be found. He went one evening to see his beloved. He saw her, and she was going one eye on the antics of her poodle, who was playing with the other. It was glass. "Do you sport a glass eye, Sarah?" asked he. "That's the kind of woman I am," answered she. "Do you think I'll marry a woman with a glass eye? Not much," said he. "Do you think any woman who have ever accepted such a jolter-headed, slapsided scarecrow as you that wasn't half blind to his faults?" asked she. "Then you can't stay single. I object to having only three eyes in my family. There aren't company," said he. "If you don't git there'll only be one eye left in this company," she said, reaching for the shot-gun. He didn't wait for further parley. We don't think that woman will have "Died of a broken heart" engraved on her tombstone.

Let him Roar.

Satan may vent his sharpest spits and all his legions roar, was what they sung at Beach r's church on Sunday. Leave them alone for "getting even" with a fellow like Satan.

A Cynical Remark.

Woman is like ivy—the more you are ruined, the closer she clings to you. An old bachelor adds, "Ivy is like woman—the closer it clings to you, the more you are ruined."

New York Theatrical News.

New York theatrical news of the 13th inst, is thus given: This evening the spectacle entitled "Faustus" will be produced at Niblo's, New York, and is the only genuine novelty in New York Theatres. The attractions at the other theatres are:

At the Union Square Theatre a special Summer season will be commenced on Monday, July 20 h, when Miss Kate Mayhew, a most charming soubrette actress, will appear in Mr. Charles Gaylor's new play of "With the Tide," a work that has already been well received in Washington, Chicago, and others cities. A fine company has been engaged to support the star, and new scenery is in preparation.

This evening Mr. George D rrell, an Australian actor, will make his first appearance at the Bowery Theatre, when will be produced a new drama replete with interest and abounding in original and stirring situations entitled "The Trump Card." In this drama Mr. Darrell sustains six different characters, viz., Richard Heathcote, Sam Sharpeye, Jack Jollity, Jared Fitzperkins, Timothy Twinge and Horatio Sponsford. The play will be preceded each evening by the farce of "Sudden Thoughts."

At Wood's Museum the present week's attractions will consist of two sensational dramas, by Mr. J. J. McCloskey, in each of which the comedian, Mr. Harry Clifford, will sustain the principal character. In the afternoon "Pomp" will be the play, and in the evening the new drama of "Life and Death; or, California in 1849," will be presented.

A Fighting Editor.

Barnburst, the Vicksburg fighting editor does his jobs thoroughly. A stout fellow attacked him on the street, the other day, and just as Barnburst had knocked him down, and was about to brain him, he was pitched over from a blow behind. Then he drew his prompt pistol, shot the fellow through the head, killing him, then turned and put a bullet into the first, and, leaving both for the police to pick up, he betook himself to the Times office and wrote up the item.

Handsomely Done.

A Chicago reporter paid his dentist in this way: "Doctor Crouse, the well known and popular dentist, whose fame as an operator upon the human tooth is as wide spread as the heavens above, is about to leave his immense practice for a few days shooting in Indiana, where the steady arm which has so often torn the stubborn molar from its resting place will direct the fatal pellet upon the gentle woodcock and fast-flying snipe."

A Fair Shot.

A wag had kept up a continual fire of witticisms at a social party, when a Puritanical gentleman sharply observed: "If you keep on, you will make every decent person leave the house." "That would be a sorry joke," was the dry reply; "you would certainly be very lonesome when left alone."

An Unhealthy Practice.

We don't care what philosophers and doctors may say, we contend that early rising is unhealthy—for worms. It is also, for birds. No bird can be healthy after it catches the worms.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast.
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Wangeman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. -N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Answer to Correspondents.

An Eastern editor answers a correspondent as follows: A singularly sagacious person in Belvidere, New Jersey, writes to me to ask whether the Cubans or Spaniards will be whipped in the present struggle in Cuba. He says he wants to know so that he "can decide a bet." I do not complain of the fatuity of this person. He cannot help it; he is in such a condition of intellectual chaos that he is unable to comprehend that the prophet Isaiah possessed qualities which have not been handed down to me. He simply yearns to have that bet decided, and when that is done he will be happy. I will try to decide it for him. After a careful survey of the situation in Cuba, I feel certain that if victory finally perches upon the banners of the Cubans, the Spaniards will not bring the conflict to a successful conclusion, while if the Spaniards crush the enemy into the dust, the Cubans can hardly be expected to reach such an issue as will justify their indulgence in triumphant exultation. At the same time, if the Cubans should happen to acquire the supremacy and to exterminate the Castilian hordes completely, it is more than likely that the Spaniards will not achieve a permanent suppression of the rebellion. Of course, in the event of the complete subjugation of the Cubans the efforts of Spain would be crowned with success; and the rebels would probably not obtain the decendancy. But we cannot close our eyes to the unquestionable fact that the Cubans have but to vanquish their foes in order to surmount every obstacle to victory; while if this shou'd be the case, the Spaniards would hardly obtain the mastery as readily as if the contest should result in the subjugation of the Cubans. In either event the party that secured its object would be most likely to overpower its antagonists, while the party that suffered repulse would find the end to be disastrous. This is a view of the situation which ought to commend itself even to a thick-headed person in Belvidere as being definite and conclusive. If it does not settle that bet I do not know how it can be settled, unless the disputants fight each other for the stakes. In that event I advise the opponent of the man who wrote to me, not to fire at his enemy's head unless he has a shot gun which doesn't scatter, and is warranted to send projectiles through a very dense substance.

A New Playwright.

The Philadelphia All Day City Item says: It gives us much pleasure to announce that among the attractions at Union Square Theatre, New York, next season, will be the production of a new and highly interesting play of American society, entitled "A Rash Vow." It is from the pen of the highly accomplished dramatic critic of Wilke's Spirit of the Times, Mr. James F. Latham, and, if only on a par with his critical emanations, cannot fail to add to the triumphs of a most successful comedy theatre.

Quite a Chance.

Here is a chance for some one religiously inclined. The New Methodists are just starting a church, and the following rules must be observed by all new members: Persons who join must be humble, and opposed to secret societies, must discard the use of tobacco and whisky and the wearing of jewelry, and must not partake of the pleasures of picnics, church festivals, lotteries, etc., or make any display of human eloquence or learning.

His Dying Admonition.

"My poor dear John," said widow Smith, "I never can forget his dying words. He was so pious. We had a few harsh words before he went to shingle the barn, and the poor dear fell off and broke his neck, and he lived sixteen days after it, and I held my lips close to his ear, and I said, 'John have you any dying request to make,' and the dear pious soul said, 'go you and do likewise.' I can never forget them affectin' words."

Cheerful.

We find the following item in an Illinois paper: "Mr.——, who has been in retirement for a few weeks after marrying and burying three sisters, came up smilingly to the altar again yesterday, having begun on a new family."

It would be a pity to discourage Mr.——— by inquiring how he killed his former wives. They were his wives, and that is sufficient.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Cotton and Arlington, Sam Rickey, Master Barney, Miss Lulu Delmay, and other talented artistes engaged at this house, give an immense entertainment.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Tom Taylor's comedy of "The Unequal Match," is admirably performed by Miss Jeffreys Lewis, Edward Arnot, Miss Kate Browning, Miss Sidney Cowell and the company at this house. It will be repeated to-night.

California Theatre.

This theatre was crowded last night when Lotta made her second appearance in the characters of Little Nell and the Marchioness. The performance was much enjoyed by all present.

Billy Sweatnam's Benefit.

The farewell benefit of this favorite minstrel will take place at the Opera House on Friday evening next. On this occasion there will be four end men in the first part, and many other extra attractions specified on our first page, will be presented. No one has better earned a bumper benefit than has Mr. Sweatnam, and we are sure he will have one.

Bella Union Theatre.

James A. Herne to the comedy of "The People's Lawyer," Col. Mandeville in his sensation songs, and others in varied specialities appear nightly at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers, John Kelly, Frank Mortimore, and a score of other popular favorites appear in the programme for to-night. Edward Barry will make his first appearance on this occasion.

Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus.

This great show, is one of those mammoth Eastern shows that travel exclusively by railroads, is now en route overland for this city, in a special train of forty cars, and will open here on Tuesday, July 28th. Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus ranks everywhere at the East with those of Barnum's, Forpaugh and "Old John Robinson's," and is by far the largest establishment in the show line that ever crossed the Continent. It comprises a most varied and talented company of artists and a mammoth collection of wild animals, including among other features the largest elephant that ever visited this coast, all of which will be duly specified in due time in FIGARO which will be the only programme used in this, as in all other shows.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, the grand balloon race between Prof. Martin, Beaunat, who has been making ascensions at Sacramento, in his balloon, "International," and Mons. Buisley in his balloon "Empyrean," will come off at these gardens. The balloons will be cut loose at the same moment, and the rest will be left to chance. A grand performance will be given by Anton Leon, John Wilder and others, in the Pavilion previous to the balloon race. The whole town will be at Woodwards, on Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Mlle. Aimee, Signor Pietro Baccei, M. Marra, M. Deschamps, M. Bouvet, and M. Gandin will appear at Maguire's New Theatre on Sunday next for the benefit of the French artists recently arrived from Lima, Peru. The programme for the occasion is published on our first page.

A dramatic performance will be given at the California Theatre, on Sunday evening next, by the Luqua Spanish Company for the benefit of Speranza's Musical Institute. An attractive entertainment will be presented.

Adolphus Sutro, the champion bore of the United States, is showing his magic lantern pictures, and airing his grievances at Mercantile Library Hall. People are expected to attend without being paid for it.

San Francisco is to have a season of genuine "Black Crook." Three tons of scenery and a company of thirty performers are now on their way to this city by steamer from New York. Mr. Glynn, the advance agent, has leased Maguire's New Theatre for a short season commencing Monday August 10th.

Montgomery Queen, the proprietor of the great show has been prospecting round the city for a lot on which to pitch his numerous tents, but has experienced much difficulty in finding a space of ground sufficiently large for the purpose. The only available piece of ground of sufficient dimensions is Pope and Talbot's one hundred vara lot, on the north east corner of Mission and Seventh streets, which is within one block of all the principal lines of street cars. The entire establishment consists of two circus tents, one hundred and thirty-five feet in diameter, a menagerie tent one hundred and twenty-five feet in diameter and half a dozen auxiliary tents of greater or lesser dimensions. The capacity of the show will allow of between four and five thousand persons being present at each exhibition. The arrangement and construction of the spectatorium, has been placed in the hands of Mr. Quackenbush, the well-known contractor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

HAVE I LOVED.

Have I loved?—Ask the stars
In the heavens on high,
When so lonely at midnight
My vigils I've kept;
And I've gazed on the sea,
'Neath the brilliant o-b'd sky,
Whose dark wave, wrapped in slumber,
Has peacefully slept.

Have I loved?—Ask the mountains,
Whose caverns can tell
A name they echo'd 'mid
Silence and gloom;
That has sounded in tones
Like a deep, fearful spell,
As vainly I've called on the Cold, mould'ring tomb.

Have I loved?—Ask the ocean,
Whose dark waters roll,
That have borne me afar on
Their wild heaving wave,
In the night's storm they've heard
The sad plaint of a soul
That has scornfully smiled on
Their wide, yawning grave.

Have I loved?—Ask the sigh that
Is borne on the wind;
That has mournfully broke from
A bosom o'erpressed;
From a heart that is smother'd,
Where sorrow's enshrin'd,
Whose best hope only lies
In the grave's silent rest.

Religiously in Earnest.

Max Adeler says: I happened to call at Magruder's the other morning on my way down town, and as I knew them well, I entered the side door without knocking. I was shocked to find Mr. Magruder prostrate on the floor, while Mrs. Magruder sat on his chest, and rumbled among his hair, as she bumped his head on the boards, and scolded him vigorously. They rose when I came in, and Magruder, as he wiped the blood from his nose, tried to pretend that it was only a joke. But Mrs. Magruder interrupted him:

"Joke? Joke? I should think not! I was giving him a dressing-down. He wanted to have family prayers before breakfast, and I was determined to have them afterwards, and as he threw the Bible at me, and hit Mary Jane with the hymn-book, I soused down on him. If I can't rule this house, I will know the reason why. Pick up them Scriptures, and have prayers! You hear me, Magruder! It's more trouble regulatin' the piety of this family than runnin' a sawmill, Mary Jane, give your 'ps that hymn-book."

I left before the exercises began.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
White mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

A Business-like Mourner.

Mr. Bailey's able successor on the Danbury News tells the following story: They had a funeral over at Pancadder Hundred the other day, at which I happened to be present. After an effecting discourse by the minister to the friends of the deceased, who were gathered in the front parlor, a stranger arose and said that he would like to make a few remarks. He said: "A very beautiful thought occurred to me as I listened to the eloquent words of the venerable clergyman, and as I saw before me the sorrowing throng which is about to accompany our brother to his last resting place. He is not lost but he has gone before. He is, as it were, our advanced agent, sent on beyond the boundaries of the mysterious land to herald the coming of the rest of us, who are on our way to that undiscovered country. My attention was directed particularly to this singularly sweet suggestion during the address of my reverend fellow-pilgrim, because I occupy a somewhat similar relation here on earth to you to that of my departed brother in the other world. It is my high mission to represent a firm which is engaged in the manufacture of a superior article of stomach bitters which I could confidentially have recommended to our lamented friend over there in the coffin if I had arrived ere the vital spark had fled, but which I can now urge upon the attention of the weeping survivors, and particularly upon that afflicted sister sitting there in the corner with the sniffles, and upon the undertaker whose warts upon his nose betoken a dangerous derangement of the digestive functions. It is put up in pint bottles and contains no deleterious substances. This is a world of sorrow and mourning, and the griefs which we are called to endure, rob the stomach of its tone. To restore this we need, not only to have the gloom dispelled from our hearts, but to have our stomachs excited to action, and for this purpose my bitters——"

Here the speaker was hustled out of the front door by the undertaker and four of the pall bearers, and the procession went away without him. Personally I was in favor of allowing him to go on. I knew that in a few minutes he would have routed into the corpse and tried to re-animate it with his bitters, and I was anxious to see him do it.

Poetical.

They had a holiday in the Cincinnati Enquirer office when Ben Butler's last speech came in, and they prefaced that memorable philipic with such gentle comments as "Ben bounced 'em—High old times in the House last night—Butler puts on his war paint and goes on a general scalping expedition—Numerous trophies of the raid dangling at his bloody belt."

Dramatic Notes.

We take the following from the Philadelphia All Day City Item: Miss Mary Wells, an old favorite at Booth's Theatre, New York, has been engaged for next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams leave their establishment at Bath, L. I., for a protracted stay at White Sulphur Springs. They open their engagement at Booth's next fall with the Irish play of "Connie Soogah."

Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer have received a letter from Dion Boucicault, London, in which the following reference to the new play he has written for Booth's Theatre is made: "It is an entirely new and original play founded upon incidents of the great American conflict. And please to understand that it is neither translated nor denor from the French, nor from any previous source, either narrative or dramatic." The name of the piece has not yet transpired.

A Free Show in San Jose.

San Jose is jubilant. It has a free show. The people are flocking by thousands to the city prison, and are admitted to see Vasquez free of charge. The newspapers also participate in the jubilee; they have something to write about. The Independent Californian, a paper devoted to the advocacy of local option (which by the by, had quite a triumph in San Jose,) thus describes the genial highwayman:

The outlaw looks worn and weary, but seems cheerful and gentlemanly; replying to all questions in the most pleasant and patient manner and seems rather a Mexican gentleman than a Spanish brigand.

Under these circumstances the proposed benefit for the relief of the Chicago sufferers will have to be postponed.

What it Takes to Amuse the Baby.

One boy doll, one girl doll, large; one toy ball, one girl doll, small; one silver toy ball, one silver napkin-ring, two napkins, one sugar-bowl cover (glass), one newspaper, one orange, one large China caster, one feather duster, one small China caster, one bunch of keys, one small bird-cage, one wooden box-lid, one silver cake-basket, one wooden martingale ring, one round of a chair, the old slipper, one silver goblet, one old hat, one sugar-bowl cover (silver), one crumb-tray. And what is still more remarkable, any attempt to take any of these articles results in an immediate "disturbance of the peace."

"The Worst has been Told."

We hope the public and the newspapers are satisfied now. If they are not, then must Theodore Tilton be still more explicit. We think that he has made out a pretty strong case. It is rough on Beecher, and he will probably have to die or leave Plymouth Church. If he takes the latter course he can make a very good living by lecturing. We are afraid that Beecher is somewhat of a sneak, but we suppose he can't help it. A congregation like that of Plymouth Church would spoil a better man than Beecher.

American History.

A French editor, anxious to show his knowledge of American history, gives the following account of the battle of Bunker Hill: "On the 17 of June, 1775, the American volunteers, commanded by General Artemas Ward, attacked and thoroughly beat the British troops near Charlestown, in Massachusetts."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Straight to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his sympos[illegible] fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially to this saloon. 2x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Fesser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks,

Taking It Literally.

Among the scholars when Lamb and Coleridge attended school was a poor clergyman's son of the name of Simon Jennings. On account of his dismal and gloomy nature, his playmates had nicknamed him Pontius Pilate. One morning he went up to his master, Doctor Boyer, and said, in his usual whimpering manner, "Please, Doctor, the boys call me Pontius Pilate." If there was one thing which Doctor Boyer hated more than a false quantity in Greek and Latin, it was the practice of nicknaming. Rushing down among the scholars from his pedestal of state, with cane in hand, he cried, with his usual voice of thunder, "Listen, boys; the next time I hear any of you say 'Pontius Pilate,' I'll cane you as long as this cane will last! You are to say 'Simon Jennings,' and not 'Pontius Pilate.' Remember that, if you value your hides!" Next day, when the same class were reciting the Catechism, a boy of remarkably dull and literal turn of mind had to repeat the Creed. He had got as far as "suffered under," and was about popping out the next word, when the doctor's prohibition unluckily flashed upon his obtuse mind. After a moment's hesitation, he blurted out, "suffered under Simon Jennings, was——." The rest of the sentence was never uttered, for Doctor Boyer had already sprung like a tiger upon him, and the cane was descending on his unfortunate shoulders. When the irate doctor had discharged his cane storm upon him, he said, "What do you mean, you booby, by such blasphemy?" "I only did as you told me," replied the simple-minded youth. "Did as I told you!" roared the doctor, now wound up to something above the boiling point. "What do you mean?" As he said this, he instinctively grasped his cane more furiously. "Yes, doctor; you said we were always to call Pontius Pilate Simon Jennings. Didn't he, Sam?" appealed the unfortunate culprit to Coleridge, who was next to him. Sam said naught; but doctor, who saw what a dunce he had to deal with, said, "Boy, you are a fool! Where are your brains?" Poor Doctor Boyer for a second time was "floored;" for the scholar said, with an earnestness which proved its truth, but to the intense horror of the learned pedantate, "In my stomach, sir." The doctor always respected that boy's stupidity ever after, as though half afraid that a stray blow might be unpleasant.

Sharp Sayings from the China News.

The second number of the China News made its appearance yesterday. We make the following clippings from its columns:

"The meanness of Henry Ward Beecher, the Christian priest in persuading Mrs. Tilton that she was acting religiously, should be a warning to all good men not to forsake the teachings of Confucius, for those of men who adopt religion merely to get money and other things by it."

"The Chronicle is in such a desperate condition that it puffs Adolphus Sutro and takes its pay in Sutro Tunnel stock."

"How beautiful is virtue, and how rare!"

"An American may walk off with a whole poultry yard, but a Chinaman may not look over the fence."

"There is a good temperance paper published in San Francisco. It is called the Post. It is subscribed for by Good Templars and Dashaways."

"An American actress in order to be very popular must be able to play the banjo."

A San Jose paper says that the grandfather of Tiburcio Vasquez, owned under a grant from the King of Spain "all the country composing the present site of San Jose." The place has fallen into bad hands now. We wish the grandfather of Vasquez was alive, and owned the property.

Flattering.

Some years ago, a well-known hunting character was met by a friend whom he had not seen for a long time, who apostrophized him thus: "Why, you are married at last, old boy! What made you? You were so determined a bachelor." "True, my dear fellow," replied the Nimrod. "The fact is, my wife is a charming woman with a good fortune, and she is so like a fox!"

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stonda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

That charming actress, Miss Jeffreys Lewis, will appear this evening in Tom Taylor's excellent comedy of "The Unequal Match." She will be ably supported by Edward Arcott, Miss Kate Browning, John Howson, George Giddens and others.

California Theatre.

Little Nell and the Marchioness as impersonated by the vivacious Lotta, are very popular in San Francisco, and every one is going to see them. Lotta will appear in these characters to-night.

Opera House.

Sam Rickey has made a great hit in the sketch entitled "Ambition," and has fairly started the Tom Collins joke in San Francisco. Miss Lulu Delmay is a great favorite, and receives many encores for her songs, and the programme throughout is a very entertaining one. On Friday evening that clever Ethiopian comedian and general favorite, Billy Sweatnam, will take his farewell benefit.

Billy Sweatnam's Benefit.

The farewell benefit of this favorite minstrel will take place at the Opera House on Friday evening next. On this occasion there will be four end men in the first part, and many other extra attractions specified on our first page, will be presented. No one has better earned a bumper benefit than has Mr. Sweatnam, and we are sure he will have one.

Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus.

This great show, one of those mammoth Eastern shows that travel exclusively by railroads, is now en route overland for this city, in a special train of forty cars, and will open here on Tuesday, July 28th. Montgomery Queen's Menagerie and Circus ranks everywhere at the East with those of Barnum's, Forpaugh and "Old John Robinson's," and is by far the largest establishment in the show line that ever crossed the Continent. It comprises a most varied and talented company of artists and a mammoth collection of wild animals, including among other features the large-at elephant that ever visited this coast, all of which will be duly specified in due time in FIGARO which will be the only programme used in this, as in all other shows.

Bella Union Theatre.

James A. Herne appears every evening at this house in his great character of Solon Shingle in the comedy of "The People's Lawyer." In addition to this a capital first part and an olio of songs acts and dances are given.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The latest addition to the company at this house is Edward Barry, who is a pleasing vocalist. An excellent programme will be performed to-night, as may be seen by referring to our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, the grand balloon race between Prof. Martin, Mousnat, who has been making ascensions at Sacramento, in his balloon, "International," and Mons. Baisley in his balloon "Empyrean," will come off at these gardens. The balloons will be cut loose at the same moment, and the rest will be left to chance. A grand performance will be given by Anton Leon, John Wilder and others, in the Pavilion previous to the balloon race. The whole town will be at Woodwards, on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—The first of a series of popular concerts at the City Gardens will take place Sunday, July 26th, commencing at one o'clock. The orchestra will consist of thirty of the most accomplished musicians in the city, under the leadership of Charles Alpers, with Gustave Heinrichs as conductor, Messrs. Hue de Paris, Harvey, Wormell and Caspari, distinguished soloists on cornets and clarionets, recently arrived, will make their first appearance in this concert.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

John McCullough and Sothern left this morning on the train for the East. Mr. McCullough goes to fulfill his engagement at Booth's Theatre, New York, opening August 10th in Boucicault's new play written especially for him—to which allusion is made elsewhere. He will subsequently fulfill engagements in Cleveland, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and New Orleans, and then make a flying trip here before proceeding to London, to play his engagement there. Sothern goes directly to London where he will open in September, having abandoned his Australian trip.

The work of constructing the spectaterium on the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, for Montgomery Queen's great show is progressing rapidly. Mr. Quackenbush, the contractor, has a small army of men at work under his directions and many persons, not posted, have mistaken it for the Mechanic's Fair building.

Get your seats for Billy Sweatnam's benefit to-morrow night. The box sheet is filling up fast. Billy is the best of good fellows, and the best of minstrels, and richly deserves the big benefit he will have.

Two benefits on Sunday. Aimee, Bassi and all the French artists will appear at Maguire's New Theatre for the benefit of the unfortunate French company, recently arrived from Lima, who lost their young prima donna, here, by the Panama fever, the day after their arrival. Senor Luque's Spanish Dramatic Company, and Prof. Speranza's pupils will give a dramatic performance and concert at the California Theatre for the benefit of the Italian Musical Institute. Both programmes in full can be found on our first page.

Mr. S. W. Piercy, the popular California actor, takes his farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, to-morrow night, playing "Hamlet" for the occasion, when Miss Jeffreys Lewis will make her first appearance here in a Shakespearian character as Ophelia. Mr. Piercy is a rising young actor has hosts of friends, and the benefit promises to be a good one.

KISSING.

"Are kisses spirits, mother?"
Little Walter asks,
Raising great dark earnest eyes,
To others, blue as summer skies,
That brighten for her eager boy,
Through her life of hope and joy,
And tender woman tasks.

Fearless, little questioner,
What knows he of kisses?
Save caresses soft and sweet,
Each fresh hour of life to greet;
Blessing kiss of sire and mother,
Clasp of sister, hug of brother;
Thanks for baby blisses.

Happy cherished darling,
He nor knows nor cares;
Of passionate lips that press in vain,
On those that cannot give again,
Of wild despairing kisses pressed
On damp sods where our idols rest;
'Mid sad unanswered prayers.

Can true-hearted childhood
Guess such things can be,
As kiss 'tween secret foe and foe,
As hands that clasp o'er gulfs below,
As kisses with no loving leaven,
Coldly taken, idly given,
In custom courtesy?

Can frank-hearted childhood
Dream that kindred lips,
Lips that have met a thousand times,
Warm and true as poets' rhymes,
May for each other learn to frame
Scorn or hatred, mock or blame,
Love's unwarned eclipse.

Dim not childhood's golden faith,
With such lore as this is;
Let him trust the gladness round,
Trust the love as birthright found;
Soon, too soon, the world will teach,
Stings may lurk in honeyed speech,
Treason hide in kisses.

Not an Intimate Acquaintance.

The day following that on which Blaine lost his temper in the House an Illinois Congressman said to him: "Mr. Blaine, I am not very familiar with you, and so I cannot speak as freely as I would to an old friend. But I feel I ought to tell you that you made a —— fool of yourself yesterday." Blaine answered, with a sigh, "I am afraid I did forget myself." Then, breaking into a chuckle, he added: "What kind of language do you use when reproving a man with whom you consider yourself thoroughly intimate?"

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 5-t

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 5-v

The Secret of Success.

Max Adeler says: This is not in the highest sense of the word a free country. Sardanapalus Coffin, down our way, was rejected some months ago by a young woman whom he loved; Sarah Walsingham, I think her name was; and he determined to commit suicide. So one evening he bought a pound of strychnine and swallowed it. It was hardly inside of him when some of his relations came along with a stomach pump and bailed him out. He was depressed about it, but he determined to succeed, and on the following morning he drank a pint of laudanum. At the moment when the last drop was gurgling in his throat, his relations kicked in the panel of the door, manned the stomach pump, and up came the poison. Any other man would have been disheartened, but Coffin, getting a tincupful of Croton oil, locked himself in the garret, and drained the beaker dry. He was just about to arrange his last words, when he heard a noise on the roof and upon looking up he perceived the trap door open, and in a moment those assiduous relatives were scuttling down the steps and carrying that familiar old stomach pump. It had a new sucker in it, and it was used with such earnestness that Coffin felt his toes draw in. The situation then was absolutely pathetic and a less conscientious man would have abandoned the undertaking and come back cheerfully to life and hope and happiness and beef and potatoes. But Coffin having purchased a shovelful of Paris green, clothed himself in submarine armor and dove down to the bottom of the river two miles from shore. When he felt himself safe he swallowed the deadly stuff and again began to think up something good to say as he expired. Just as he had decided on some suitable language, he glanced at one side, there were those importunate relations of his coming down at him in a diving bell with that disgraceful stomach-pump all ready for action. They explored the interior of him and emptied him as usual. As they came to the surface and swam ashore, Coffin said this was too much; they had gone too far. He inquired if it wasn't his stomach; and he asked if such was the case, if the Constitution of the United States and the laws of Delaware author zed any man to pump the stomach perpetually when he didn't want to have it pumped? He felt that the heroes of the revolution died in vain if a man's rational machine into his insides without permission. That night Coffin stuffed the pump with fulminating powder and in the morning he took a dose of arsenic. Along came the inevitable relations as usual, and they begun to pump him; but at the very first down-stroke the concern exploded and blew Coffin into vulgar fractions. The story teaches important lessons to the young; it teaches that the secret of success is persistent effort. No stomach-pump can baffle a man with a resolute will and plenty of poison.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters Raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

JOE GINESTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Ginesta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

"Up in a Balloon" etc.

Balloons and Fourth of Julys will probably be inseperable hereafter. Numerous ascensions were made on that patriotic day in the East, and several of them quite eclipsed in extent of voyage, Mons. Buisley's late trip to the crest of the Sierra Nevada. One aeronaut made the ascension from Buffalo, late in the afternoon of the Fourth, with two reporters for ballast. Away he floated over Southwestern New York, and in the night over nearly the whole length of Pennsylvania. In the morning Maryland, Chesapeake Bay and Delaware were passed over, with Wilmington well to the Northward, then New Jersey, the blessed, was sighted and passed over, the balloon sweeping steadily seaward until its coast line of breakers and its peaceful inhabitants eating clams thereon were plainly visible. When the aeronaut determined to make the descent, wisely concluding that New Jersey, under such peculiar circumstances, was better than the Atlantic to drop in. The descent was safely made, and without throwing over board the ballast, at half-past nine in the Southwestern portion of that State, near the coast line, over 400 miles in an air line distance from the place of starting. The balloon passed over portions of five States in its voyage. The two reporters were last heard from somewhere in the interior of Pennsylvania. They were dead broke; tramping wearily on in a Northwestern direction towards Buffalo, trying in vain to run their faces for the necessities of life in the road side whisky mills. The Buffalo Bohemian Club was debating the policy of sending out a relief committee with demijohns to their assistance, as a humanitarian measure. This the saddest part of the story. It should serve as a warning to our young and ambitious locals, who are so fond of going up in a balloon. But, when we consider it is their only chance to rise in the world we are not surprised at the risks they take. Ambition will find its opportunity.

A Model Guardian of the Peace.

Policeman Shaw was placed upon trial on the charge of robbing a drunken man in the street of $2000, and the evidence against him was sufficient to have him held to bail for trial. Another shining light of the force, named Osborn, was placed upon the stand, and, in reply to certain questions asked said:

Shaw told me there was some drunken man on his post accused him of stealing $2,000 from him. I said if any man would say that to me I would first stave his head and then lock him up.

Counsel.—Would you do that?

Officer Osborn (closing his teeth firmly together)—Yes sir, and quick, too.

Counsel—You mean to say that you would batter his brains out and carry the balance of his frame to the station-house?

Officer Osborn—Yes, I would.

Pay your debts as soon as you get the money in your pocket. Go without what you don't need. Speak your mind when necessary. Hold your tongue when prudent. Speak to a friend in a seedy coat. If you can't lend a friend money, tell him why. If you don't want to, do the same. Cut acquaintances who lack principle. Bear with infirmities, but not vice. Respect honesty, despise duplicity. Wear your old clothes till you can pay for new ones. Aim at comfort and propriety, not fashion. Acknowledge your ignorance, and don't pretend to knowledge you haven't got. Entertain your friends, but never beyond your means.

Was it Sutro!

An intolerable bore, having talked a friend nearly out of his senses, finally struck out on the "oyster," which he called "one of the most remarkable specimens of creative wisdom extant;" when his friend interrupted him, and "closed the debate," with the exclamation, "The oyster! Ah, yes, the oyster is a glorious fellow; he always knows when to shut up!"

Bound to Gamble.

A lake steamer was being repaired and repainted near one of the wharves of a Western city. A single narrow plank served for communicating with the shore. A large quantity of white lead was provided for the painters, and one night, before going ashore, two of them, whom we shall call Smith and Jones, thought they would appropriate some of it to their own use. So they tied a strong twine around their overalls at the ankle, and filled in the space between their trowsers and overalls with forty pounds, more or less, of white lead. Going ashore in the dusk of the evening, and walking clumsily in consequence of the unusual heavy loading, Jones stumbled overboard into the lake. Of course he sunk like a millstone. The alarm was given, and immediately there were boats got out, and every preparation made for the rescue. Meantime Smith stood on the shore loudly bewailing—

"Oh, dear, dear! Jones is drowned! His poor wife and five little ones—what will become of them? And Jones is dead! Oh, dear, dear!"

"What are you blubbering about?" said a bystander. "Don't you see they are getting ready to haul him out? He's got to rise three times, you know."

"Wh—what's that you say?" said Smith.

"I tell you Jones ain't drowned—he'll be rescued. He's got to come up three times."

"Got to come up three times!" repeated Smith, pulling out his money, and changing his whining tone to one of excited interest. "Bet you the stamps he don't come up once!"

W. H. AIKEN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in California and Nevada, gives prompt attention to the collection of Additional Travel Pay, now due California and Nevada Volunteers discharged more than three hundred miles from home. Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply, and state company and reg ment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty under Act of July 28, 1866, to January 1875, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 22d, 1861, for three years, if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to surviving veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. H. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Lotta is drawing crowded houses in "Little Nell and the Marchioness." The first matinee performance will take place to-morrow and there will of course be an immense attendance. Monday evening next "The Little Detective" will be produced with Lotta in six different characters. Mr. T. W. Keene will make his debut before a California audience on this occasion.

Opera House.

Sam Rickey, Master Barney, Miss Lulu Delmay, Ben Cotton, Billy Arlington, Bobby Newcomb, will appear to-night, when Billy Sweatnam will take his farewell benefit. In addition to these favorite performers, a number of volunteers will appear. In the first part Wm. Horace Bent, will appear as end man, with Billy Sweatnam. A feature of the performance will be "The Hod Carriers, Grand March," written by John Guiren, music by Billy Welch, and performed by Little Mac, Welch, Rice, Knight and Reed. Messrs. Murphy and Mack will appear in the double song and dance "Rebecca Jane," and Messrs. Harrington and McGlone in their song and dance of "Daisey." The full programme is published in another column. A splendid matinee performance will be given to-morrow.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night Mr. S. W. Piercy, the popular young actor, who is almost native here and to the manner born, having grown up among us, is to have his farewell benefit at this theatre. It is not long since Mr. Piercy took his first benefit at the California Theatre as Iago. To-night he will take his farewell of the California stage as Hamlet, as he proceeds East to fulfill an engagement in leading business. Miss Jeffreys Lewis will play Ophelia, Mr. W. Coggswell, the Ghost, and the play will be otherwise strongly cast. Mr Piercy is very popular, and the theatre will probably be filled with his admirers this evening. To-morrow Halliday's great play of "Notre Dame" will be produced, in which Mr. Charles Wheatleigh will appear once more before that public who appreciate him so well.

Bella Union Theatre.

Jas A. Herne who has been so successful at this house in his impersonations of Capt. Cuttle and Solon Shingle will appear this evening in the latter character. Mr. Herne is ably supported by Col. Mandeville, Miss Fanny Hocker, Miss Lena Proctor and others. The usual brilliant first part performance will be given, and with an attractive olio of songs, acts and dances, will make up a very enjoyable entertainment.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The company at this house at present is a very strong one. A programme is presented in which Johnny Toers, John Kelly, Edward Barry and many others whose names are published on our first page appear to excellent advantage. A new burlesque is underlined.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Sunday, the grand balloon race between Prof. Martin, a conaut, who has been making ascentions at Sacramento, in his balloon, "International," and Mons. Baisley in his balloon "Empyrean," will come off at these gardens. The balloons will be cut loose at the same moment, and the rest will be left to chance. A grand performance will be given by Anton Leon, John Wilder and others, in the Pavilion previous to the balloon race. The whole town will be at Woodwards, on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—The first of a series of popular concerts at the City Gardens will take place Sunday, July 26th, commencing at one o'clock. The orchestra will consist of thirty of the most accomplished musicians in the city, under the leadership of Charles Alpers, with Gustave Heinrichs as conductor, Messrs. Hue de Paris, Harrar, Wenzall and Caspari, distinguished soloists on cornets and clarionets, recently arrived, will make their first appearance in this concert.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Last night's overland train brought the "Ali Ben Abdallah Arab Troupe," who have recently played successful engagements in the Boston theatre, and in Niblo's and the Grand Opera House, New York. This is a genuine Arab troupe, straight featured and dark haired. They excel in the gymnastic and acrobatic business and are noted for their peculiar feats therein, and the wonderful pyramids they form. They will appear shortly at one of our places of amusement.

Mlle. Marie Aimee, the popular prima donna and charming actress, will make her last appearance in this city, at the California Theatre, on Sunday, August 2d, when a grand complimentary benefit will be tendered to her; on which occasion "Le Sermant d'Horace," "Un Mari a la Porte," and "La Rose de St. Flour" will be presented.

Two benefits on Sunday. Aimes, Biocci and all the French artists will appear at Maguire's New Theatre for the benefit of the unfortunate French company, recently arrived from Lima, who lost their young prima donna, here, by the Panama fever, the day after their arrival. Senor Lucas's Spanish Dramatic Company, and Prof. Sperazza's pupils will give a dramatic performance and concert at the California Theatre for the benefit of the Italian Musical Institute. Both programmes in full can be found on our first page.

The work of constructing the spectatorium on the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, for Montgomery Queen's great show is progressing rapidly. Mr. Quackenbush, the contractor, has a small army of men at work under his directions, and many persons, not posted, have mistaken it for the Mechanic's Fair building.

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Batoun & Stouds, No. 618 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

TO SLEEP.

Yea, come, for I am weary, and would feel
Thy breath of balm upon my fever'd brow;
Soft to my couch thy weary footsteps stray,
Oh, gentle soother! thou art welcome now.

How quietly thou glidest from thy bower
Of silken poppies, in the shadowy vale,
Where Lethe's waters press the silent shore,
And drooping plants their dreamy breath exhale!

Now lay thy velvet hand upon mine eyes,
Shut out the world and calm the throbbing brain;
Then from the twilight land of mysteries;
I pray thee, beckon thine enchanted train.

Shadows of gentle memories, dress'd by thee
In radiant issue of immortal light;
And yet with semblance of reality,
And all familiar to my mental sight.

All forms of Love, and Truth, and holy Hope,
That laid their short-lived offerings on my heart,
When I believed that flowers would never droop,
And braided roses never fall apart.

Oh, simple faith of girlhood! Purer far
Than the cold worship of the world-wise heart,
Which desolate, and seam'd with many a scar,
Conceals its anguish with a veil of art.

A Warning.

Don't use a hard pencil. At least that is the advice an Evansville, Indiana, benedict gives his friends. He explains thus: His wife desired him to write a note to a lady, inviting her to meet a party of friends at their house. After "Hubby" had done as his wife desired, and started to post the note, she saw on another paper an impression of what he had written. It was: "Sweet Mattie, Ellie desires your company on Wednesday to meet the Smithets. Don't fail to come, and then, my darling, I shall have the happiness of a long walk home with you and a sweet good night kiss. I dare not see you often, or my all-consuming love would betray us both. But Mattie, dear, don't fail to come." The wife paid "Sweet Mattie" a visit, and the result was that Mattie didn't accept the kind invitation.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at "Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name.
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-r

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Montgomery Queen's great circus and menagerie exhibited here on Thursday and Friday in the afternoon and evening. The Union says. The menagerie forms quite a good show in itself, but scarcely had justice done it in the anxiety of patrons to secure good seats for the arenic exhibition. At the head of the troupe is Mollie Brown, the juvenile horsewoman, who in her entire act last evening—plain riding, jumping over banners, through balloons and tarring somersaults—never made a failure, and received enthusiastic applause. Feranti, the contortionist, is a wonder of suppleness. Miss Ellsler, the tight-rope performer, a "star," and Leopold and Gerald ne, who perform on the trapeze, graceful and daring in the extreme. Nat Austin, the leading clown, an old California favorite, who amused the public on the Pacific Coast about fifteen years ago. The other members of the troupe are good in their respective lines. One of the gymnasts, while performing on the horizontal bar last evening, fell, and suffered such a shock that he fainted after being assisted from the ring. It was ascertained, however, that his injuries were confined to a bruise on his head and a sprain of his right hand.

VIRGINIA CITY.—The dramatic season at Piper's Opera House will commence on August 3d. A. L. Bawtelle, W. G. Crosby, Robert Lindsay, W. G. Coggswell, Mr. Paine and Miss Adams (from the Salt Lake Theatre) are spoken of as members of the new company.

DENVER, COL.—The theatre has closed, the lessee G. Kennedy, leaving the city suddenly. The Cricket Varieties has closed for the season. John Wilson's circus showed to over $2 400 on the 17th.

CHEYENNE.—The new attractions for the 20th at McDaniel's Theatre were the following first appearances: Hallie Norcross, serio comic singer, Miss Flora Bell and Miss Pauline Parker.

PORTLAND.—The Oregonian of the 20th says:—"War to the Knife," a society comedy was produced at Ore Fine Theatre, on Saturday afternoon at matinee, and also in the evening. A fair audience was present on both occasions. The brief theatrical season inaugurated but a few weeks ago has come to a close. Mrs. Phelps will start this morning for Victoria via the Sound. The company will appear this evening at Kalama, to-morrow evening at Astoria, and at Olympia on Saturday. After a short season at Victoria the company will return to Portland in time for the Legislature and Fair.

VICTORIA, V. I.—Madame Anna Bishop gave concerts on the 16th and 17th. The Colonist speaks highly of the entertainments, and is complimentary to Mrs. Marriner. It says: "Mrs. Marriner came next with the song, 'Love may come to-morrow,' by Berg. This lady gives evidence of the possession of musical talent of a high order, which, added to the attraction of youth and a tall and graceful figure, rendered the performance one of the pleasantest ever enjoyed. Her voice is a clear beautiful soprano. Her trills are fluent, ringing and brilliant; and although her manner showed a slight nervousness, the slightest tremor in her exquisite voice was not perceptible. When rapturously encored, Mrs. Marriner sang the 'Light of other days' in a manner that drew forth another round of applause."

PUEBLO, COL. T.—John Wilson's circus performed here on the 20th.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny street's entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 8-1

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. J. S Clarke is now resting at his villa, at Boulogne, in France. He will visit the United States in August.

Tom Taylor's "Clancarty" seems to be the only new play that amounts to anything now on the London stage.

Mr. Chatterton will reopen Drury Lane Theatre, London, for the regular dramatic season, on August 29th, with a new play, on Scott's novel of "The Talisman."

Mr. Rowe, who has just left England for Switzerland, will furnish Mr. Buckstone with a new piece, with which to open the next season at the London Haymarket Theatre.

W. J. Florence, the comedian, is at Ems, in Germany. He has been promised a new comedy by Mr. Alberry, of London.

Joe Emmet is playing "Fritz," at Brighton, England.

Alexander Dumas refuses to permit the managers of Berlin to produce his latest plays. The French term this "an act of patriotism."

Sardou's heterogeneous mass of nonsense called "L'Oncle Sam," has been produced by a French company at the Princesses Theatre, London.

Antonelli Barili, a half-brother of Adelina and Carlotta Patti, tells his family history as follows: "My parents were show people. My father, Francesco Barili, was a celebrated composer of Rome. He married one of his pupils, who traveled a season in this country, and was popular here. They were members of an opera troupe. Well, in that troupe was a tenor named Patti. My father quit the troupe and took to drink. It finally broke him clear down and he died. My mother at once married Signor Patti. My two sisters Amalia and Carlotta were afterward born. My parents moved to Spain, and there Carlotta and Adelina were born. Adelina's native city is Madrid, not New York, as many suppose. Amalia was a well-known prima donna in this country, and married Strakosch. Carlos was a noted violinist of New Orleans and New York, and died not long ago. Carlotta and Adelina have a fame which is world-wide. Clotilde married Alfred Thorn. He was lost at sea a few years later, and she married Signor Scola, but died shortly after in the West Indies. Nicola and Ettore, my own two brothers, were educated early in life, and have made fine musicians. Nicola is now in New York, and Ettore in Philadelphia. In 1845 my mother was singing in Valencia, in Spain. Amalia was a young girl. She was kept very busy, and Amalia and myself were allowed to roam about much as we liked. One day, while we were strolling the crooked streets, who should arrive but a tattered young musician in want of aid. He claimed to have talents, but no opportunities. A benefit concert was proposed. He wanted Amalia to sing, and mother granted his request. The tattered young maestro was Maurice Strakosch, and so he came in our family.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

OPERA HOUSE.—That universal favorite Billy Sweatnam had an overflowing house last night on the occasion of his farewell benefit at this house. Long before the curtain rose there was no standing room, and the vestibule of the theatre was thronged. The performance fully realized the most sanguine expectations of all who came expecting something extraordinary. We have not space to particularize; it will suffice to say that all the acts promised were performed in admirable style, and the volunteers acquitted themselves capitally. At the matinee to-day, the evening and to-morrow evening all the stars, Cotton, Arlington, Billy Sweatnam, Sam Rickey, Master Barney, Lulu Delmay, and others whose names appear on our first page will participate in the grand bill which has thronged this house from pit to dome every night this week.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—There was a gratifying attendance at this theatre last night when S. W. Piercy took his farewell benefit and appeared in the character of Hamlet. Mr. Piercy, though very young, and but a few years on the stage, presented a careful, able and consistent representation of the character, reminding us in many points, of Mr. Lawrence Barrett. He was called out at the end of each act. Mr. Piercy is engaged for leading business at the Academy of Music, Chicago, for the coming season, and gives great promise in his profession. Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Ophelia, was perfectly charming, she read and acted the part throughout in a manner which defied criticism. Edward Arnott gave a fine manly representation of Laertes, W. G. Coggswell was very impressive as the Ghost. Charles Edmonds was good as the King, and E. B Marden gave a conscientious delineation of the character of Polonius. Of the excellent manner in which Miss Mary Wells plays the Queen in this piece we have before spoken. It can scarcely be surpassed on the stage to-day. George Gridden as the first Grave Digger, and E. Lipsis as the second Grave Digger, played their respective parts well, and Miss Carrie Lipsis made a sprightly and pleasing Ophelia. To-night Halliday's great play of "Notre Dame," will be presented at this house, for the first time in California, and Mr. Charles Wheatleigh, one of the best actors who ever trod the boards in San Francisco, will make his re-appearance, after an absence of some years, in the character of Quasimodo. No money has been spared in the production of this play, and that it will have a great run, is beyond a peradventure. New scenery has been painted and all the resources of the theatre have been drawn upon to their utmost extent, to make "Notre Dame" a grand success. The full cast of the play which comprises that most charming of actresses Miss Jeffreys Lewis (whom the public of San Francisco have not yet learned to appreciate), as Esmeralda, appears on our first page.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Lotta is all the rage in San Francisco at the present time. There are few impersonations in which she appears to better advantage than in those of "Little Nell and the Marchioness." In these she will appear at the matinee to-day, and the performance this evening for the last times. Next week there will be a change of bill. On Monday "The Little Detective" will be produced, and in this play Mr. T. W. Keene, a new member of the California Theatre company will make his first appearance. Every night during the present week the California Theatre has been crowded, and to-night standing room will be scarce.

ITALIAN MUSICAL INSTITUTE BENEFIT.—On Sunday evening a very attractive performance will be given at the California Theatre for the benefit of the Italian Musical Institute, which under the management of Prof. D. Speranza, has done so much towards establishing a school for the encouragement of musical art in this city. On this occasion, Senor A Luque and his Spanish Dramatic Troupe have kindly volunteered, and will appear in the drama of "Don Giovanni Tenorio" and the popular Spanish dance "La Madrileña." In addition to these attractions a grand concert will be given by pupils of the Institute the full programme of which appears on our first page.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—BALLOON RACE.—To-morrow, the grand balloon race between Prof. Martin, monast, who has been making ascensions at Sacramento, in his balloon, "International," and Mons. Baisley in his balloon "Empress," will come off at these gardens. The balloons will be cut loose at the same moment, and the rest will be left to chance. A grand performance will be given by Anton Leon, John Wilder and others, in the Pavilion previous to the balloon race. The whole town will be at Woodwards, on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—The first of a series of popular concerts at the City Gardens will take place Sunday, July 26th, commencing at one o'clock. The orchestra will consist of thirty of the most accomplished musicians in the city, under the leadership of Charles Alpers, with Gustave Heinrichs as conductor, Messrs. Rudolphi Paris, Harvey, Werzell and Caspari, distinguished soloists on cornets and clarionets, recently arrived, will make their first appearance in this concert.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenbeck, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice. Omnibuses will leave on SUNDAYS, at 9 o'clock A. M., from the corner of Market and Kearny streets, and every hour afterward, until 4 o'clock, from the corner of McAllister and Fillmore streets connecting with the Market Street and Haight Valley cars, and from the corner of Park and Fillmore streets by the way of City Front and Lone Mountain cars.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The Steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 9 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.—To-morrow night a performance will be given at Maguire's New Theatre by Mlle Marie Aimee, Signor Pietro Bacci and others for the benefit of the French artists recently arrived from Lima, Peru. The performance will commence with "Un Mari Dans du Coton," in which Mlle. Aimee will appear as Ossarine, and Deschamps as H. Chabler. After this there will be a musical interlude in which M. Chantal, Signor Marra, Mr. Bonvet, Mr. Bonquet, Mlle. Fraszi and Signor Bacci will take part. The evening's entertainment will terminate with Offenbach's sparkling operetta entitled "Litschen and Fritschen," performed by Mlle. Aimee and M. Deschamps. We trust these artists will receive generous encouragement from the public in their effort to assist fellow artists in distress.

NEW BELLA UNION THEATRE.—To-night and to-morrow night the great bill which has proved such a success during the week will be performed. It comprises the play of "The People's Lawyer," with the sterling comedian James A. Herne in his inimitable impersonation of Solon Shingle, a lively First Part with Cal. Mandeville and Matt Kelly on the ends, Miss Jennie Johnson, Matt Kelly, and Tommy Rose in the lively act of "The Double Bedded Room," and other performances specified on our first page.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—There is no end to the fun at this place of amusement. Johnny Tuers, John Kelly, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price and others whose names appear on our first page, keep the fun alive from the time the curtain rises until the audience is dismissed. The bill for to-night and to-morrow night appears on our first page.

NOTES.—Montgomery Queen's great show, menagerie and circus, will open for the season in this city on Tuesday evening next, on the one hundred vara lot on the northwest corner of Mission and Seventh streets, within a block of all the principal street railroads. The circus company comprises Little Mollie Brown, one of the most famous stars of the profession, who stands alone in her specialty of throwing somersaults on a horse at full speed, Leopold and Geraldine the famous gymnasts, Madame Tournair the great rider, Mlle. Jeanette Kiesler the graceful and daring tight-rope artiste, Frank Barry the world-renowned bareback rider, Signor Ferranji, one of the most wonderful contortionists living, Thomas Clifford the skilful acrobat, the Belmont Brothers gymnasts, Nat Austin, the popular California clown, who returns after an absence of many years and Billy Burke, humorist and grotesque and trick clown. The menagerie contains Lillah Rook the largest elephant ever exhibited here, a full grown African elan, a genuine zebra, a huge Bengal tiger, an immense African lion, a double humped Bactrian camel, and a large number of rare birds, beasts and amphibious animals.

Miss Kate Raymond and Mr. O. B. Collins have arrived in this city under engagement to that indomitable manager Sam Tetlow, of the Bella Union Theatre, and will appear on Monday evening in the drama entitled "The Waifs of New York" which was written especially for Miss Kate Raymond.

Billy Rice, one of the jolliest of the Eastern Ethiopian comedians, will make his appearance at the Opera House on Monday night.

On Tuesday of next week Miss Helen La Dite-Potter, will give a series of readings and personations at Pacific Hall. The programme will comprise readings in the negro dialect, in Scotch, and in Yankee dialect, readings from Shakspeare, a la Mrs. Scott Siddons, and imitations of Anna Dickinson, Olive Logan and John B. Gough. Miss Helen La Dite-Potter has received high praise from the Eastern press for her entertainment which is characterized as highly original, and will doubtless be appreciated in San Francisco.

John Piper, the Virginia City manager has engaged the Metropolitan Theatre, Sacramento, for the Fair week, commencing September 21st, and also for one week in November. With the exception of these dates the theatre can be secured by companies. The advertisement of the proprietor J. K. Morrow, appears in another column.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York little was doing in theatricals most of the houses being closed. Charles Gayler opened the Union Square theatre, on the 3d, with his new play entitled "With The Tide," as the attraction, Miss Kate Mayhew playing the leading role.....At Niblo's Garden a spectacular drama called "Faustus," was produced on the 13th .....The New York Mercury gives the following account of the arrangements made for the regular season which is to commence shortly at most of the theatres: Union Square theatre will open on September 14 h, with Clara Morris as the heroine of the "Sphinx." Jarrett and Palmer are exceedingly active at Booth's, arranging for the commencement of the Fall season, August 10th, with a new Boucicaultian play written expressly for the opening, which will introduce Mr. John McCullough as the stellar feature. The Lyceum, under the new manager, Mr. Maurice Grau, will begin a fresh career August 24th, with the Aimee French Opera Bouffe troupe, followed by Miss Adelaide Neilson, the Emily Soldene English Opera Bouffe from London, and Madame Ristori. The Academy of Music is undergoing extensive alterations, both on the stage and in the auditorium. All the old stone roofed and worn out scenery will be replaced by handsome sets expressly painted for "William Tell," "Don Carlos," "Le Prophete," and "Rienzi" besides an entirely new stock suitable for the customary operatic repertoire. Max Strakosch will begin the season September 28th, with a new company. Steinway Hall has also yielded to the paint brush and hammer, and with the aid of the decorator's art, will present a very beautiful appearance. Niblo's Garden will continue in its present course of frequent spectacular changes of bills. Wood's Museum, although open all the year round, will begin the regular dramatic season September 1. The Bowery theatre, under the popular management of William Freligh, will also date the beginning of the Fall campaign from September 1. The Olympic, now undergoing several material alterations, will commence its second variety year with Tony Pastor's famous company Aug. 24. At the Comique the sound of hammer and saw of industrious workmen proclaim that Josh Hart is alive to the increased demands of his patrons, whom he has invited to a grand specialty inaugural August 3d. The great Tony will formally introduce his followers to his Bowery Opera House September 7. The Metropolitan on Broadway, and Fox's Broadway theatre, are two amusement enigmas which Manager S. W. Butler is trying to solve. The future of the Park is also shrouded in mystery and litigation. Dan Bryant's Opera House and the new San Francisco Minstrel hall will compete for public patronage. Deadwood Dick closes August 15, and the San Francisco following September 1. The fate of the Grand Opera House trembles in the balance between Fillmore's music and Daily's comedies, although a stock company has been formed to convert the edifice into a handsome music hall and ball room, the matter has not yet assumed definite shape. Both the Colosseum and Barnum's Roman Hippodrome are making tremendous efforts to procure attractive novelties for the coming amusement year, which promises to be exceedingly brilliant in the matter of indoor entertainments. In addition to those mentioned, there will be quite a number of small variety halls to swell the list of Winter amusement attractions, which will foot up a total of twenty-four, with a aggregate seating capacity of over 31,000 persons.

Commenting on the assertion that Mlle. Croix ette, in the "Sphinx," really does poison herself in the last act, and takes an antidote afterward, he of the Milwaukee hostelrie makes a generous offer in the legitimate drama. He says that if none of the "stars" who visit Milwaukee will try Mlle. Croizette's plan he will endeavor "to see that the boy who holds the antidote is dropped out of the back window with his rescuing compound." Milwaukee is rather inclined to longer than the legitimate.

Wallack's theatre is to be provided with a new stage, and other improvements, during the Summer recess.

"Mont Blanc" has been copyrighted in this country by Mr. Lester Wallack, as joint author with Mr. Henry Mahew of London. The piece is an adaptation from the French.

There is a rumor that Mr. Lester Wallack will have control of the Park theatre, next Winter, with Theodore Moss as right bower.

It is authoritatively stated that Mr. Charles R Thorne, Jr. will not be a member of the Union Square theatre, New York, next season.

John T. Raymond, it is stated, will act at the Union Square theatre, early in August.

Ristori will occasionally play in English during her engagement in this country next Winter.

The sub-title of Celia Logan's new play is "The Deserted House." Rather ominous for managers.

Barry Sullivan is under engagement to Messrs. Jarrett and Palmer for next year's Fall season at Booth's theatre.

Miss Katherine Rogers will commence a brief engagement in Montreal on August 10th.

John Brougham will appear at the Brooklyn Park theatre on September 21st.

Frank Chanfrau's generous reputation is a productive source of income to Uncle Sam. He receives each week, it is said, from five to ten eleemosynary appeals from clergymen, decayed fifers, soldiers' orphans, eloquent impostors, and ruined politicians for pecuniary aid. The demands upon Frank's time and means are becoming so frequent and oppressive that he is debating the advisability of purchasing the Grand Opera House, and converting it into a private asylum for the would-be pensioners.

De Mille's "American Baron" forms the basis of a new drama, written by C. W. Taylsure for F. S. Chanfrau.

Miss Adelaide Neilson will produce "Ethe," a new play by Mortimer, of London, during her approaching term at the Lyceum in New York.

Rose Wood and Lewis Morrison will be the stellar cards of Sherry's New York Theatre Combination next season.

The New York Mercury says: Lingrishe and Gleen's new "Black Crook" company, recently organized for the large cities on the Pacific slope and the Territories, will appear shortly at San Francisco and Sacramento. The dramatic company, specialties, scenery, properties, costumes, and effects are advertised as the finest ever presented under one management.

One of Barnum's subordinates visited Barnum's Hippodrome the other day, and finding the rhinoceros without water to swim in, ordered the showman to provide a tank of proper dimensions forthwith. It was explained to him that the rhinoceros was not an amphibious animal, and could not be induced to swim unless shoved in. But Mr. Bergh's officer, who was not a naturalist, would listen to nobody, and gave the management warning that if they did not construct a tank they must take the consequences.

The Davenport Brothers have relinquished giving their spiritual tricks for many weeks. Their recent business manager, Stark Morrissey, left them in New Orleans, where they were badly in his debt, and they made an engagement with Rodolphe, the French billiard champion, to exhibit them in Havana. On reaching there Rodolphe won $5,000 at draw poker and dashed off to France, leaving the Davenports dollarless.

Mrs. McFarland-Richardson has not been heard of as a lecturer for some months. Her marriage with a Chicago man is reported as announced for next September. Nobody hears anything now-a-days of her first husband.

Wong Chung Foo, the Chinese lecturer, is in Rochester, under care of a physician. He has a severe attack of brain fever. He will go to England in September, to fill engagements.

New York Theatricals.

The following from Wilkes' Spirit, of New York, shows how theatricals stand in that city at present. It says:

"At Niblo's Garden, a very amusing attempt to produce a play alleged to have been founded upon Scott's romance of 'Ivanhoe,' was made at this theatre some evenings ago. It signally fails to present any feature of the story, and if it was not for the fun created, would be very wearisome. The management are evidently determined to show the public how badly a bad play can be presented. The serious portions of this play make mirth, and the mirthful portions almost draw tears. It is in every way unworthy of patronage and criticism. A play called 'Faustus' will be produced on Monday evening next. It is to be hoped that it will be no worse than its feeble predecessors.

At Wood's Museum, Mr. J. P. Kilbourne, an actor of sensational plays, has appeared during the week, in 'The Swamp Angels' in the evening, and in 'Daring Dick, the Detective,' at the daily matinees. Mr. Kilbourne is an actor of some merit, and was fairly supported by the company at this theatre.

Volunteer Gun Practice.

A good story is told of the manner in which the English volunteer artillery practice with an Armstrong gun by the London Figaro: Having set upon Rye Beacon a target a little larger than a man, they stationed about twenty yards away from it in a lateral direction one of their number known as Big Bob, to warn away the shrimpers. The first few shots flew wide of their mark, some of them so ferociously near to Bob that he got nervous and was about to go away from there, when suddenly spang! went a big ball through the center of the target. "I'm all right now," said Robert, calmly feeling for his pipe! "they've laid on another gunner, and the fool is firing at me. I'll have a good smoke."

The Sultan of Turkey.

A contemporary says: "In the Congress of Nations in the Hippodrome on the 8th, one of the Sultan's favorite horses, familiarly know as Biddah Mahloosh, the Tubeross of Kildah, was thrown from the dromedary on which she was gracefully gyrating. The dromedary turned upon the troops and threw them into confusion. The Queen's Own were utterly demoralized, a French cuirassier was unhorsed, and Napoleon I was somewhat discomposed. The animal was at length secured, and no serious injury was done. The accident was wholly due to the carelessness of one of his Highness' Nubian slaves, who had failed properly, to secure the howdah. The Sultan, terribly enraged, exclaimed: "The dhirty dhivel! Bhow string him at-vanct!"

Bar Rooms in Boston.

The Boston Globe of a late date has the following: The Governor calls attention to the "absence here of flaunting and attractive bar-rooms that spread their snares to catch the thoughtless and easily tempted." Let the Governor take a walk up Washington street and notice the many showy cigar stores with "sample rooms" and "parlors" in the rear. If he does not know that these "sample rooms" and "parlors" are "attractive barooms," and that one of them boasts of having the handsomest bar this side of Chicago, our young men do know it.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-t

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by A. & L. Wangsman, at his sympoasium of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

Jos Giusta's Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-x

Cruel and Unkind.

We prefer to believe that Mr. Pickering has not yet heard of the death of the "Sun" to thinking him capable of cruel behavior. The Sun died, as we are informed, last week, and its poor little body is still unburied. This is indecent. Now we have called the attention of Mr. Pickering to the fact, we trust that he will delay no longer paying the last rites to this paper which he has so cheerfully accorded to all others. Let him at once get out his little shovel and prepare a last resting place for the Sun in his graveyard of departed newspapers. The Sun was not a very aristocratic paper, but surely Mr. Pickering has some portion of his graveyard in which he can inter this poor departed pauper paper. We do not expect him to turn out in his carriage (unassessed,) drawn by Harry George's nightmares (unassessed,) but he can in a modest and unpretentious manner put the Sun underground. A dreadful rumor is prevalent that the Sun was the illegitimate offspring of Pickering and Fitch. If this be so, the cruelty of this heartless couple cannot be too severely reprobated. Let some sort of a funeral be got up. Charles and Mike would perhaps bury their resentment and act as pall bearers, while ginny old Grandmother Alta followed in a decent hack as chief mourner. Bunker might follow in a balloon, mournfully trapped with ostrich feathers and other insignia of woe. This poor little paper must be buried, and moreover it must find a place in Pickering's graveyard.

"Hell is so Full."

The following, which sufficiently explains itself, is from a Chicago correspondent: While several gentlemen were sitting in the bar room of one of our hotels, a few days ago, one of them, being a Chicago man, was, of course, boasting of the superiority of Chicago over any other spot in the world. Finally, he claimed that it was the healthiest city in the world (notwithstanding the large delegation of her citizens who are annually obliged to visit the Arkansas Hot Springs), and said that the "death rate" was smaller than that of any other city. At this point an individual, evidently from the country and evidently much intoxicated also, joined in the conversation, thusly: "W-well d-don't you know er-reason mo' folks don't die'n Ch(hic)icago?" The Chicago man said he it was because of the salubrity of the air. "N-no" responded the inebriated party shaking his head, with a very wise look: "er-reason mo" folks do die'n Chicago is, hell is so full n-no room for 'em!" There was a pause in the conversation, and somehow I thought just then of the old proverb, "In vino veritas"

Bret Harte.

Of Bret Harte's literary position George Alfred Townsend gives the following estimate: "He has, as a poet, a fearless observation, fine jesuitry in words, and the instinct of both aestheticism and truth. California lost and won her best literary mind in him; for he is a Californian still, despite himself, and the gentlest melancholy pervades his depictions in verse of that coast in its sordid yet generous life, fierce materialism, and civic pride. We are getting at the truth of all things, fragmentarily. He will be the great artist who can put all this together and reveal America, not in chips and specimens, but in the rough grandeur of her ubiquitous, heterogeneous transition from occupation to stability. Mr. Harte has feeling, delicacy, color, and a very rare constructiveness without breadth or continuity. His master is Dickens—a bad master for a deep, lasting literature."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-oj

Monkeys in Ladies' Ears.

The Continental Herald, of Geneva, contains this: There is one item of the present style of fashion which I must notice, writes a Paris correspondent, and that is the extraordinary mania that now exists of wearing ear-rings that represent animals and implements. Thus you see pending from a lady's ear, monkeys, guinea pigs, lizards, chandeliers with candles in them; bird cages filled with birds, tortoises, turtles, shovels, tongs, and who knows what. Gold stirrups on the ears are also very popular, and if the lady's husband be a soldier she wears his "sword and epaulettes" in her ears. This is not pretty, and no fashion can make it so. The French, who justly pride themselves on their taste, say that these eccentricities come from "over the seas." To you they will say that the Americans introduced them into Paris; to Americans, however, they say it was the English. It may be any one, in fact, but the French. For my own part, I can confidently aver that it was neither Americans or English who first wore such atrocities. The new styles of head-dress for ladies resembles a pig tail. It is an English innovation, and I remember having seen it two years ago, when on a flying visit to London. All the hair is tied at the top of the head, and then it is either turned loosely back or it is plaited, but in either case it falls on the neck, and the ends are tied together with a colored ribbon. Jet embroidery has become quite a furore. One sees women clad from head to foot in black, and yet so dazzling from the quantity of jet beads they carry, that one can scarcely look at them without winking.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

W. B. AIKEN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in California and Nevada, gives prompt attention to the collection of Additional Travel Pay, now due California and Nevada Volunteers discharged more than three hundred miles from home. Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply, and state company and regiment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty and for Act of July 28, 1866, to January 1876, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 22d, 1861, for three years, if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812, obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to surviving Veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money in new due and being paid. W. B. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Charles Wheatleigh opened his engagement at this house on Saturday evening, very successfully. Halliday's admirable dramatic version of Victor Hugo's great story of Notre Dame was splendidly performed throughout. Mr. Wheatleigh as the hunchback Quasimodo, did some capital acting. Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Esmeralda was delightfully natural, and in the love scenes with Captain Phœbus surpassed Miss Neilson in the character of Juliet, and looked quite as pretty. W. G. Cogswell as the sorely tempted priest of Plymouth Church—we mean Notre Dame—was very effective, Edward Arnott made a handsome Captain Phœbus, and played the part with much skill. John Howson made the most of the comic part of Pierre Gringoire, and George Giddens was very amusing as Clopin, King of the Gipseys. Miss Mary Wells as Gidule the recluse, acted wonderfully well. Altogether the play had full justice done it and should have a good run. New scenery has been painted, and the manner in which the piece is mounted reflects credit on the management. 'Notre Dame" will be played this evening and every evening until further notice and should crowd the house.

California Theatre.

To-night Lotta will enter on the second week of her engagement and will appear in six different characters in the drama of "The Little Detective." T. W. Keene, the new leading man will on this occasion make his appearance as Mr. Roderick Tracy, the Bow-street runner. W. Barry, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, Miss Ellie Wilton and Miss Carrie Wyatt, are also included in the cast.

Opera House.

There is no end to the attractions at this house. To-night Billy Rice, the famous ethiopean comedian, will make his first appearance, and will deliver an oration. Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington will appear on the ends in the First Part, Bobby Newcomb in song and dance "Darling Isabel" Sam Rickey, Con. T. Murphy and Master Barney in "Taking the Pledge," then "Abyssinian Dwarf," with Miss Lulu Delmay in her album of songs, appear, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with Billy Rice's original sketch entitled "The Lawyer's Clerk," in which he will appear as Little Tommy.

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night, Miss Kate Raymond, will make her first appearance in this city, at the Bella Union Theatre, in her great dramatic specialty entitled "The Waifs of New York." Miss Raymond will be supported by the popular melo-dramatic actor, O. B. Collins, Miss Jennie Johnson and others. The piece will be preceeded by a capital First Part and olio of songs acts and dances. The full programme is published on our first page.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Among the attractions for this evening, may be mentioned a double clog dance by Kelly and Price, ballads by Miss Ida May, baritone song by Edward Barry, and the act entitled "Sublime and Ridiculous," performed by Frank Mortimore, Ned Buckley and Johnny Price.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

The company and menagerie of the great show have arrived from Sacramento and are now on the ground. There will be a grand procession through the streets to-morrow morning, and in the evening the season will be formally inaugurated.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Morrell's San Francisco Minstrels report to FIGARO that they will play in Winnemucca to-night, have done excellent business so far, and will open in Silver City, Idaho, Tuesday, August 4th.

Los Angeles puts in a claim at present, as a rival to San Francisco as a show town. At the last advices the San Francisco circus, (the Thompson branch), and Joe Murphy and company, were showing every night, and Prof. Denton was giving lectures; all to crowded houses. Vivian is also announced and a $25,000 slander suit is about to commence Los Angeles is happy.

The entertainment given at Maguire's New Theatre last night, by Mlle. Aimee, Signor Bacci and others, for the benefit of the French company from Lima, was well attended and was a success in every way.

A very attractive performance was given at the California Theatre, by Senor A. Luque, and his dramatic company, for the benefit of Prof. D. Speranza's Musical Institute. A number of Prof. Speranza's pupils took part in the programme and acquitted themselves well.

Miss Helen La Dite Potter will give readings in costume at Pacific Hall, to-morrow evening and Wednesday evening. She will also give immitations of Miss Anna Dickenson, Olive Logan and John B. Gough.

Give the date of the acquisition by Russia of her Polar dominions, and trace the descent of the North and South Poles from John Sobieski, the great Polar patriot.

Is there any river grander than the Don, sweeter than the Oder, ruddier than the Rhone, more rational than the Seine, colder than the Isis? If so, name. Quote a passage from a poet illustrative of your belief that the arrows used in maps to mark the course of rivers are kept in the Guadalquivir.

Set forth the leading features of the Amazon which make it appropriate to apply its name to such a bold horsewoman as Di Vernon.

Was Beecher to Blame?

A New York reporter gives a description of Mrs. Theodore Tilton, as follows: I observed an exquisite portrait on canvas gracing the wall. Again and again my eyes fell upon it. Something peculiarly charming, and fascinating, and tender hung about it. Musingly I thought the artist himself a most imaginative genius and consummate creator, or, if an actual instead of fancy subject, his brush must have been inspired. A most symmetrical head, intellect and poetry predominating; a wealth of silken brown hair; soft and soulful eyes of richest hazel; a face of exquisite sweetness, and ripe with culture and character; a mouth carved by the gods, and lips full, warm and suggesting robustness of modest passion; a chin indicating a gentle firmness and abundant will, a shapely neck and graceful shoulders, and a finely developed bust—all harmony, all beauty, all the vigor and tenderness of young life and fascination. The witching eyes seemed to brighten when looked into; a smile so very sweet as to thrill me appeared upon that face when I involuntarily fixed my gaze upon it.

Stalls 39 and 40 are occupied by Kerlin & Hazard, dealers in fruit, vegetables, etc., of the best and freshest. Delivered free of charge.

Stall 3, makes a magnificent show of fresh meats. L Zimmerman & Co. have one of the nicest stalls in the market. Restaurants and families will find it to their advantage to give them a call.

Love & Spindel occupy stall 37, with a superior stock of butter, cheese, eggs, hams, cured fruits, etc. Orders promptly attended to.

Robert S. Reardon has removed from the Occidental Market to stall 70. He is noted for having the best quality of meats.

John D. Coughlin, stall 5, supplies meats in large quantities, in good style, to ships, hotels, boarding houses and families at the lowest market prices.

Stalls 74 and 75 are taken by the pioneer Poultry and Game dealers, Stidman & Strasser. The finest Poultry and Game, and the Freshest Butter and Eggs in the city. 7-N

BOSTON OYSTER HOUSE.—L. O. Pratt has opened stalls 89 and 90 in Centre Market. Oysters in every style. Chops and Steaks of the choicest. Ladies private rooms up stairs. 7-E

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the oldest oyster men in the city.

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnicent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This their only place of business.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,]
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."]

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Strande, No. 618 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you want a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6-m

Spring Style Hats.

Objections to English Opera.

The advocates of English opera are sometimes very sarcastic on the lovers of the Italian, and apply cutting adjectives to people who have the audacity to pretend they prefer an operatic performance in a language which is all Greek to them. But the precise truth is that with the latter, when they are in earnest in their love and not mere parroters of fashion, the music is more important as a means of expression than the words. Some people care more for pantomime than they do for spoken drama; children do, for example. According to the Delsarte system, which vainly endeavored to find favor in New York two or three season ago, every emotion of the soul is capable of expression by the mere contortion of the features. This is pressing an idea too far, no doubt; but there is no question whatever that all shades of feeling may be expressed by musical vocalism alone, without regard to words. It requires a long course of experience in listening to music of the highest order, with the insensible education of the ear which comes of that experience, to enable one to fully understand the wordless language of the gamut. All lovers of Italian opera who are ignorant of the Italian language are necessarily the possessor of a peculiar culture; and the lovers of English opera most innocently exhibit their own lack of musical culture in stickling for the words of an opera instead of relishing the music thereof for its own sake, and as being equal to words or even superior to them as means of expressing emotion.

A Boy Who Meant Well.

One of Boston's well-established physicians, who scarcely finds any rest day or night, had occasion recently, to engage an office boy. The boy was from the country, and evidently possessed an energetic disposition. In order to give information to his patients, the doctor recently had some cards printed, bearing his name, and stating his office hours, as many callers lost valuable time while waiting. These cards disappeared with wonderful rapidity, so much so that the doctor had his suspicions aroused that his new boy was using them in a clandestine manner.

"Jo," said the doctor, one morning, "what has become of those cards which I placed on the table in the outer office?"

"I took 'em," replied the boy, proudly.

"What have you done with them?" demanded the doctor.

"Well, my mother told me before I left home that I must make myself useful to my employer, so most every day, when I haven't anything else to do, I just throw them into the horse cars as they pass the corner."

The scene that followed cannot be described, but after tearing out two handsful of his own hair, the doctor took one grab at the red head of the enterprising lad, and nearly scalped him. Thus it was that the well-meant endeavors of the young man to promote the interests of his employer were rewarded.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, than
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

The War of Cats.

In the burlesque novel which Punch is now publishing, after the French of "Victor Nogo" (Victor Hugo!), the following remarks on cats appear in connection with the passage of the hero through the streets of London at night:

"Antoneroly muttered to himself 'Heigho!' and passed along the deserted streets.

"He seemed to be treading on the silent tombs of the nameless and the forgotten.

"He heard the march of cats through the darkness.

"They rushed to an attack with loud cries, springing up suddenly from every quarter—areas, roofs, balconies, lamp-posts, gutters, lanes, passages, courts, alleys and thoroughfares.

"They flew up the trees in the squares, and scurried madly round the crescents.

"All their habits were nocturnal.

"The feline rule always is to appear unexpectedly.

"How many tragic sights have been witnessed by the statues of the metropolis!

"At Antoneroly's footstep the cats fled, filling mews after mews with their unearthly cries.

"Quiet neighborhood—back street. These words sum up the whole of the Feline War.

"They live in purr-lieus.

"It is a quarrel of localities; of family against family; tabby against tortoise shell; pussy-cat against pussy-cat.

"All our attempts, our movements in legislation and in education, our encyclopædias, our philosophies, our genius, our glories, all fall before the Cats.

"Could its youth be trained?

"The Cat's cradle has ever been a puzzle.

"They love blind-alleys. Strange blindness!

"A collossal scuffle, a jangling of Tittume, an immeasurable rebellion. Without strategy, without plan, chivalric and savage, appearing like fantastic black shadows, tails of the past, the devastation of glass, the destruction of flower-pots in back yards, the ruin of squares, the terror of invalids—such is the sleepless warfare, the unreasoning effort of the Puss-cat.

"Antoneroly passed on among the vanishing shadows."

"Lost—to Society Lost."

My friends, has it ever occurred to you what a commentary upon our civilization are these lost women and the attitude of society toward them? A little child strays from the home enclosure, and the whole community is on the alert to find the wanderer, and restore it to its mother's arms. What rejoicings when it is found!—what tearful sympathy!—what heartiness of congratulations! There are no harsh comments on poor, tired feet, be they ever so miry, no reprimand for the soiled and torn garments, no lack of kisses for the tear-strained face. But let the child be grown to womanhood—let her be led from it by the scourge of want—what happens then? Do Christian men and women go in quest of her? Do they provide all possible help for her return; or, if she return of her own notion, do they receive her which such kindness and delicacy as to secure her against wandering again? Far from it. At the first false step she is denounced as lost. "Lost," echo friends and relatives, "we disown you; don't ever come near us to disgrace us." "Lost," says society indifferently. "How bad these girls are!" And lost, irretrievably lost, is the prompt verdict of conventional morality, while one and all unite in bolting every door between her and respectability. Ah! will not these lost ones be required at our hands at the great hereafter?

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Lotta had a splendid house last night when she appeared in "The Little Detective." She assumed her disguises with her usual skill and received great applause for her various impersonations. Mr. Keene, the new leading man had a fine reception and made a favorable impression throughout the play, though the part in which he made his debut is not a very brilliant one. "The Little Detective" will be played again to-night.

Opera House.

There was a very large audience and a most attractive performance at this house last night. Billy Rice, who made his first appearance on this occasion, drew considerable applause and laughter both in his stump speech and in his original sketch of "The Lawyer's Clerk." Bobby Newcomb delighted the audience in song and dance, and Sam Rickey and Master Barney sent the audience into fits of laughter by their admirable acting in the sketch entitled "Taking the Pledge." The same bill will be performed to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Halliday's powerful play of "Notre Dame" has created a veritable sensation. It is an able dramatization of Victor Hugo's great work. The wretched hunchback Quasimodo loves Esmeralda, and is willing to sacrifice his life for her, seeking no return. Claude Follo, the priest, consumed with what he considers "love" for Esmeralda, seeks to destroy her rather than give her up to the man of her choice. Captain Phœbus, a gay rake almost incapable of a pure love feels passion for Esmeralda and thinks it love. By her innocence and purity love, true love is created in the breast of Phœbus. Each of these strongly written characters has full justice done it at Maguire's New Theatre. Charles Wheatleigh as the hideous Quasimodo whose deformed body contains a beautiful spirit does some excellent acting, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as the innocent pure minded loving Esmeralda is perfectly delightful, W. G. Coggswel exhibits much power in the character of Claude Follo, the priest, and Edward Arnott is an excellent representitive of Captain Phœbus. "Notre Dame" is well worth seeing.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Helen La Dite Potter will this evening give a series of dialect readings, readings from Shakespeare, personations of living orators and sentimental readings. Miss Potter's assumptions of character are said to be very clever, and her entertainment has been much appreciated in the Eastern cities.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

The circus season was formally inaugurated at ten o'clock to-day, by a procession of performers and animals which is now passing through the principal streets. This was quite a success. The horses were magnificent, the dresses of the riders new and brilliant, and the lion, the elephant, and the camels attracted much attention. This evening the two mammoth tents on the lot at the northeast corner of Mission and Seventh streets, will be opened at 7 o'clock. One dollar for adults and fifty cents for children, admits to both the Menageries and the circus performance. The latter which commences at eight o'clock, will comprise a grand entree, chrystal pyramids by O. S. Barrows, a comic act by the Belmont Brothers, a bareback act by Frank Barry, a grand somersault act by Miss Mollie Brown, waited on by Nat Austin, the California Clown, Leopold and Geraldine in a double trapeze act, and a great number of other acts, numbering eighteen in all. Charles and Carrie Austin the lightning drill performers, have been added to the troupe, and will appear this evening.

A Night in the Emerald Isle.

On Monday August 3d, Baker's grand diorama of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. T. McCarthy is business manager. This week will be placed on exhibition for five nights only.

Bella Union Theatre.

The first appearance of Miss Kate Raymond, and O. B. Collins, which took place at this house last night, proved a decided success. Miss Kate Raymond as Willie, in "The Waifs of New York," acted charmingly, and carried the sympathies of the audience with her throughout the play. O. B. Collins as Hans Schneidkoff, a German emigrant, was very clever and caused much laughter. Jim, the educated monkey, promises to become a favorite member of the Bella Union Theatre Company. He performs all manner of tricks worthy of a human low comedian. The play was capitally put on the stage, with new scenery, and the great fire scene and the railroad bridge, with lightning trains passing over it, were most effectively presented. This play will be performed every night until further notice.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

To-night the ever-popular Johnny Tuers will appear in his specialties, and also with Ned Buckley and Frank Mortimore in the act of "Sublime and Ridiculous." The full bill appears on our first page.

Death of a Manager.

Charles L. Tippetts died yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital in this city. Mr. Tippetts was well known to all old Californians, and was for some time lessee of the Metropolitan Theatre in this city. He was also business manager of Maguire's Opera House, on Washington street, and was associated with several theatrical enterprises in the interior. He was forty-three years of age. The funeral will take place at 2 P. M. to-day from the residence of John Torrence, No. 709 California street.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOW.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

The venerable Past is past;
'Tis dark, and shines not in the way:
'Twas good, no doubt—'tis gone at last—
There dawns another day.
Why should we sit where ivies creep,
And shroud ourselves in charnels deep,
Or the world's yesterdays deplore
'Mid crumbling ruin's mossy hoar?
Why should we see with dead men's eyes,
Looking at Was from morn to-night,
When the beauteous Now, the divine To Be,
Woo with their charms our living sight?
Why should we hear but echoes dull,
When the world of sound so beautiful
Will give us music of our own?
Why in the darkness should we grope,
When the sun, in heaven's resplendent cope,
Shines as bright as ever it shone?

The Present needs us. Every age
Bequeaths the next for heritage
No lazy luxury or delight,
But strenuous labor for the right;
For Now, the child and sire of Time,
Demands the deeds of earnest men
To make it better than the Past
And stretch the circle of its ken.
Now is a fact that men deplore,
Though it might bless them evermore;
Would they but fashion it aright
'Tis ever new, 'tis ever bright.
Time nor Eternity hath seen
A repetition of delight
In all its phases; ne'er has been
For men or angels that which is;
And that which is hath ceased to be
Ere we have breathed it, and its place
Is lost in the eternity.
But Now is ever good and fair,
Of the Infinitude the heir,
And we of it. So let us live
That from the Past we may receive
Light for the Now—from Now a joy
That Fate nor Time shall e'er destroy.

Had Him There.

This good joke is from the Detroit Journal of Commerce: A member of the Saginaw county bar was recently in one of our thriving interior towns on professional business. In the office of the hotel he was accosted by a very agreeable gentleman, evidently of the genus drummer, who wanted to know "where he was from." The legal gentleman not relishing the stranger's familiarity, answered, shortly, "From Detroit." The next question was, "For what house are you traveling?" "For my own." "You are? May I ask your name?" "You may." Pause—enjoyable to the lawyer, embarrassing to the other. "Well (desperately), what is your name?" "Jones." "What line are you in?" "I don't understand you, sir." "What are you selling?" (impatiently). "Brains," (coolly). The drummer saw his opportunity, and looking at the other from head to foot, he said, slowly: "Well, you appear to carry a d——d small line of samples." Blackstone, says he owes that drummer one.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Balcom & Stonds, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment, 6-m

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
W. H. AIKEN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in California and Nevada, gives prompt attention to the collection of Additional Travel Pay, now due California and Nevada Volunteers discharged more than three hundred miles from home. Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply, and state company and regiment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty and the Act of July 28, 1866, to January 1875, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 2d, 1861, for three years, if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to surviving veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. H. Aiken also attends to General Law and Collection business. jy24-tf

Jersey City Fun.

A young man of Jersey City was taking his girl out riding the other day. "There's no dash-board," said she. "We don't want one," said he. "Yes, we do," said she. "No, we don't; your feet will answer all necessary purposes," answered he. And what said she? She just elevated one of her feet and gently laid it on his stomach; and he sat down on the sidewalk to rest until his breath returned to him. They didn't go out riding after that afternoon; and he doesn't go to see her any more. By such little things as this are two fond hearts sundered in this world of sadness, taxes and organ-grinders.

Puzzling.

We don't see why men whose wives are in the country should wear their best clothes every day in the week. And we don't understand why they purchase so many bracelets, and bottles of cologne, and dozens of handkerchiefs. As we are in search of information, we'd like some one of these bereaved husbands to explain. And, also, we want to know if in letters they write they tell their wives how much the bracelets cost?

A Clever Old Soul.

"How do you like the character of St. Paul?" asked a parson of his landlady, one day, during a conversation about the old Saints and the Apostles. "Ah?" replied the landlady, "he was a good, clever old soul, I know, for he once said, you know, that we must eat what is set before us, and ask no questions for conscience sake. I always thought I should like him for a barber."

Severe.

The Washington Star says: Kate Field announces her determination to go upon the stage, as an actress, saying: "I go in self-defense, as a purely sedentary career is killing me. I can't get exercise enough, and my doctor says I must have it." Strange she never thought of taking in washing or hiring out as a nurse girl.

Practical.

The Detroit Free Press makes the following practical suggestion: Joseph Arch proposes to bring over 71,000 English laborers and let them know what liberty is, but Joseph had better make arrangements for their bread and butter before they land. Three square miles of freedom won't go as far as a sandwich to a hungry man.

A Horrible Custom.

"Sunrise, sir," says the colored porter at the Catskill Mountain House, beating at your door at the early dawn. "Well, what of it?" says Jones, jumping out of bed. "Nothing, sir," says the porter, "only its the rule of the house to notify guests to see the sight." "The —— it is," says Jones jumping into bed again."

Pretty Little Feet.

The feet of the ladies of Chicago must be singularly constructed. The footprints of one of them who was visiting Michigan City, we are assured by the Detroit Free Press, got a crowd of men out hunting for a stray elephant.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen:
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

A Baffled Barber.

The Utica Observer says: A traveling friend of the Observer was at Rochester the other day, and he dropped into a barber shop near the Osburn House to get shaved. After he had been deprived of the useless hairs upon his face and portion of his skin, by a garrulous and clumsy knight of the razor, the tonsorial artist tossed the ends of his hair lightly, and the following dialogue ensued: "Have a cut?" Victim—"No, it was cut last week, and I'm in a hurry." Artist (looking at the clock)—"You have plenty of time before the train goes east." Victim—"I'm not going east." Barber—"Oh, then you are in no hurry. Had your dinner?" Victim (rather gruffly)—"Yes." Barber (still toying with our friend's waving locks)—"Which way are you going?" Victim—"West, if I ever get out of this shop." Barber—"How far?" Victim—"As far as Buffalo." Barber—"Oh, ho! Buffalo, eh? Yo can't get your hair cut decently in Buffalo; there is only one good barber there, and he's drunk half the time. Shall I cut it? The train don't leave for half an hour." Victim (thoroughly enraned)—"Look here, you wooden-headed numbskull, and listen. I don't want my hair cut; I don't want a shampoo; I don't want tonic; I don't want bay rum; I don't want any more of your tongue, information, or impudence. I don't want you to finish this job, and if you don't close your infernal lather-box and let me out of this chair, I'll saw your thick head off with one of your dull, nutmeg-grating razors? Do you understand that?" The astonished nuisance comprehended.

California Talent.

Our home talent is always better appreciated abroad than it is at home. The New York Spirit of the Times says: "It is always a pleasure to welcome the advent of talent and enterprise in the field of journalism, and we experience particular gratification by the reception of the recent numbers of the San Francisco Open Letter, a gossipy and entertaining weekly newspaper just started in that city, and edited by Mr. T. Vivian, a journalist of force and elegance. The Open Letter possesses so many merits of composition, and presents withal such an attractive and neat appearance, that it ought to achieve the great success which we sincerely and heartily wish it."

Pleasing.

Several years ago the new pastor of one of the Chicago Methodist churches, upon the Sunday after his arrival, was introduced to the Sunday school and invited to make a "few remarks." In the course of his speech he likened the preacher or pastor to a shepherd caring for his flock, and then asked: "Scholars, can you tell me what the shepherd does for his sheep?" There was a momentary pause, then a young boy sung out in reply, "Shears 'em," and "Shears 'em," "Shears 'em!" was echoed by a hundred more, and—the new preacher sat down.

Ground for Divorce.

In a recent divorce case in England the petitioner, who was the husband, based his claims for relief on the ground that his wife persisted in smoking a short pipe. She even went so far as to smoke in the chamber at midnight, before retiring to bed, in spite of the protestation of her husband, who did not use tobacco. The judge reserved his decision, as he thought the difficulty might be amicably adjusted.

A Genial old Man.

"How beautiful is the confidence of childhood!" murmured Mr. Marrowfat, as he securely fastened his pocket book to a belt about his waist, preparatory to starting on a Sunday-school picnic.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly as the game of billiards, no pleasanter place than be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Lotta will appear in six impersonations in the play of "The Little Detective" this evening, it being the last time this lively piece will be presented. Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and Saturday matinee, Miss Lotta will appear as Paul in the comedy of "Pet of the Petticoats" and as "Nan the Good for Nothing." On Monday evening next the new drama of "Zip; or, Pelat Lynde Light," will be produced.

Opera House.

Billy Rice, Sam Rickey, Master Barney, Miss Lulu Delmay, Ben Cotton, Bobby Newcomb, Billy Arlington and others will appear at this house to-night in a grand bill. "Taking the Pledge" is one of the most amusing little Irish comedies ever put on the stage. The brogue and acting of Sam Rickey as Cornelius McNamara, and Master Barney in the two characters of Biddy McNamara and Terence can scarcely be surpassed. Friday evening those favorite artistes Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington will have a complimentary benefit.

Maguire's New Theatre.

It is a long time since a play of such powerful interest as "Notre Dame" was presented on the California stage. It affords a striking contrast to the milk-and-water society plays of the period. Charles Wheatleigh as Quasimodo, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Esmeralda, W. G. Coggswell as Claude Folio, Edward Arnott as Captain Phœbus, and Miss Mary Wallace Gadsden, all play their parts to perfection. "Notre Dame" will be played until further notice.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Helen La Dite Potter, most successfully inaugurated a new style of entertainment at this hall, last night. Her dialect readings were very clever and were much applauded. A scene from "As You Like It," was splendidly read, after the style of Mr. Scott Siddons. A great feature of the performance was the series of imitations of popular orators of the day, Anna Dickenson, Olive Logan, and John Gough. Miss Helen La Dite Potter, will give another entertainment this evening. The programme will comprise Dickens' Gabriel Grub," Italian, German, Scotch and Yankee dialect readings, and the personations of living orators which drew so much applause last night.

Mlle. Aimee's Farewell.

The farewell benefit and last appearance of Mlle. Marie Aimee will take place at the California Theatre on Sunday evening next. The bill will consist of the one act comedy of "Le Serment d'Horace," the operetta of "Un Mari a la Porte" and "La Rose de St. Flour."

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

The mammoth tent at the corner of Mission street was crowded to repletion last night, there being probably a larger number of people than were ever before assembled at any circus entertainment in this city. The menagerie portion of the show was open at seven o'clock, and many spent the hour before the circus performances in looking at the numerous rare beasts on exhibition. Among the many attractive features of the performance may be mentioned, first, the wonderful somersault act of the graceful and fearless little Miss Mollie Brown, who though announced as fourteen years of age, does not appear more than eleven. This child performs with wonderful grace and perfect self-possession feats which the oldest professionals often fail in accomplishing. Next must be mentioned the daring gymnasts Leopold and Geraldine, whose fame extends over the entire continent. These artistes performed feats on the trapeze never before attempted in this city. Signor Feranti's contortion act is the best we have ever witnessed; it is graceful and artistic instead of repulsive, as this feat is frequently made when presented by the average performers. It is impossible for us to criticise in detail the eighteen acts which made up the grand programme presented last night, and must therefore briefly notice the capital clowning of Nat Austin, the clever riding of Madame Louise Tournaire, the groupings of the Belmont Brothers, the comic stilt act by C. S. Burrows, the bareback somersault act by Frank Barry and the lightning drill executed by Charles and Carrie Austin, all of which were applauded. There will be a matinee performance to-day at 2 o'clock and another performance this evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

The sensation play of "The Waifs of New York" with Miss Kate Raymond in the character of Willie, the Waif, O. B. Collins as Hans Schneidukoff a German emigrant, and that wonderfully comical monkey Jim, in proprio persona, has made an immense hit at this house. It will be played to-night and every night until further notice. The fire scene in this drama is most effectively presented.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Toers, the eccentric comedian, Edward Barry the pleasing baritone and serio-comic vocalist, John Kelly, Ned Buckley, Frank Mortimore and a host of others will appear to-night in a great bill.

A Night in the Emerald Isle.

On Monday August 3d, Baker's grand dioramic of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. T. McCarthy is business manager. This work will be placed on exhibition for five nights only.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Bedouin Arab Troupe recently arrived from the East, will appear here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. No cure may be profitably sought here.

THE CHILDLESS MOTHER.

BY MARY GLEMMER AMES.

I lay my tasks down one by one,
I sit in the silence in twilight's grace;
Out of its shadows, soft and dun,
Steals like a star my baby's grace.

Mocking cold are the world's poor joys,
How poor to me all life pomp and pride;
In my lap lie the baby's idle toys,
In this very room the baby died.

I will shut these broken toys away
Under the lid where they mutely bide;
I will smile in the face of the noisy day,
Just as if the baby had never died.

I will take up my work once more,
As if I had never laid it down;
Who will dream that I ever wore
Motherhood's fine and holy crown.

Who will dream my life ever bore
Fruit the sweeter in grief and pain?
The fitting smile that the baby wore
Outrayed the light of the holiest brain.

I'll meet him in the world's rude din,
Who hath outlived his mother's kiss;
Who hath forsaken her love for sin—
I will be spared her pang in this.

Man's way is hard and sore beset;
Many must fall, but few can win.
Thanks, dear Shepherd! My lamb is safe,
Safe from sorrow, and safe from sin.

Nevertheless, the way is long,
And tears leap up in the light of the sun,
I'd give my world for a cradle song,
And a kiss from baby—only one.

Reasons for Being a Bummer.

The city of Norwich, Conn., has a missionary who one day a week ago refused to pay his fare on the ground that his religious vocation entitled him to a free passage over the road. He was before the Police Court, and informed the presiding officer that he had two other reasons for not paying his fare. One was that he had two motherless children to support, and another, he had the dyspepsia so he couldn't keep anything down.

An Omission.

A Connecticut deacon in the olden times was sorely troubled about the scientific assertion that the sun was a stationary body, and did not move around the earth. "For," said he to the minister, "didn't Joshua command the sun to stand still?" "Very well," responded the dominie, "Show me, if you can, the passage in Scripture where it says that Joshua ever commanded the sun to move again!"

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the oldest oyster men in the city.

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnicent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can eat at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Verdict.

Half of the best-dressed gentlemen in this city would say, if asked the question where they had their clothes made, that they went to Baloun & Stouda, No. 613 Washington street, and would also advise you to go there if you wanted a perfect-fitting suit made in the latest style, from either imported or domestic goods, at the lowest price compatible with a good garment. 6 m

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-Y

Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply, and state company and regiment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty under Act of July 28, 1866, to January 1875, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 3d, 1861, for three years, if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to our living veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. S. Boucicault's Latest.

The New York Herald of the 19th says: "Mr. Jarrett, of Booth's Theatre, has received a cable dispatch informing him that Dion Boucicault would leave Liverpool for New York by the steamer Russia which sailed yesterday, and will probably arrive on the 27th inst. The object of Boucicault's visit is to superintend the production of his new play which, being entirely original, and, as he declares, the "best he ever wrote," he takes the deepest personal interest in. The piece is described as a "domestic love story founded upon incidents of the late American rebellion." The cast is to be phenomenal, including a heroic part by John McCullough, the tragedian. Mackey, the famous representative of old men, whose delineation of the Prefect of Police in Sardou's "Agnes" gave him an enviable metropolitan reputation; Miss Katharine Rogers, Charles LeClerq, and, probably, the author himself are also to appear in it. Voegtlin, the artist, and seven assistants are now engaged upon the scenery, and the prospect is that the theatre will be open upon the 10th of August, as promised by the management."

A Pleasing Suggestion.

The North San Juan Times commenting on the Beecher-Tilton scandal says:

We know no reason why Henry Ward Beecher should not be stoned to death for such a crime, as well as the woman spoken of in the Holy Scriptures, that was taken before the Saviour of mankind. We only see the same difficulty in the way, that Jesus saw, and that is to find the man or woman without sin to cast the first stone.

It is very kind of the North San Juan Times to suggest that H. W. B. be stoned to death, but we are glad that it acknowledges that the pastor of Plymouth church is not alone in his sinfulness. Who are these who condemn him?

Henry W. Beecher on Love.

What the inspiration of music is in the household, that is love in the economy of the soul. I know what the bright days and the golden hours of love are. When, therefore, Christ says that he loves, I take the most exquisite, the sweetest, the most refined and delicate sentiment of love that I have seen or dreamed of, and I say: All this is but a beginning of that love which goes on in the divine nature, pulsing through the universe, lasting forever and forever, and which will round out the future, redeeming the race.

Art Criticism.

The following which we clip from a Southern paper reads like an "art criticism in the morning Call of this city: "Mr. Wm. Homan, as a sign painter, has no compeer, in this community at least. We seldom find centered in any one person all the talents requisite to a first-class artist in sign writing, but of these this gentleman possesses an invidious share, or at least quite enough to attain to the eminent degree of par excellence in his profession."

New Music.

We are in receipt of a new piece of music entitled, "It's Funny When You Feel That Way," by G. W. Hunt, published by Sherman & Hyde.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Advice to a Young Man.

We yesterday afternoon observed "Uncle Pete" propped at ease against his favorite lamp-post, and overheard him holding forth as follows to a young man of the genus boodlum: "Young man, don't you go to a rivin' for a big name or frettin' yourself to make a mark in the world. It's all vanity and vexation of spirit. You just turn philosopher. That's the lay I'm on. Say to yourself, the world owes me a livin,' and I'm bound to have it. That's a motto to live up to. To live without care is my philosophy. All else is vanity. What does a man get for doin' things, makin' inventions, and the like? Nuthin.' Look at Christopher Columbus, young man, and let his fate be a warnin' to you. What does he get for the trouble he had in discoverin' of America? He gits called a swindler and a imposture. He had all his trouble for nuthin,' for they have found out that he wasn't the feller that discovered America, after all. It was some Laplander, or one of them fellers up north. What does William H. Shakspere git for the trouble he had writin' them plays o' his? He gets busted out entirely. They now say there never was no such man as William H. Shakspeare, and I believe 'em. No one man could a-done it. What was the use of William Tell shootin' old Geyser? He run a big risk of passin' in his own checks, and now they say thar never was no such man. He'd better a-bin a philosopher and stayed up in the mountains. See the life old Robinson Crusoe led in that air solitary island! and how there never was no Crusoe. Young man, don't you never try to discover America, nor the telegraft—like old Mess did—cause you'll find out when it's too late, and you've had all the trouble, that it wasn't you, but some other jackass that is dead and don't know whether he ever done anything or not. Now here's the latest instance: Supposin' you to be Vasquez, when you've gone and got up a reputation as Vasquez they find out you ain't Vasquez, but are somebody else. Take my advice, young man, and follow the life of a philosopher; get all you can out of the world and never do nothin' for the world; then you beat the world and are a true philosopher."

Faith.

The philosopher of the Sacramento Bee illustrates it as follows: The telegraph to day tells us that Mrs. Beecher "says that if all the women in creation were to swear that Beecher had been unfaithful, she would not believe them." This is indeed faith and devotion on the part of a wife, most touching and beautiful. It "reminds us of a little story," as quaint Lincoln would say, and as it proves that the sterner sex is also capable of an implicit trust—more touching if possible—we give it in substance: During the trial of a case in Louisville, lately, a witness persisted in testifying to what his wife told him. To this, of course, the attorney objected, and it was ruled out by the judge. He would proceed to tell "shust how it vas," when the attorney would sing out, "How do you know that?" "My wife tole me," was the answer. This was repeated several times. Presently the judge becoming unable to contain himself longer said, "Suppose your wife were to tell you that the heavens had fallen, what would you think?" "Vell, I think dey vas down."

A Great Improvement.

The new waistcoat has a deep pocket that completely hides a cigar, so that the man who for "the mate of that" can never bring a blush to your face by discovering it after you have told him "I haven't another, a fellow just gave me this."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-c]

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny street's entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-1

Well Done.

The British Colonist, of Victoria, of the 18th, has the following: Yesterday a pleasure party composed of a portion of Mme. Anna Bishop's Troupe, and some others (ladies and gentlemen) started up the Arm with the double intention of inspecting the George and enjoying the beautiful and picturesque scenery which lines either shores. After a slight rest at the George Hotel, the boat was manned again, and after a vigorous pull some one proposed a bathe, one gentleman having secured towels. The ladies were landed, while Mr. Alf. Wilkie, whose clear tenor voice has delighted so many audiences, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Maclean, who are here on a pleasure trip, and Mr. Hill, agent for the troupe, were soon plunging about in the clear, though rather rapid water. Mr. Wilkie, probably overtaxed, was swimming about in mid-stream, when suddenly exhaustion overcame him. Out of his depth with a swift current, things began to look very black. Visions of a concert without a tenor, or no concert at all, a disappointed public, loomed up before him. With an heroic effort, he called for help. Mr. Hill, who was swimming near, heard him, and struck out at once to his rescue, seized his back hair (we shudder to think what might have been the consequence had he worn a wig), and brought him in triumph to the boat. We are happy to say Mr. Wilkie has thoroughly recovered, sweet smiles and pitying glances on the way back having a potent effect, while his voice will be in no impaired for to-night's concert by this narrow escape from a watery grave.

Charles R. Thorne.

Our California actor, Charles R. Thorne, Jr., who was so many years at Maguire's Opera House, and learned his profession in this city, has made a decided hit in London, in "Led Astray." From a number of complimentary notices, we select the following from the London Globe: "Mr. Charles Thorne, leaps at once, both as to appearance and talent, into the position once occupied by Mr. Fechter, and which has, since that star waned, remained unoccupied. May Mr. Thorne be induced to make his home among us, for the British stage badly wants a comedian of his calibre."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The engagement of Sam Rickey is a short one, therefore those who wish to see this inimitable Irish comedian before his return to New York must do so speedily. Cotton and Arlington also must soon leave us. Their places will be supplied by others, but the combination at present at the Opera House is a very brilliant one, and the programme cannot fail to please all tastes. Cotton and Arlington take their farewell benefit to-morrow night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The thrilling drama of "Notre Dame," with Charles Wheatleigh as Quasimodo, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Esmeralda, and a generally strong cast, will be repeated every evening this week and at the matinee on Saturday. It is, as played at Maguire's New Theatre, one of the most attractive pieces ever produced in this city.

California Theatre.

To-night Lotta, the especial pet of the public of San Francisco, will appear as Paul in "The Pet of the Petticoats," and as "Nan, the Good for Nothing." This bill will be repeated to-morrow evening and on Saturday evening.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Helen La Dite Potter gave another of her very clever and attractive entertainments at this house last night. Her comic readings drew much laughter, and her pathetic selections were delivered with true feeling and good effect. We hope that Miss Potter will appear before the public again before long. She only requires to be heard to be appreciated.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

There was an immense attendance, both at the matinee yesterday and at the evening performance. The programme was even better carried out than on the opening night and gave general satisfaction. Miss Mollie Brown is a great favorite, and considering her youth fairly rivals Madame Dockrill, Signor Feranti is an excellent artist, the Austins are great in their lightning drill, and Leopoli and Geraldine can scarcely be equalled. There will be a matinee at two to-day, and an evening performance at eight. The show will be open at one for the matinee, and at seven in the evening, giving an hour for the inspection of the menagerie.

Mlle. Aimee's Farewell.

The farewell benefit and last appearance of Mlle. Marie Aimee will take place at the California Theatre on Sunday evening next. The bill will consist of the one act comedy of "Le Serment d'Horace," the operetta of "Un Mari a la Porte" and "La Rose de St. Fleur."

A Night in the Emerald Isle.

On Monday August 3d, Baker's grand diorama of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. T. McCarthy is business manager. This work will be placed on exhibition for five nights only.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Waifs of New York," in which that very pleasing actress Miss Kate Raymond, the clever character comedian O. B. Collins, and that most talented of monkeys Jim, appear, will be presented to-night in conjunction with a bright first part by Cal Mandeville, Matt Kelly and others, and an amusing olio of acts, songs and dances.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Great attractions are offered at this house to-night. The programme, which is published on our first page, comprises many favorite performers and amusing acts.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Bedouin Arab Troupe recently arrived from the East, will appear here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Event.

THEODORE TILTON'S CREED.

[The following, by Theodore Tilton, will be read with peculiar interest just at this time.]

As other men have creeds, so I have mine;
I knew the holy faith in God, in man,
And in the angels ministrant between,
I hold to one true church of all true souls;
Whose churchly seals is neither bread nor wine;
Nor laying on of hands, nor holy oil,
But only the anointing of God's grace.

I hate all kings, and caste, and rank of birth;
For all the sons of man are sons of God;
Nor limps a beggar but is nobly born;
Nor wears a slave a yoke, nor clasps a crown,
That makes him less or more than just a man.

I love my country and her righteous cause;
So dare I not keep silent of her sin;
And after Freedom may her bells ring peace!

I love one woman with a holy fire,
Whom I revere as priestess of my house;
I stand with wondering awe before my babes,
Till they rebuke me to a nobler life.
I keep a faithful friendship with my friend,
Whom loyally I serve before myself;
I lock my lips too close to speak a lie;
I wash my hands too white to touch a bribe;
I owe no man a debt I cannot pay,
Save only of the love men ought to owe.

Withal, each day, before the blessed Heaven
I open wide the chambers of my soul,
And pray the Holy Ghost to enter in.

Thus reads the fair confession of my faith;
So crossed the contradictions of my life
That now may God forgive the written lie!
Yet still, by help of Him who helpeth men,
I face two worlds and fear not life or death.
O, Father, lead me by the hand! Amen!

Twain's Interview with a Book Peddler.

A book peddler visited Mark Twain at home to get his subscription for a new work, of which he carried a copy. He found the genial Mark hoeing in his garden. He was kindly received, and asked to take a seat. He took a seat. The seat was on the top of a fence, the uppermost rail of which was sharp. He was not happy when he sat down, and he got no happier as he remained. He remained there, too, a very long time, and Mr. Twain was very kind. He talked to him about the book and its author, whom he knew; about the pictures and then he branched off into other and very deep literary subjects, of which the agent knew nothing. After an hour or so Twain hospitably asked the agent into the house, and then he talked to him some more. The agent was getting very tired and very hungry. Twain excused himself for a moment, and stayed away an hour, during which time the agent suspects he took his dinner. He came back, and was still very kind and talked again. It was now nearly 6 P. M., and the agent had come about 11 A. M. He had nothing to eat, and not a word had been said about a subscription. He grew desperate, and asked Twain if he would subscribe. "I think I will," drawled Twain, "but not to-day; come to-morrow, and we will talk about it." The agent decamped, and now he swears—though he had a nice time, and Twain is a good talker—that he will never go back again—no, never.

Boston Manners.

The Boston Courier says: Some time since a gentleman who lives in this city was traveling on a railway train that had but one passenger coach attached. The gentleman is addicted to the bad habit of smoking. He had but one cigar at the time, and longed for a smoke, but hesitated, thinking that smoke might be unpleasant to a fascinating lady passenger—the only one aboard. Finally he could endure the deprivation no longer, and, taking out the cigar and reaching towards the seat where she sat, asked if she objected to smoking. "Oh, no," said she, reaching for, and taking the cigar, "I left my pipe tur hum."

A Threatened Calamity.

Chicago suggests a grand musical festival, at which it is proposed to "make a noise that shall astonish the world and make Cleveland and Boston hang their heads for shame!"

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnicent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

Who Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,]
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."]

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Port-r-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

The Alta's Circus Critic.

The Alta should advertise for some one to write up its notices of the Circus. The gentleman it has detailed for the purpose makes a sad mess of it. In his first notice he had three performers, each of whom has a specialty, crowded on one horse and doing the flying globe feat. In yesterday's criticism of the performance he talks of the trapeze act of Leopold and Geraldine being applauded by the "audience." People looking at a trapeze performance don't constitute an "audience" they are spectators. The next little mistake this very incompetent circus critic makes is to allude to Mollie Brown's "bare-back summersault act. This is not a bare-back act, but a "pad act" and an educated mule would be ashamed to spell somersault in the way the Alta man does. Somehow or other he doesn't seem to have got the hang of his business, he criticises a circus as if it were a theatre, and a theatrical performance as if it were a Marionette show. We hope these few hints, given in the best spirit imaginable will be of some use to him. His style is really nearly as bad as that of Mr. Coppinger of London.

Died in Harness.

For the last eight or nine years Edward Coulter, employed by Francis & Valentine, as form carrier, has been a daily visitor at the majority of the newspaper offices of this city. His duty was to take the ponderous aggregated mass of metal types from which the newspaper is printed, carry it in his arms to a wagon and convey it to the press rooms. Hard work, a terrific strain on the muscles! This morning, at about nine o'clock, Ned went for the forms of the Hebrew, a weekly paper. He took one of the forms in his arms, got it down stairs and returned for the other. Standing by the stone preparing to take up his load, he began to spit blood, and almost immediately fell dead. He was not over thirty years of age. He leaves a wife and child totally unprovided for. Hard work killed poor Ned, and this unusual verdict must be brought in. It is to be hoped that those for whom he worked so hard, will not be allowed to suffer for the necessaries of life.

The Hoodlums' Victim.

James Ramsey, the efficient and faithful officer, of Montgomery Queen's Circus, who was stoned to death by the street corner ruffians on Tuesday night last, while guarding his employer's property, was buried yesterday in the Masonic Cemetery. The deceased was very highly esteemed by every member of the company, and the whole company headed by Montgomery Queen, attended his funeral, wearing appropriate badges of mourning. Rev. Dr. Scott conducted the funeral services.

A Beautiful Work of Art.

Houseworth & Co., have lately been producing some beautiful works of photographic art. Chief among these is a splendid life-size two thirds picture of Miss Minnie Walton finished in water colors. This is one of the finest pictures ever produced by aid of the photographic art. Messrs. Houseworth & Co. have also executed some very beautiful water color pictures of Lotta. Their gallery on Montgomery street presents many attractions at present.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here!
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T,'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-1

THE REPORT OF THE CHIEF OF POLICE.

The Alta is lost in admiration of the Report of the Chief of Police, "and the compiler Captain Alfred Clark." Captain Alfred Clark has spared no pains in performing his portion of the work. His business was to make a good, even attractive, report, and he has not grudged the expenditure of those beautiful similes drawn from the workings of Nature which one does not look for in such a document. Not having a full copy before us, we quote from the Call's report, which we have no doubt is perfectly correct. "The Chief reports that gambling is suppressed, and two vigilant officers are detailed to visit all places where illegal games would be played if not prevented, and as the entrance of the light excludes the darkness from the chamber, so the presence of the minister of the law forbids the act of its intending violator." That simile of the minister of the law being like light and "excluding darkness from a chamber," is very pretty. Captain Alfred Clark has done well. As to Chief Cockrill, he has not done so well. All the light imagery of Captain Alfred Clark cannot dissipate the dark thought that the condition of this city is not what it should be and that the inhabitants have not sufficient protection for their lives and property. The Chief points with pride to the fact that by reference to 18 of the largest cities in the world, it appears that the average arrest made in those cities per officer, each year, is 39, while our officers are accredited with 107 arrests each. It would be, perhaps, considered impertinent by the Chief of Police, if we were to suggest that a large proportion of those arrests entailed no labor on the officers, and were totally unattended by personal risk. It is true that unfortunate Chinawomen are every now and then marched down to the Police station in squads of ten and twenty, and that officers are detailed for the purpose of keeping these women from being immoral. The morals of the Chinese alleys are well looked after. There is, perhaps, an excess of zeal in this direction. Another class who must be considered rather unfortunate than criminal, are also attended to strictly—we refer to the inebriates. While a strict look-out is kept for cases fo this description, the dangerous classes seem to have it pretty much their own way. Hoodlumism is rampant. The police know that dissolute and depraved boys hold nightly meetings in certain neighborhoods and plan and execute crimes. They know that these meeting are held for an unlawful purpose, yet, the offenders being of the male sex, they are not interfered with. An occasional arrest is made in order to make a show of dilligence in suppressing the crying shame of San Francisco. It is not too much to say that for every offender of this class who is arrested, twenty escape. Some portions of the city, notably the Southern portion, in the vicinity of Brannan street and Sixth, is unsafe for travel after 9 o'clock in the evening. Gangs of boys who are preparing themselves for the State Prison, stand at the corners of these streets and insult with foul language and obscene gestures, every unprotected female who passes. Chinamen are stoned every day by these young ruffians, and it is but occasionally that one is brought before the bar of justice to answer for the cowardly crime. On Tuesday a stranger who arrived in this city only two days previously, was stoned to death by the boys of San Francisco, because in the fulfilment of his duties, he prevented them from getting into a circus without paying. One policeman was present and he fought well, as well as one man could be expected to do; he received some injuries. For him individually we are sorry as we always must be for a man who suffers injury in the discharge of his duty, but we hope that good will enure from it. Chinaman are, as we observed before, stoned daily, and the police do not prevent it. Now a policeman has been hurt we may expect something to be done. It is time. Chief Cockrill's report comes at an unfortunate time. Next to the ornate and carefully rounded sentences of Captain Alfred Clark can blind the eyes of the community to the fact that since the present occupant of the office has held his position, while the minor misdemeanors have been hunted up and punished, the dangerous classes have increased in numbers, and crimes of violence have become fearfully prevalent. We hope for a better report next year, less Clarkly flourish, and more real work.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

KNABE PIANOS

"The Knabe Pianos which I have played are remarkable for their qualities of TONE. The bass is powerful without harshness, and the upper notes sweet, clear and harmoniously mellow (CRYSTALLIN), and I do not hesitate to express in regard to these instruments my entire satisfaction, and to declare that they are equal, if not SUPERIOR, to the best manufactured in Europe or America by the most celebrated makers." AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Notre Dame," with Charles Wheatleigh and Miss Jeffreys Lewis in the leading roles is drawing large houses, but not larger than its merits entitle it to. This admirable play, with its bright scenes, strong situations and thrilling sensations should be seen by every every one before it is withdrawn. It will be played to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"The Pet of the Petticoats," and "Nan the Good-for-Nothing," with Lotta in the leading character in each piece afforded abundant amusement to all who visited this theatre last night. In the first piece, Lotta made a sprightly Paul, and won much applause. She was ably supported by Robert Pateman as Mons. Zephyr, Miss Johnstone Mrs. C. E. Saunders, Miss Jennie Lee, Miss Belle Chapman and others. Miss Jennie Lee sang "My Heart is True to Poll," capitally, and Belle Chapman "Don't Forget to Write Me Darling," with good effect. Lotta's specialties of banjo playing, singing and dancing were introduced in "Nan the Good for-Nothing," and gave general satisfaction. The same bill will be played to-night and at the matinee to-morrow.

Opera House.

The splendid bill which has drawn crowded houses during the week, will be given this evening Billy Rice, Sam Rickey, Master Barney, Miss Lulu Delmay, Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington, will appear in some of their best specialties. The performance will be for the benefit of the two last named are tisted. The usual matinee performance will be given to-morrow.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

This immense exhibition is in the full tide of success. The beauty and rarity of the animals in the menagerie and the variety and excellence of the feats performed in the circus ensure crowds both at matinee and evening performance. Little Miss Mollie Brown is the greatest favorite that ever appeared in the arena.

Farewell Benefit.

Sam Rickey and Master Barney will take their farewell benefit at the Opera House on Monday evening. There are not two greater favorites in New York than these two inimitable Irish comedians. Sam Rickey first achieved fame in this city, and has since so elaborated his impersonation of the live Irishman of the day, that it has no equal on the stage. Master Barney is very successful in impersonating Irish women, and is the champion jig dancer of the day. These two worthy artistes are bound to have a bumper.

Bella Union Theatre.

The highly successful play of "The Waifs of New York," will be performed to-night by Miss Kate Raymond, O. B. Colton and others, and will be supplemented by a new First Part and olio which are given on our first page. The evening's entertainment will terminate with the very comic sketch of "We Fly By Night."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tacrs in his specialties, Mlle. Blanche in songs, Miss Rosa Vincent in dances, Frank Mortimore in acts, Edward Barry in baritone songs, and other artistes in various specialties, will give a capital entertainment this evening.

Mlle. Aimee's Farewell.

The farewell benefit and last appearance of Mlle. Marie Aimee will take place at the California Theatre on Sunday evening next. The bill will consist of the one act comedy of "Le Serment d'Horace," the operetta of "Un Mari a la Porte" and "La Rose de St. Fleur."

A Night in the Emerald Isle.

On Monday August 3d, Baker's grand diorama of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. T. McCarthy is business manager. This work will be placed on exhibition for five nights only.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Bedouin Arab Troupe recently arrived from the East, will appear here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry. No Chinamen employed.

I WISH I WERE A COMET.

I wish I were a comet,
And sportin' thro' the sky
Oh! shades of old Mahomet,
I'd make the splinters fly!

There'd be a wreck of matter,
A crash of worlds, you bet,
I'd all the planets batter,
And everything upset.

I'd butt against old Bruin,
And tease the Little Cub,
The Polar Star I'd ruin,
And give the Moon a rub.

The Dog Star then I'd collar,
And if unmuzzled found,
To make my half a dollar,
I'd drag him to the pound,

I'd make things spin about,
Oh! Jupiter and Mars,
Turn the Dipper wrong side out,
And drown the little stars.

I'd give the earth a tussel,
And switch it off its axis,
I'd travel on my muscle,
And equalize the taxes.

—Pittsburg Chronicle

A Sermon for the Times.

At a Presbyterian church, in Saratoga, a sermon was recently delivered on the Christian regatta towards the heavenly goal. The Christian was described as feathering his oar with precision, turning the stake-boat of life with all the resolution of faith, coming down the desperate course of the home-stretch with vigor, fixing his eye on the heavenly Referee, and taking good care not to imitate the Disciple Judas and break his scull.

J. K. Emmett.

A London correspondent says: "J. K. Emmett is in London. I met him here the other night, and on my asking him if he intended playing in London, he replied that no engagement had been yet concluded. When Emmett opened at the Adelphi he brought money, but the latter part of his stay was a fiasco, financially speaking. Byron is writing another piece for him."

The Comet's Doing.

Fire in Chicago, water spouts in Pittsburg, floods in Louisiana and Massachusetts, "hydrophobia" in New York and other Eastern cities (rare among the dogs, the bipeds have it bad), Beecher-Tilton mess in Brooklyn, earthquake (very tame) in Gilroy, California. Lots of money, fine weather, and a little excess of suicide and murder in San Francisco. We shall stay West.

Good Definitions.

A school boy spelled "sob," and when asked to define it, blundered out: "It means when a feller don't want to cry, and it bursts out itself." Another defined a comma as "a period with a tail."

Stalls 91, 92 and 93, have been opened by Anderson & Marshall as the Long Branch oyster house. They are among the oldest oyster men in the city.

Swain's original bakery has opened a magnicent place at 213 Sutter street, near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it,

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

JOE GINSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Ginsta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SAN JOSE.—The Mercury yesterday said:

The ladies of the M. E. Church will hold their regular monthly social this evening. Refreshments, music, sociability, etc., till you can't rest.

Tiburcio Vasquez is on exhibition at the jail—free show.

SALT LAKE.—The wonderful Vokes Family will open here on Monday.

DENVER, COL.—Louis Webb, gave a concert at Guard's Opera House, on the 23d and 24th. Misses Octavia Corbell and Lizzie Harmon took a benefit at the theatre on the 25th. Mrs. G. B. Waldron, was to have one on the 27th. John Wilson's Circus was to return and show on the 30th and 31st.

BOULDER CITY COL.—John Wilson's Circus showed here on the 23d, and more people came than the tent would hold.

PORTLAND.—Rev. T. L. Eliot delivered a lecture on Comets at Masonic Hall on the 28th ult.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here,
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

We quote the following paragraph to show what an exquisitingly fancy man Toole is:—When Toole was informed that his friends wished to give him a dinner prior to his departure to America, he replied: "Why do they give me a dinner? I am not at all hungry?"

Mr. Charles Will's new comedy "All for Himself," written for the English comedian Mr. George Honey, will be produced at Brighton early in August.

Harry Jackson, with his "Heads of the People," returns to America in December.

He has nothing to depend on now but his own salary.

Charles R. Thorne has made a great hit in London in Mr. Boucicault's drama of "Led Astray." In reference to his first appearance the Telegraph says: "Manliness, presence, a good bearing, firmness, decision and strength are physical qualities all in favor of the actor. But to these are added subtlety, intelligence and a certain style which, if it be not the fruit of the study of French models, is very like genius."

It is not the fruit of the study of French models. It is the result of genius and—training in San Francisco, "the only school for actors." We have said this so often we think it only right to use quotation marks.

Mr. Craven Robinson announces that he has arranged for a lengthened tour through the cities and towns of America with his "Caste" company, which performs the late T. W. Robson's comedies of "School," "Caste" and "Ours." On June 29th they began a season of twenty-four nights (previous to opening in New York City) at the National Standard Theatre, London, England. The company includes the Misses Fanny Addison, Fanny Robertson, Josephine Rae, May Mellish, Florence Rodell, Clara Lemore, E. Branton, and Messrs. J. F. Young, H. M. Pitt, M. M. Mellor, T. Sidney, D. E. Caville, Hubert Guyton, and Craven Robertson; acting-manager, Mr. Alfred Church; scenic artist, Mr. Charles Walker,

CENTRE MARKET.

WHO OCCUPY THE STALLS.

The premium stalls 1 and 2 are occupied by Abe Newman. Superior beef, mutton, smoked and corned beef always on hand.

Henburn has opened stall 4, with fresh meats of all kinds. Families and restaurants supplied on the shortest notice.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—"Notre Dame" one of the best plays produced on the California stage for a long time, will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening. Charles Wheatleigh as Quasimodo, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Esmeralda, W. G. Coggswell as Claude Frollo, Edward Arnott as Captain Phoebus, Miss Sydney Cowell as Jehan Frollo, Miss Mary Wells as Gadule, John Howson as Pierre Gringoire, Geo. Giddens as Clopin, and all engaged in the representation play their respective parts admirably and present an entertainment which cannot fail to please all who witness it. 'Notre Dame" will also be played to-morrow evening.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—At the matinee to-day and again this evening, the vivacious Lotta will appear in the character of Paul in "The Pet of the Petticoats" and also in "Nan the Good-for-Nothing." In the first piece there is some good acting and pleasing singing In the last, Lotta introduces many of her most admired special ties and is seen in all her glory. The bill is decidedly the best that has been produced during the Lotta season and will of course crowd the house.

OPERA HOUSE.—Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington had a good house for their benefit last night. The bill for the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening will be the same which has drawn crowded houses every night of the present week. It comprises Cotton and Arlington in the first part, Billy Rice in his stump speech and in "The Lawyer's Clerk." Miss Lulu Delmay in her piquante songs, Sam Rickey and Master Barney in "Taking the Pledge," Bobby Newcomb in the song and dance "Darling Isabel" and the amusing exhibition of "The Abyssinian Dwarf."

FAREWELL BENEFIT TO MLLE. AIMEE.—To-morrow evening that delightful artiste Mlle Aimee, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the California Theatre, and will make her last appearance in California. A great bill will be presented on this occasion. It will comprise Offenbach's operetta of "La Rose de St. Fleur," Henry Murger's comedy of "Le Serment d'Horace," and Offenbach's operette "Un Mari a La Porte." The cast of each of these plays appears on our first page.

FAREWELL BENEFIT TO SAM RICKEY.—Sam Rickey and Master Barney will take their farewell benefit at the Opera House on Monday evening. There are not two greater favorites in New York than these two inimitable Irish comedians. Sam Rickey first achieved fame in this city, and has since so elaborated his impersonation of the live Irishman of the day, that it has no equal on the stage. Master Barney is very successful in impersonating Irish women, and is the champion jig dancer of the day. These two worthy artistes are bound to have a bumper.

MONTGOMERY QUEEN'S GREAT SHOW.—The success of the great show has been unprecedented. The menagerie is show enough in itself to draw all the men, women and children in San Francisco to see it and the circus entertainment, for the variety of its acts, has seldom been surpassed. Miss Mollie Brown, Leopold and Geraldine, Sig'or Ferranti, Madame Tournair, Charles and Carrie Austin, Frank Barry, George Slowman, Mlle. Jeanette Elisler, the Belmont Brothers and all the others will appear at the matinee to-day and again this evening. There will be a rush, and in order to have time to see the animals it will be well to go early. One of the new features is Mlle. Jeanette Elisler's open-air aerial ascension every evening at 7 o'clock.

A NIGHT IN THE EMERALD ISLE.—On Monday August 3d, Baker's grand cloramic of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. T. McCarthy is business manager. This work will be placed on exhibition for five nights only.

NEW BELLA UNION THEATRE. — "The Waifs of New York," with its thrilling fire scene and very exciting railroad sensation, is a great success at this house. Miss Kate Raymond and C. B. Collins, are decided favorites, and the performances of Jim, the educated monkey, cause shouts of laughter. In addition to this attraction a capital First Part, and lively olio of songs acts and dances are given.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—An immense bill for Saturday and Sunday nights has been prepared at this popular place of amusement. Johnny Toers, Edward Barry, Frank Mortimer, Johnny Price, Miss Rose Vincent and a score of others will appear. The full programme is published on our first page.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS. — The Bedouin Arab Troupe recently arrived from the East, will appear here Saturday and Sunday.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice. Omnibuses will leave on SUNDAYS, at 9 o'clock A. M., from the corner of Market and Kearny streets, and every hour afterward, until 4 o'clock, from the corner of McAllister and Fillmore streets connecting with the Market Street and Hayes Valley cars, and from the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets by the way of City Front and Lone Mountain cars.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 1:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful specimens, illustrating the human anatomy, is now open to the public at Dr. Jordan's Museum, 615 Clay street. Ladies will find this museum a most interesting place to visit, as it contains many curiosities in the line of anatomical models, which are not to be found elsewhere in this city. Dr. Jordan has also a private office at 211 Geary street, where he treats all diseases requiring surgical skill, with success.

NOTES.—Langrish and Glenn's Black Crook company shortly to appear at Maguire's New Theatre, is composed of the following artistes: Mrs. J. K. Vernon, Eva West, Kitty Gilbert, Annie Mahon, Amelia J. Griffiths, Wm. Morrison, T. Harrington, F. S. Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. Langrishe; Jennette Prescher, premiere danseuse, supported by Miles. Barretta, Adelina Dressel and a ballet troupe; the Runnels Family, gymnasts, and Bonnie Runnels, Dutch comedian: Charles E. Dobson banjoist: Frank R. Clifton, gymnast; Frankie Etta, clog dancer; Frank Blanchett, contortionist; and Ernest Lorenzen, performer on wood and straw instruments. The scenery and costumes will shortly arrive here by steamer. Everything is entirely new and of the most gorgeous description.

Next Saturday Harry Andrews, whose fertile brain devises the entertainments which draw thousands every Saturday and Sunday to Woodward's Gardens, will have a benefit. He will offer a programme in which forty artists will take part. There will be fencing by Capt. Martin and others boxing and gymnastics by L. P. Ward, Monsieur Schmidt and Prof. Grust, an exhibition of the Hot Creek Indians, a new play written by Harry Andrews, entitled "Whiffles Under a Cloud;" Miss Georgie in a skating act; pupils of McCarthy's Dancing Academy in fancy dances, and a variety of other entertainments.

A. D. Billings, E. Lipsie, Miss Carrie Lipsie Charles Edmonds and wife, Miss Nellie Cummings and George Hinckley left on Thursday for Piper's Opera House, Virginia City. These with A. L. Sawtelle, W. G. Crosby, Robert Lindsay, W. G. Coggswell, Mr. Paine and Miss Adams (from the Salt Lake Theatre) will form an excellent company for Manager Piper's new season, which will open Monday, August 3d.

Lotta's engagement at the California Theatre will last two weeks longer. On Monday she will appear in her new drama entitled "Zip; or, Point Lynde Light." The Vokes Family will be the next attraction.

Howard Paul is said to be coming to California. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul, together, give a delightful entertainment. If he is coming professionally, Mrs. Howard Paul must come also.

The play of "Arrah Na Pogue," originally produced by Charles Wheatleigh in this city at the Metropolitan Theatre, is in preparation under his immediate superintendence at Maguire's New Theatre, and will be produced immediately after the withdrawal of "Notre Dame."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The season at the Opera House, Albany, under the management of Mr. J. W. Albaugh, will commence on September 7th, with the Lander Combination as the attraction.

The new Holliday Street Theatre, Baltimore, will be opened for the season on Monday, August 3d, with Boucicault's "After Dark" as the attraction.

The New York Dispatch says, speaking of Broughs: Lionel Brough, a brother of the late William and Robert Brough, and a comedian of great merit, will appear in this city next Spring. Miss Fanny Brough, of the principal London comedy theatres, will be a member of Booth's Theatre company next season.

Edwin Adams will be the first star at De Bar's Opera House, St Louis, next season, opening September 7th.

Mr. E. L. Davenport has purchased a farm property in Canton, Pa., and has removed there from Philadelphia with his family.

The Lander combination will play an engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, commencing August 21.

Miss Kitty Blanchard (Mrs. McKee Rankin), joins the company at Booth's next season.

The Lingards commence their next engagement at the Academy of Music, Chicago, on September 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams have gone to White Sulphur Springs for the Summer.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett will play at Bloomington, Ill., the first week of September.

He is much appreciated in Bloomington.

Miss Lillie Davenport (Mrs. Frost Thorne) is living elegantly in Chicago.

The Vokes Family return to Drury Lane Theatre, London, at Christmas.

The New Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, will be opened on September 7th.

Mrs. J. B. Booth opens her starring season in Cincinnati on October 5th.

Amusement news is scarce in New York. We clip the following important item from the amusement column of an exchange: A most interesting event occurred at Wood's Museum yesterday morning, being nothing less than the birth of a young monkey, the only case of the kind on record in the United States. The solicitude of the parent for the infant monkey is very great, and the interesting group will be a material addition to the Museum attractions.

The Summer Theatre Comique, Washington, D. C., did an immense business during the expired week, being crowded nightly to its full capacity This was due largely to the gratuitous advertising in the city papers of Manager Rodgers' leading danseuse, Miss Frankie Christie, whose recent marriage to a son of Rear-admiral Jenkins caused so great a sensation in the aristocratic circles of the city. Miss Christie has been unmercifully persecuted by newspaper gossip—so much so as to cause a revulsion of feeling in her favor on the part of the public, and made her ten times more popular with the patrons of the Comique.

James Taylor, London comique, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ware and their companies have consolidated, and desire to meet with a capitalist who will take them on a tour to California upon sharing terms.

Baby Benson has been engaged to travel next season with Harry Bloodgood's Combination.

W. Norris will be leading man at the St. Louis Olympic.

Frank Mayo and Ross Band, Springfield, Mass., August 17th, four nights.

W. Horace Lingard, Alice Dunning, Dickey Lingard, and E. E. Kidder, their agent, arrived in New York on the 14th.

Carlotta LeClercq appeared at the Theatre Royal Montreal, Canada on July 20th. The Herald says: After the amateurs and third rate actors, who have primed themselves off on us as first-class artists at the Theatre, it is quite a relief to see an artiste of such rare merit and excellence as Miss Carlotta LeClercq, who made her first appearance in Canada last night in the character of Mercy Merrick, in Wilkie Collins' dramatization of his own novel, "The New Magdalen." We have seen three different actresses assume this part in Montreal, in their different garbled versions of the work; but we have no hesitation in saying that we have never seen the drama of "The New Magdalen," nor the impersonation of the author's idea of Mercy Merrick until last night.

In the course of a half-column article, the same paper says many just things of Miss LeClercq. We select the following: Miss LeClercq displayed an enormous amount of quiet force, and acted with the utmost intensity without, for one moment, ranting or over-stepping the bounds of nature and art.

The Adelphi Theatre, Chicago, Ill., was destroyed by the conflagration which broke out in that city at half-past four o'clock on the afternoon by Theodore Thomas and his orchestra, under the management of Frank Aiken and Frank Lawlor. After a brief engagement of Mrs. Oates' Comedy Company, a regular dramatic season was commenced; but after a very brief period it terminated disastrously After the great fire which broke out there Oct. 9, 1871, it was confidently expected that when the burnt district was rebuilt, the business centre would move southerly. Had such been the case, Aiken's Theatre—which stood upon the corner of Wabash avenue and Congress street—would have been in a highly eligible location. But business did not so move, and the theatre was out of the way, and somewhat difficult of access. After Aiken & Lawlor retired from the management, it was occasionally opened, but ever without success, until some few months ago Leonard Grover and others opened it as a variety theatre, and christened it the Adelphi Mr Grover managed it with great success until he closed his season on the night of July 6th, receiving a benefit on that occasion.

The New York Clipper contains the following notice:

Managers desiring to negotiate with John T. Raymond for the production of his play of "The Gilded Age," dramatized by Mark Twain, can address his agent, John P. Smith, as per advertisement.

If Mark Twain has dramatized his work as cleverly as G. B. Densmore did, he has done well.

A Philadelphia paper says: Mr. Ciprico, a talented actor and estimable gentleman, has purchased from P. A. Fitzgerald the sole right to present his new play, called "Edmund Kean," in this country. The scene is laid in England about the year 1810, and Mr. Ciprico has a dual role, that of Reife, a gipsy, and Edmund Kean, the actor. The author of the play has assumed that Mr. Kean was of gipsy extraction, and around that assumption constructed a most interesting plot, full of novelty and dramatic point. The sketches of Kean's early strolling life are finally introduced and afford a proper background for the scenes presented. Mr. Ciprico will give this play to the public during the coming season, and we have no doubt of its success. He is a student and scholar as well as actor, and his portrait of Mr. Kean will no doubt be wonderfully attractive. Mr. Ciprico has given evidence of the possession of far more than ordinary dramatic talent, and in his new and unrestricted field of action these talents will be developed in a fuller, broader and more intellectual manner.

Signor Vallo of Philadelphia says that every day he is in receipt of letters asking for advice as to the best method of getting on the stage, to which he makes the following reply: First, talent and good appearance are indispensable qualifications; second, take lessons from some good teacher—learn all you can of stage business, dramatic reading, music, dancing, fencing, French, German, Spanish and English pronounciation, etc. After you have become proficient in the above, if you have money enough you may then begin as a star; but if you have no money, then begin as stock; take any position the manager will offer you; don't stand upon terms or line of business; and my word for it you will soon make your mark. I give the above advice on the principle that every person should follow that profession or business for which he has the most talent for, no matter what friends or those in the profession or business may say to the contrary, if you have talent for anything—if it is only whistling through a comb—pursue it, and success is yours. It is the same in all professions as it is in politics—those who are in don't won't any more. If the young would take the advice of the old, in this respect, they would never learn anything, for according to their ideas every trade and profession is over-crowded. In fact, some will go so far as to say that there are altogether too many people in the world. Don't believe it my young friends; there is plenty of room—up front."

Alf. Burnett and Miss Nash where among the passengers by the Utopia which sailed for England on July 18. Alf. goes to make faces at the Britishers.

Charles Howard will appear at the National theatre, Washington, D. C., July 20, and continue one week in "After the War; or, Life in the South."

Miss Belle Howitt is to resume her position as leading burlesque lady at Wood's Museum on Aug. 3.

The Kiralfy Brothers, who are to present several attractions at Niblo's Garden early in the Fall have engaged a popular leading English actress, Miss Julia Seaman, who will play the role of Satan in a spectacular drama entitled "Paradise Lost." They will also bring over a powerful and carefully-selected company to support her. The scenery will be new, and painted from designs by the best Italian, French and English artists. New costumes have been made by the costumers of the Grand Opera Houses in Paris and Vienna, from designs by Gustave Dore, Irean and Imre Kiralfy. They have also secured, with all their accessories, the new edition of "Orphee aux Enfer" and the spectacle of "Aika," in which Miss Julia Seaman achieved so great a success when it was produced at the Alhambra, London, Eng., under the title of "The Black Crook."

Olive Logan (Mrs. Wirt Sykes) arrived from Paris, France, in the steamship Adriatic, July 19th.

E. A. Locke, the comedian, is to be married at Rochester, N. Y., on July 28, to a young lady of Detroit, Mich.

Frank Mayo, is at Minnequa Springs, Pa.

Led Astray in London.

In regard to Boucicault's "Led Astray," which was produced at the Gaiety on the 1st, the Era says: "On March 19, 1860, was produced at the Vaudeville Theatre, Paris, a comedy in five acts and six tableaux, entitled "La Tentation," illustrative of the consequences likely to ensue—from a French point of view—from the union in marriage of a couple of unsympathetic souls—the husband, blunt, outspoken, fond of his club, and addicted to sport; the wife, sensitive, dreamy, poetic, and persuading herself that she is deserving of commiseration and pity from all by whom she is surrounded. In June of the same year the French company, of whom M. Brindeau and Mlle. Duverger were the principals, brought the piece from the congenial atmosphere of Paris and presented it to an English audience in its native dress at the St. James Theatre, under the direction of M. Talexy. Subsequently Mr. Tom Taylor produced an English version of the play at the Adelphi, under the title of "The House or the Home," with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wigan in the principal parts; while in October, 1866, Mr. John Oxenford changed the scene of the story to English soil, made the various dramatis personæ English men and English women; as a necessary consequence had to make certain modifications in his treatment of the plot, and produced it at the Haymarket with the title of "A Dangerous Friend." Mr. and Mrs. C. Mathews, Mr. Howe, Mr. Kendal, (his first appearance on the London boards) and Mrs. Chippendale, being engaged in the cast.

"Thus "Tentation" may be looked upon as a very old acquaintance, and playgoers may be pardoned their surprise when it was discovered that "Led Astray," by Dion Boucicault, produced at the Union Square Theatre, New York, on the 6th of December last, was none other than that old friend with a new name. On the opening night at the theatre just mentioned, Mr. Boucicault was reported to have uttered some idle platitudes about a contemplated return to the legitimate drama, and we smiled to think that such a return was to be commenced by 'Led Astray."

John McCullough in New York.

Mr. McCullough's new play, which will open the season at Booth's Theatre on August 10, is becoming the principal topic of conversation in theatrical circles. The play, as everybody ought to know by this time, was written by Mr. Boucicault especially for Mr. McCullough, and the former gentleman takes so deep an interest in it that he has crossed the raging main to superintend the rehearsal. Mr. Boucicault has already commenced to fill the newspapers with assurances as to the originality of his last effort, and it is, he declares, the "best he ever wrote." We are informed that the forthcoming play is a domestic love story, founded upon incidents of the late rebellion. The manuscript is still in the hands of Mr. McCullough, and no one but himself and Mr. Boucicault knows aught of its context. We can, however, give to our readers, in advance, as usual, of all our contemporaries, the full and accurate list of the ladies and gentlemen who will take part in its representation. They are as follows: John McCullough, Dion Boucicault, Owen Marlowe, F. F. Mackay, J. E. Irving, Charles Leclercq, Miss Katherine Rogers, Miss Fannie Brough, and Miss Kittie Blanchard. This is certainly a cast of remarkable strength, and it will be a bad piece indeed that fails achieve success with so much talent. We shall see what we shall see.

What Cheer Laundry

Gaylor's Latest Production.

The New York Spirit of the Times says: A play entitled "With the Tide," with Mr. Charles Gaylor's name attached to it as author, and Miss Kate Mayhew in the leading part, was presented on Monday evening at this theatre. A good audience was in attendance. That they did not "guy" the piece was doubtless owing to the fact that nine tenths of them held complimentary tickets of admission, and treated the play and nearly all of the actors with phenomenal forbearance. The play was in a prologue and four acts. In the prologue Miss Mayhew was introduced as a sort of "Nan the Good for-Nothing" orphan girl, who threw tomatoes at another orphan, and played with a toy-turtle. When she wearied of this diverting and side-splitting fun, she sang a song or two and did a little of the almost obsolete song and dance business. The prologue ends by the orphan girl's adoption by "a wealthy lady of Virginia." If our readers fancy that it is our intention to give them in detail the subsequent plot of "With the Tide," they will fall into a grievous error, for Thomas and J. M. Morton, relieved us of that duty when, some twenty-odd years ago, they wrote a two-act comic drama entitled "All that Glitters is not Gold." And, as usual, it devolves on The Spirit to inform the public of that fact. Mr. Gaylor, with masterly assurance, has appropriated the salient features of that pretty play, and after altering some of the characters and changing its venue, has presented it to the public as a creation of his own. When the Mortons wrote their play they had the wit to write in a single act (the second) what Mr. Gaylor's prolixity has spun out into four, and what was wit in their brevity becomes balder-dash in Mr. Gaylor's desultoriness. The greater portion of the play is made up of glittering and brilliant epigrams like these: He-will-not-come! Ah-he-is-here! Will-she-come? She-is-here! and so on ad infinitum. The play might possibly—not probably—receive some attention in those rural cities whose denizens applaud inexplicable dumb show, and grow ecstatic over inane ebullitions of diluted nonsense, but in metropolitan cities it will meet with nothing but condemnation and derision.

Miss Mayhew is a little actress who certainly possesses considerable emotional power, but she is crude and amateurish in a star part, and her abilities are crushed under the weight of so bad a piece. She sings very nicely and exhibits much intelligence, and the pity is that if she must star she has not some more fitting play with which to display her talents than the weak plagiarism in which she is now appearing. The support, with the exception of Mr. Henry Dalton, who made the most of a Stephen-Plum part, and strove hard to do something with it, and Mr. W. H. Lytelle, who "doubled" in the play and gave a very creditable personation of a negro servant, was very bad; so bad, in fact, that out of charity for the performers we refrain from mentioning their names. The title to the play might just as well have been "Up in a Balloon" as "With the Tide," so far as appropriateness is concerned. We will make a suggestion to Mr. Gaylor while on the subject of the title of his play—let him call it "With the Which," and our word for it, that title will prove infinitely more suitable.

Religious Music.

A Philadelphia clergyman hopes the Lord will forgive him when he announces, "Let us continue our worship this morning by listening to a piece of sheet music which the hired quartette will please execute."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gerville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Ear Piercing.

The piercing of a child's ears for the purpose of its being enabled to wear earrings has resulted in its death in Liverpool, England. About three weeks before its death the child's ears were pierced with a stocking needle. A few days after a blister appeared behind one of the ears, then the jaw began to swell, and the child died in great pain. The medical evidence showed that death was the result of exhaustion consequent upon the intense inflammation caused by the piercing of the ears. Mothers may learn from this that it is dangerous to inflict this sort of torture on their children. The fact that earring wearing is a relic of barbarism doesn't seem to affect them very much.

Sentimental Grievances.

A haughty tone, a rude address, says a writer in the Cornhill on "Sentimental Grievances," bruises no muscles, causes no physical pain, like the pangs of hunger or the misery of a drought; but it hurts all the same; and if, as the proverb says, hard words break no bones, they none the less wound that self esteem which lies at the root of half our sentimental grievances.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The present week is the last but one of the engagement of the California favorite, Miss Lotta. This evening, she will appear in the title role of a comic drama in three acts written for her by Fred Marsden, and entitled "Zip; or, Point Lynde Light." She will be supported by Henry Edwards Robert Pateman Nelson Decker, Miss Fillie Wilton, Mrs Sophie Edwin, T. W. Keene. Walter Leman and others whose names appear on our first page. Among the musical and terpsichorean features of the piece are "Fishes and Crabs," an operatic medley from Offenbach, and La Frica see from "La Fille de Madame Angot" by Lotta and Robert Pateman and a French song with piano accompaniment by Lotta.

Opera House.

To night for the benefit of these inimitable Irish comedians, Sam Rickey and Master Barney, an extraordinarily attractive bill will be presented. It is published in full on our first page. Among the numerous attractions we may mention the screaming farce of "Bad Whiskey" in which both Sam Rickey and Master Barney will appear, and General Decker and Little Mac will have a sparring match. The General is considerably shorter than Little Mac, but hopes to get away with him. Ed. Murray and Miss Alice Ross have volunteered, and will appear in "Barney's Courtship," Sam Rickey and Master Barney will perform the double song and dance entitled "The Mulcahy Twins," and altogether an immense entertainment will be given. There will be no standing room after eight o'clock

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night is announced as the last in which the brilliantly successful play, of "Notre Dame," will be presented. Those who have not yet seen Mr. Charles Wheatleigh as Quasimodo, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Esmeralda and Edward Arnot, G. W. Coggswell and others in the characters in which they acquitted themselves so admirably last week, would seize this opportunity. To-morrow night "Arrah-Na-Pogue" is announced with Charles Wheatleight in his great part of Shaun, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Arrah and Harry Thompson in his wonderful impersonation of Michael Feeny, New scenery has been painted and the play will be produced in excellent style.

A Night in the Emerald Isle.

To-night August 3d, Baker's grand diorama of Ireland, presenting views of the principal points of interest in that most interesting and beautiful of islands will be exhibited at Pacific Hall. V. McCarthy is business manager. This work will be placed on exhibition for five nights only. In the course of the evening Mrs. W. F Baker will sing "Oh, Erin my Country" and other ballads.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

A new programme of equestrian and gymnastic acts, and specialties will be presented at this wonderfully popular place of amusement at the matinee to-day and again this evening. The novelties introduced will comprise the first appearance of Miss Lizzie Stemple in her "Skipping Rope Jig" and also the first appearance of Romeo Sebastian in a principal somersault act. The price of admission to all parts of the house at the matinees has been reduced to fifty cents, children half price. To the evening performances the rates of admission will be one dollar, reserved seats a dollar and a half, family circle fifty cents, children twenty-five cents. The Howard and Mission street cars are free to all going to the great show. Tickets bought of the conductors include the fare

Bella Union Theatre.

The exciting sensational play of "The Waifs of New York" in which Miss Kate Raymond and O. B. Collins have made such a hit at this house will be repeated this evening, with a lively First Part and olio in which H. R. Archer, Val Mandeville, Miss Maggie St Clair and others will appear. The Bella Union Theatre is crowded nightly.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Among the acts to be performed to-night by Johnny Tuerr, Frank Mortimore, John Kelly and others, are "School," "That Quiet Hotel," "Diamond Cut Diamond," and "Two Alike."

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Miss Georgie Loomis, formerly a member of the California Theatre company, who has been playing with good success in Chicago, arrived here last night.

Mlle. Aimee had a splendid house on the occasion of her farewell benefit at the California Theatre. The performance was all that could be desired, and the fair beneficiary received much applause and many bouquets.

At the matinee at Maguire's New Theatre on Saturday when "Notre Dame" was performed, the house was crowded to repletion.

Leopold, the famous gymnast has recovered from his recent accident. He received much applause to night.

Lingard and Glenn's Black Crook Company have all arrived The scenery and costumes are also here and the season will commence at Maguire's New Theatre, on Monday evening next. The names of the artistes forming the company were published in FIGARO on Saturday, and may be found in an advertisement on our first page.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 212 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. N

COMETARY QUESTIONS.

[The Arcadian offers a clever poem with the above title from which we make a few extracts.]

Say, does Sirius hold a mortal, wiser, take him all in all,
Than that beautiful old fossil who succeeded Oakey Hall?
Is a Bergh found in a dog-star? Have they hydrophobia there?
Is the planetary female troubled with the rage to vote?
Or do stellar men and women travel in the self-same boat?
Is there any "Brooklyn Sorrow" in the orbits you have crossed?
Do the constellations tremble with a Tilton "tempest tossed?"
Will the Jupiterian critic in an eligible berth,
Take a bribe, or scorn to take it, like the critics here on earth?
Do the playwrights up in Venus on each other's grounds intrench?
Or has she a "master spirit" always borrowing from the French?
Are there any Doctor Mary Walkers in the central blue?
Do they move in animal trousers, or, if not, what do they do?
Are there any firmamental Tribunes, "leading" once, of course, I mean,
Whose real rates of advertising are the lowest ever seen?

A Cordial Reception.

It appears when Mr. Bogy was elected to the Senatorial chair from Kentucky, his son, Colonel Joe Bogy, was rather more elated than his father, and with a natural pride in the paternal success, alluded to it on all occasions. He spoke of his father frequently as the successor of Mr. Benton, and himself as the son of his father.

One night, after a discourse of this nature, a crony, a sleepy sort of a chap, remarked that he had been the victim of a peculiar dream a few nights previous, and on being pressed related it.

"I dreamed," said he, "I dreamed I died and went to heaven, and when the angel at the gate asked me who I was, I told him. He pointed to a place and told me to wait there; that my turn would come in a few hundred years. While I was waiting I saw Joe coming. Said the angel: "Who are you?"

"Don't you know me?" says Joe; "I am Colonel Joe Bogy, son of Senator Bogy, of Missouri, the successor of Mr. Benton. You know me."

"Certainly, Colonel Bogy," replied the angel, "come in, we've been expecting you. Walk right in."

"So Joe walked up to the throne, and the Almighty looked at him. "Who are you?" he asked.

"I'm Colonel Joe Bogy, son of Senator Bogy, of Missouri, who succeeded Mr. Benton."

"Indeed," responded the Lord; "I'm glad to see you; Christ, my, son, get up and give Colonel Joe your seat."

The Senator seemed to enjoy the story as heartily as anybody.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Something for the Post.

A temperance lecture of great power was delivered in Boston the other evening. There was not a large audience, as it was delivered in the night, but the lecture was very emphatic. The lecturer was a young woman of only 21 years of age, recently married. She drank until intoxication ensued, and then in her delirium threw herself from the fourth story of a boarding house, striking on a glass roof three stories down, and crashing to the ground a disfigured corpse.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny stree s entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-I

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply, and state company and regiment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty under Act of July 28, 1866, to January 1875 so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 2d, 1861, for three years, if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to her living veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. H. Impertinence.

The dramatic critic of the Call is really stepping outside of his duties when he undertakes to criticise the clowns at the circus. No doubt he thinks he could do better himself but we doubt it. It is much easier to write silly things for a newspaper than to say silly things in a circus ring, and get people to laugh at them. The Call's critic does not like the brusque style of Nat Austin, and says it is "abrupt and bordering on harshness. It is this very brusquerie which gives effect to the jester's sayings. The other critics have objected to the appearance of Madame Tournaire in the ring to direct the equestrian act of Little Miss Mollie Brown. The Call critic thinks she snaps her whip too often. Madame Tournaire directs this act not for the purpose of exhibiting herself, but because no one can direct it as well as she can. The whip is "snapped" just often enough to keep the horse up to the regular pace. Considering the risk attending all circus performances it would be well if the critics were more in sympathy with the performers. One snap of the whip too little might cost a life. Don't meddle with the management of the ring, gentlemen until you know something about it.

Important Evidence.

The editor of the Grass Valley Union says: We have received a letter from a mad female. She appears to have been very mad when she wrote. She writes as if she had tarantula blood about, in some of her veins. She is mad with us because she says that we have not yet said that we believe that Beecher didn't. She informs us that she knew Beecher for years and years, in Brooklyn, and that he never did anything like even cast a wicked look on her. The mad female does not send us her name and we, therefore, do not print her foaming epistle. We think, however, she is quite right so far as her case is concerned. To judge by her style of writing no man would approach her. Her beauty would protect her always. Had she lived in the days of King David and been, then, the wife of Uriah, the Hittite, and had the King seen her washing, Uriah would never have been sent out to be put into the fore front of the battle to be slain. Had she lived then and been Mrs. Uriah, the Lord would never had to have sent Nattan unto David to relate that beautiful story about the pet lamb and and to wind it up by saying to David, as about all the people are saying to Beecher, "thou art the man."

Denying His Wives.

The war cry in Salt Lake City during the present election for Congressman is as follows:

Vote not for this traitor "Cad"
Who when in Washington
Was asked how many wives he had,
And he swore he had but one!

This refers to Cannon, the present delegate, who, in order to be eligible for Congress, dropped three of his four "wives," and declared he had but one. He says a "wife by any other name is full as sweet." The wives whom he doesn't call "wives," will, however, be sure to vote against him if they can.

Mules and Women.

Some unknown person writes to me as follows:

Mr. M. Quad:—Please advise me in your next column what to do with a kicking mule, shall I pound him or not?

My wife is also treacherous as the mule. I believe her tongue is hung in the middle and flies at both ends. L. L. P.

My dear man, you have come to just the right person for honest advice. If you had written to Henry Ward Beecher, Wendell Phillips or Dio Lewis, they would never have paid any attention to your letter, or would have deceived you if they had. I know all about women and mules. In fact I married a mu—woman I mean, and have owned more or less mules since my birth.

No sir, don't pound your mule. I know it is customary for owners of mules to commence on the animal at sunrise with a crowbar and pound him until bedtime, but I have always found kindness more successful. Seek to gain the friendship of your mule, and as soon as you succeed you can do anything with him. When you go in the barn in the morning have a kind word for him, instead of knocking him down with a neck-yoke. Ask after the health of his family—show him that you are interested in his welfare—be civil and yet dignified, and as soon as that mule finds out that some one in this cold world loves him he will be a different mule.

All mules kick, my dear sir, just as all men love to hold a fat office; but there's a remedy for it. Get an old stove boiler, fill it with bricks, and hang it by a rope so that it will just swing against the animals heels. Every time he kicks it will fly back like the pendulum of a clock, and the patience of the most enduring mule will in time wear out. I tried this once, and the mule kicked for twenty-four days and nights before it surrendered, but after that you might run a steamboat on to his heels and he wouldn't raise a hoof.

Feed your mule well. I know of farmers who throw a keg of nails or an old soap-pan into the manger, and expect a mule to grow fat on such forage; but it embitters their feelings, and make them more set in their ways. Of course, I don't say you must feed a mule on fried eggs, currant jelly, raisin cake, and the like of that, but don't expect he can feed on rails, and feel enthusiastic all the time.

About your wife. Don't try to stop her from talking unless you want to kill her. It's natural for women to talk, sir. My first wife used to nearly kill me; but I now remember with strict grief how I deliberately planned her death. I bet ten dollars that she couldn't keep right on talking for three weeks, and she commenced. I had to go away from home, but she was a woman who wouldn't lie, and I trusted to her honor. I returned home at the end of three weeks. There was no one around the house, but on the chair where I left my dear wife sitting, was a corset, a dress, a dozen buttons and a back- comb—the last sad relics of my loving partner. She had talked herself to death, and as I began to weep, the corset spoke up and said:

"Come down with that little ten dollars if you please."—M. Quad

Society Manners.

When a "gentleman" slanders a "lady" in Hamburg, N. J., the fair one welts him over the head with a board full of sharp nails, and that makes the gentleman wish he'd held his tongue.

A Clerical Sportsman.

A Troy clergyman went a-fishing the other day, but had no luck. On his return he stood his pole and line up against the house and in a short time caught a hen.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind"?

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Not Afraid of Dying.

A writer in Temple Bar says:

The Chinese are almost indifferent to the phenomenon of dissolution, and frequently compass their own end when life becomes wearisome. A wife sometimes elects to follow her husband on the starlit road to death; and parents will destroy their offspring in times of famine and great distress rather than allow them to suffer.

It would not be a bad thing if Christians kicked up less fuss about dying and became a little less afraid of "the phenomenon of dissolution." There seems to be a more vital faith in the immortality of the soul among heathen than among Christians. The Chinaman believes that he does not die but simply loses his body. This may or may not be an inconvenience to him according to circumstances. Such a belief if it became general, would add to the happiness of the world and need not interfere at all with the true principles of Christianity. It is not, however, a profitable doctrine for preachers who trade upon the fear of death.

Not Exactly the Case.

The New York Herald, one of the chief religious papers of New York, commenting on the trouble in Brookly says:

There would be little to tempt anyone to a life of effort and self-denial, if, in a day, by unfounded accusation, by successful slander and persistent calumny, the results of such a life could be overthrown.

We cannot see what the above paragraph has to do with Henry Ward Beecher. There is very little effort in anything he does, and therefore he does it; as to self-denial he neither preaches it nor practises it. "Successful slander and persistent calmny" cannot overthrow the results of a life of effort and self-denial. If Brecher falls he will owe his fall to a lack of self-denial.

A Healthy Place.

Chicago has had a searching analysis of its household groceries, and one of the city papers now learnedly discourses of wood for tea, peas for coffee, plaster for baking powder, lard for butter, and chemicals for syrup.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

A great bill will be presented to-night at this popular place of amusement. Ben Cotton and Billy Arlington will appear in the first part and also in the very laughable sketch of "The Watch Dog," Bobby Newcomb will present his original song and dance "The Big Sunflower," composed by himself, Billy Arlington will perform a banjo solo, Miss Lulu Delmay will sing new songs, and Billy Rice, Con. T. Murphy and others will present "Scenes at a Hospital."

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night Charles Wheatleigh will appear at this house in his great character of Shaun the Post, in the play of "Arrah-na-Pogue," which, when produced by him at the Metropolitan Theatre a number of years ago, had a run of sixty nights. Miss Jeffreys Lewis will play Arrah Meelish, Harry Thompson will appear in his great specialty of Michael Feeney, and E. J. Buckley will play Oliver Farrell, a character in which we do not believe he has an equal on the stage. New scenery has been painted, and the play will be produced in perfect style. The full cast is published on our first page.

California Theatre.

"Zip; or Point Lynde Light," which was produced at this theatre last night with Lotta as the irrepressible Zip proved quite a success. 'Zip" is one of those lively dramas which depend for their success on striking situations, telling business and introduced specialties rather than either plot or dialogue. At the close of the first act where Zip swings herself by a rope over a gulf of waters and relights the Lynde light which had been extinguished by wreckers, the applause was terrific. The other great and decided success of the play was the daring version of "La Fricassee from "La Fille de Madame Angot" which was executed by Lotta and Mr. Fateman with all the abandon of the original. Mr Fateman as Jack, the philosophica footman, fairly divided the honors with the star winning his full share of applause. T. W. Keene as the Hon. Chauncey Elmore had not much of a part and did not make much of it. Nelson Decker as Jules Galetti, did some excellent acting, and his Italian accent was very good indeed. John Wilson did his villainous business with his usual skill. Miss Billie Wilton acted the part of Fanny Elkton very pleasingly, and Miss Louisa Johnson impersonated with such skill the character of the affected old 'young' lady, Miss Amanda Lovelace that the gallery expressed its abhorrence of "folks who put on airs" by loud expressions endorsing the faithfulness of the portraiture. Altogether "Zip" was quite a success and should run through the week.

Pacific Hall.

Baker's entertainment entitled "A Night in the Emerald Isle," was much enjoyed at this hall last night. The pictures are well painted, the lecture was succinct and instructive, and the songs by Mr. Henry Baker and Mrs. W. F. Baker, were exceedingly well sung. Those who wish to pay a visit to the Emerald Isle, at small expense, and to recall the scenes of their youth, can do so by going to Pacific Hall.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

The reduced prices of admission and the increased attractions drew immense crowds to the pavilion at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, both at the matinee and evening performance. Romeo Sebastian, the new somersault rider, gained much applause for his graceful and daring act, and the Skipping Rope Jig by Miss Lizzie Stemple, was a novel and entertaining performance. There will be a matinee and evening performance to-day.

Bella Union Theatre.

That clever and attractive actress, Miss Kate Raymond will appear for a few nights longer in the character of Willie in "The Waifs of New York," and O. S. Collins will appear as the faithful Hans. A new play is in preparation. Those who have not yet seen the railroad sensation and the great fire scene should pay a visit to the Bella Union Theatre.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Among the new features of the performance at this house, may be mentioned "Lucy di Seiree," by Mortimore, Johnny Price, Harry Devoy and Miss Maggie Brewer and "Ned Buckly's Regular Army," by Johnny Tuers, Ed Barry, John Kelly, Harry Devoy, Frank Mortimore and Frank Runey. On Friday evening, John O. Arnold's new version of the "North Ward Beecher Scandal" will be brought out.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Ali Ben Abdallah troupe of Bedouin Arabs, one of the greatest attractions ever presented at this place, appear again Saturday and Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

The last performance of the Marrionettes at Platt's Hall, will take place on Saturday next, and will be for the benefit of the Treasurer, Mr. John Hunter. He will celebrate the occasion by giving a banquet to the actors and actresses, who have all volunteered on this occasion.

Sam Rickey and Master Barney had a capital benefit last night, and gave an admirable entertainment. "Bad Whiskey" was performed in excellent style and drew roars of laughte. Ed Murray and Miss Alice Ross, who appeared in "Barney's Courtship," was well received, and General Charles Decker, 24 years of age, to whom Little Mac appears a giant, acquitted himself well in a sparring match with the latter.

Little Mollie Brown performed a bareback somersault last night and will repeat it at every entertainment during the week.

The Black Crook Company who arrived yesterday on the Constitution, enjoyed a very pleasant passage, and are loud in their praises of Captain Austin who did everything possible to make them comfortable.

Charles Wheatleigh will take a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, on Friday evening next.

The big entertainment and ball for the benefit of Henry Andrews takes place on Saturday evening at Woodwards. The Hot Creek Indians will appear.

Madame Clara Antonis, de Paris, Business and Medical Clairvoyant and Independent Trance Medium, 134½ Post street, near Dupont. Correct diagnosis and special attention to the treatment of diseases. Consultations in French, German and English. 6 o

IN THE DESERT.

The sands of the desert glowed hot and red,
The sun of the desert beat down,
Till it blistered the top of the Carmelite's head —
Just the round shaven spot on his crown.

An Arab swept up, bare-chested and brown,
"My tent door stands open," he said,
The monk found a wine-skin under his gown,
The Arab brought dates and bread.

"Kind Allah, we thank thee!" the Arab cried,
When our simple repast was spread.
I fell to at once, but the monk replied,
"Nay, Sheik, thank the Lord instead!"

Then the two argued loud and the two argued long
As to how their grace should be said;
But before they had got at the right or the wrong
I had finished both dates and bread.

When they turned to me, I could not declare
On a point so exceedingly fine,
But I rode away on the Arab's mare
With my friend the Carmelite's wine.

Just where my thanks are due I cannot decide,
But honors are easy, I think;
So Allah I thank for the mare I ride,
The Lord for the wine I drink.

Something Must be Done.

Two men being overtaken by a severe thunder storm in a field took shelter under a tree. They were much frightened at the loud thunder and lightning so close to them. One turned upon the other and said, "Look here, Jim, can you pray? "No," said Jim, "I do not know anything at all about praying. Have never tried to make a prayer since I was a small boy. "Just at this moment came a louder clap than ever which seemed to crush through the trees over their heads." "Well," said the first speaker, "something must be done, and that devilish quick too!"

A Weak but Willing Advocate.

Henry Ward Beecher has no more faithful friend than the poor little Post of this city. It will not believe anything wrong of him. It does not believe he could do wrong. It is shocked at the horrid, cruel stories that are told about him, and won't believe one of them. The Post had inscribed on its banner "Temperance and Beecher." The consequence of this will be that Mr. Jones will have to come out with more money. It is rather expensive to run a paper in this style.

Christian Sympathy.

A Charlestown baby fell out of bed on a recent morning, and, during the next three hours, eight women in the neighborhood made twenty-three inquiries concerning its health, and its mother had to drop it twenty-three times and go to the front window to answer. This is Christian sympathy.

A Good Idea.

The Graphic wants a world's target-shoot, believing that when our almond-eyed brother of the far East learns to hit the bull's eye at every shot, he will have his rights as well respected as if his skin was white.

Too Severe.

It may not be generally known, says a Chicago paper, that the enormous arches which support the Chicago and St. Louis bridge were copied from a cast taken from the instep of a prominent St. Louis belle.

A Pleasing Experiment.

A Pennsylvania farmer states that he cured his daughter of the Grecian bend by pouring water on her, and holding her out in the sun till she warped back again.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
White mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-x

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. Janin's Hieroglyphics.

Jules Janin wrote an extraordinary hand, The characters were formed with some care, but had not their like in any known alphabet There were only two compositors on the Journal des Debats who could decipher them. When he contributed to other papers he dictated to his wife. One day he wrote to a friend, who, after an immense amount of trouble, managed to make out a few words, from which he supposed that the letter was from the eminent critic. He hastened to Passy and was greeted by the writer:—"Ah, you have read my letter, I see." "No, I have not," was the reply; "I am come to ask you to read it to me." Janin good humoredly and seriously held out his hand for the document, and said, "I will try."

Talent for California.

The Spirit of the Times says: Mr. John Dillon will shortly take his farewell benefit at the Chicago Academy and start on a California tour under the management of Mr. John Blaisdell. We heartily commend both of these excellent actors to our readers on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Dillon is a comedian of rare powers, and were he surrounded by the proper influences would doubtless take his place at the head of American low comedians. In Irish parts he is especially good; indeed, when John Dillon is himself he is irresistibly comic in all his personations. Mr. Blaisdell is an old Chicago favorite, an actor of merit and experience, and a courteous and pleasant gentleman.

Evading the Prohibitory Liquor Law

Necessity is the maternal parent of invention. Since the prohibitory ordinance went in force in Bloomington, Ill., a certain doctor has sold a large number of bottles bearing this label: "Dr. ——'s Rabe, the best purifier ever in market. A sure cure against chronic sores and skin diseases, scrofula and consumption in general. The best remedy of the age for all sickness deriving from an impure state of the blood. Directions: Four times daily; two ounces before each meal and before going to bed." The local editor of the Telegraph, who is a good judge in such matters says: "If it isn't a first-rate article of Bourbon it smells like it.

Dishonest St. Louis.

A stranger gets puzzled in St. Louis. He picks up the St. Louis Democrat, and finds that he is reading a Republican paper. Incensed at the fraud, he casts it aside, and, grasping the St. Louis Republican finds that he is reading a Democratic paper. Then he rings the bell violently for the hall-boy, and wants to know "if everything in St. Louis is a brazen deceit."

An Expert.

In a little town in Missouri, a lady teacher was exercising a class of juveniles in mental arithmetic. She commenced the question, "If you buy a cow for ten dollars——" when up came a little hand. "What is it, Johnny?" "Why, you can't buy no kind of a cow for ten dollars; father sold one for sixty dollars the other day, and she was a regular old scrub at that."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Hard Case.

The New York Dispatch says: "Loving Aggie" wants to know what we would do in a case like hers. She had kept company with a young man for several months. She had learned to love him dearly. Then he asked her to become his own dear wife. She consented. Since that she has learned that within a month past he has asked two other young women to become his wife, and each of them is under the impression that she alone holds all his heart. "Now," ask Loving Aggie, "if you were in my place what would you do?" The next time that young man called we'd invite him into the parlor, and talk lovingly to him, and have him squeeze us, and we'd have our dress chock full of pins. And then we'd remonstrate with him on his perfidy, and we'd elevate the music stool and mash his head with it, and stick the tuning fork into the part of his pants where they're widest, and finish by emptying a package of blotting sand down his back. Or else we'd invite the other two objects of his wiles to meet him in the parlor, and we'd all three state our grievances to him, and get excited at his villainy, and commence pulling his hair and whiskers and mustache, and tearing his shirt-bosom, and mussing his collar, and coloring his coat from the pearl powder on our arms, and we'd end up by asking in the old man, and tell him the story and request him to exercise his feet on him. We would cure that fellow of ever trifling with the hearts of innocent young women, if we were one of the sorely abused and betrayed females.

"Style" in St. Louis.

A St. Louis Jenkins goes into details over the toilets of a recent ball, with the following result: "Miss A——a: Dressed in a straw-colored moire antique a la poult de soie, with a puff up behind cornerwise. Miss B—— b: Snuff-colored rose geranium tulle, with cross-eyed lace-work in the seam joining in a tuck on the decollette waist, a la Pompadour. Miss C——c: Hoop la corsage, with buttons to match, feu de joie of live-colored velvet on the rampage up and down the middle. Miss D——d: Quilted skirt, worked in boot-jack quilting, corsage equipoise with a left-handed bias looking at it on the gored side. Miss E——e: Chignon of hair, with arrow-root fringe, skirt of gamboge swiss, with slippery elm ruche a la Louis Quatorze. Miss F——f: The most architectural costume in the room—pannier immense, Globe, Times and Dispatch—vol au vent of pink ribbon, zigzag frise, with game rooster couchant. Mrs. G——g: Black-and-tan overskirt and pozziolo powder on cheeks, white gloves cleaned a la benzine, number twelve slippers and palm-leaf fan."

Imprudent.

It isn't always best to tell the truth, no matter what moralists may say. A young gentleman discovered this fact in Fourteenth street the other day. He was going along the sidewalk very deliberately, when a man shoving a baby's carriage drove it right between his legs and threw him down. He picked himself up, looked at the author of his downfall with flashing eye, and remarked, "You're a d—d fool." Now there isn't the slightest doubt but that he told the truth. Still, the result wasn't pleasant. For the baby-carriage shover smote him in the eye, and again he reclined on the sidewalk. He has since sworn off speaking the truth.

A Sanctimonious Bore.

It is the Rev. Arthur Winship who wants to know if you would smoke "on your dying bed." Smoke anywhere rather than have the Rev. Arthur twaddling around.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Profligate.

There was a recklessly extravagant Jerseyman in the Detroit Central Depot. While waiting to go through, the old gentleman and his wife seemed loving enough, until he went out and returned smoking a five-cent cigar, and with his hat slanting over his left ear. The wife looked at him twice before she could recognize him, and then opened her mouth and said: "What'd I tell ye, Philetus Remington, before we left New Jersey? Didn't I say you'd go and make a fool of yourself the first chance you got?" He tried to pacify her by saying that the cigar only cost five cents, but she shouted: "You teased and teased and teased till I let you git your boots blacked; and then you wanted some soda water; and then you bought apples on the train; and here's another five cents thrown away! It all counts up, and if you don't die in the poor-house then my name hain't Sary!"

The Cats of Grass Valley.

The Grass Valley Union says: Bob Smith has a lot of cats and he has been studying the nature of each individual of the lot in order to give each an appropriate name. The result is that he has named a very fascinating and festive cat "Henry Ward Beecher;" he calls a pensive pussy "Elizabeth," and a wayward and vascillating fellow has been christened "Theodore Tilton." There is another that he calls "Victoria Woodhull," but just now Vic. can not be interviewed, she declining to see any company. We are sorry that the cats of this town are scandalized by the Brooklyn sensation, but such things can not be helped.

Rest! Rest!

The tomb of Abelard and Heloise, in Pere-la-Chaise is to be restored. The present tomb was constructed about fifty years ago by a M. Lenoir, but it has fallen into a deplorable state of dilapidation. These celebrated lovers have not been allowed to rest in peace even in death. Six times have their remains been removed from place to place, and now, as a last persecution, they must, forsooth, be restored." Why not cremate them? Some young ladies and gentlemen would doubtless supply the fire of love to do the job.

Who Can Tell?

The Post says the Chronicle "disgraces itself" by "gratuitously" disparaging a lady, referring to its gross attack of Mrs. Paraf. The Post should be careful in its assertions. If the Chronicle does this gratuitously, it certainly would disgrace itself, but there is no proof that there was not "money in it."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Arrah-na-Pogue" was produced last night with a strong cast and beautiful scenery. Mr. Charles Wheatleigh appeared in the part of Shaun the Post, in which he has never been surpassed since he first introduced it to the public. Mr. Wheatleigh can't sing much better than a crow can, but no man has ever made the song of "Wearing of the Green" so effective as he does. Miss Jeffreys Lewis looked charmingly pretty and played the role of Arrah Meelish, naturally and well, Edward Arnott made a fine manly Beamish McCoul and W. G. Coggswell acquitted himself well as the O'Grady. John Hewson who at short notice assumed the role of Michael Feeny, (the engagement with Harry Thompson to act having fallen through) played it in a style which left little to be desired. E. J. Buckley, late of the California Theatre made his first appearance at this house on this occasion, and performed the part of Oiney Farrell, the wild Irishman, splendidly. Miss Mary Wells as Katy Welsh, was clever, as she is in every part she plays, and Miss Kate Browning as Fanny Power, Frank Rea as Major Coffin, and the others engaged in the representation filled their respective parts creditably. "Arrah na Pogue" will be presented every night until further notice.

California Theatre.

A large audience enjoyed the thrilling play of "Zip" last night, and Lotta received abundant applause for her songs, dances and queer little kicks. "Zip" is splendidly put on the stage. The water effect, in the first act, is capitally managed and reflects great credit both on scenic artist and machinist. 'Zip" will be played every night until further notice.

Opera House.

Billy Rice the black Demosthenes, Bobby Newcomb the great song and dance man, Ben Cotton the California favorite, Billy Arlington the liveliest of end men, and many others will appear tonight in the programme published on our first page.

Pacific Hall.

All who visited this hall last evening enjoyed themselves much in viewing the beautiful pictures of the Bay of Dublin, the Round Tower, the Giant's Causeway, Londonderry, Belfast, and hundreds of other places in Ireland listening to the sweet singing of Mrs. Baker, and gaining instruction from the lecture delivered by Mr. Henry Baker. Another exhibition will be given this evening.

Montgomery Queen's Great Show.

The present week is announced as the last of the great show. Romeo Sebastian, the new somersault rider is a great success. Miss Mollie Brown performs a wonderful bareback somersault at each entertainment, and Leopold and Geraldine, the Austins and others, whose names appear on our first page, present attractive specialties. The admission to the matinee is now fifty cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Waifs of New York" with its great sensational fire scene, the thrilling bridge scene, the educated monkey, and the capital acting of Miss Kate Raymond, O. B. Collins and others draws crowded houses. It is preceded nightly by a lively first part, and supplemented by a brilliant olio.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price, Miss Maggie Brewer and a host of others appear here nightly in a performance which never fails to give satisfaction.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Ali Ben Abdallah troupe of Bedouin Arabs, one of the greatest attractions ever presented at this place, appear again Saturday and Sunday. The big entertainment and ball for the benefit of Harry Andrews, takes place on Saturday evening. The Hot Creek Indians will appear.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.

Says Phillis to me—"What's the Transit of Venus,
That's causing the ships, in such numbers, to start?
I'll soon make it clear, love! First—lessen between us
The distance,—at present we're too far apart
Sit here on my knee—there that's right—now attend!
Raise your eyes to the ceiling and gaze on that speck;
Now form me a circle—a line without end—
By clasping together your arms round my neck
"Will that do?" says Phillis. Not quite, pretty pet—
A little bit closer. "Well there then—make haste:
Now tell me about it." No, darling, not yet
Till I place myself—so—with my arm round your waist!
Thus fix'd, I tell Phillis of planets and phases
Of cycles, of orbits, of discs and of rings;
Diameters—mean and apparent—and bases
Of planes, and conjunctions, and lots of queer things;
But when, nestling closer, with marks of surprise,
She still keeps on asking "what that and what this is?"
I smooth back her tresses! I look in her eyes!
And answer the rest of her questions with kisses!

SAN FRANCISCO, August 3, 1874.

Feminine Vagaries.

If to her share some female errors fall,
Look on her face, and you'll forget them all.

Brunettes are in fashion now, and the blondes are pale with envy.

Chandeliers with candles in them are the last pretty things for ear-rings.

A Jewish paper says that the present fashion of ladies' costume is almost exactly what it was in the days of King Solomon.

Decidedly the prettiest neck-ties worn at present are simple ones of Swiss muslin, with a fine black barbe placed over and tied in with the bow.

White waists with plaits set in, fan-shaped, wide at the shoulder, and narrowly gathered at the waist, are among the novelties of midsummer.

The Detroit Free Press professes to have discovered a young lady who blushes, goes to bed at nine, eats heartily, speaks plain English, respects her mother, doesn't want to marry a lord, and knows how to cook.

A Mrs. Olson, of Salt Lake, makes public declaration that in her opinion polygamy is as good for women as for men, and that she would like three husbands—one to live with and love, and the other two to help support her.

In a daily an announcement is made that "A refined young lady wants board in a refined Christian family." She wants no unrefined children, or other unrefined boarders. Wonder how she was refined? Was she strained through filtering-paper with powdered charcoal, or clarified, like coffee, with the white of an egg?

Ladies' are turning away from guipure laces on their newest grenadine trolettes, and are using fine French laces, which are excellent copies of the true Chantilly. A few exceedingly original grenadine costumes exhibit the main dress of the small-mesh fabric, with grenadine used to finish flounces, and so forth, as silk is ordinarily appropriated.

Fine Leghorn straw, of the style which our mothers wore when bonnets were bonnets, has come up for use by the Young Lady of the Period. The Leghorn hat is turned up and looped on one side, and smashed down and crumpled on the other. The more decided the smash, the more obvious the crumple, the "sweeter" the hat, in the gushing language of the young lady.

He Might Perhaps.

An exchange says: Alexander Dumas has dramatized the Walworth tragedy. He calls the play "Un Parricide," and in it answers in the affirmative the question, "has a son the right?" Doubtless Dumas feels equal to the task of revising the Ten Commandments.

The Terrible Heat.

Elder Knapp once described the terrible heat of hell by saying it was so hot that if a man were taken out of it, and plunged into the hottest fire of an earthly furnace he would freeze to death from the transition.

A Good Idea.

"John Paul" proposes to get up a company to insure people against hydrophobia, and thinks he can take risks at a very small rate.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

If one wishes to pass an hour or two pleasantly at the game of billiards, no pleasanter place can be found in the city than Chapman & Terrill's Billiard Parlor, Northeast corner Bush and Kearny streets entrance on Bush. From the window a good view can be had of two of our busiest streets Bush and Kearny. Local Option not in force; for the best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, are served at the bar for 12½ cents. 6-i

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-m
